Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300

PICKETS MARCHED Monday evening to protest the Wheeling Village Board's refusal to recognize the Combined Counties Police Assn. as bargaining agent for employes. Thirty-five persons, mostly police and firefighters, marched in front of the village hall.

Union seeks arbitrator in work dispute

A spokesman for the Combined Counties Police Assn. Monday night asked that an outside arbitrator be brought in to resolve a dispute over union representation for Wheeling village employes.

Leonard Jaglarski, executive vice president of the union, said the union would like to meet with the board before next Monday to discuss arbitration. He also called on the board to hold an election to determine whether village employes want to have union representation. Trustees denied Jaglarski's request, saying they will stand by an earlier decision not to recognize the union and its affiliate, the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes.

JAGLARSKI SAID employes were seeking representation "to have professional people represent their interests."

"Problems you are confronted with are the problems of today. The employes are only asking for the same benefits you have," he said.

Jaglarski said that if the board "chooses to make a fight, let the chips fall where they may."

"We want to meet with the board to stave off that kind of situation. We just want to resolve the problem," he said.

"If it comes to a battle, the only answer I can give to employes is there is going to be a fight. It's a sad day when the only casualty will be the citizens of Wheeling."

BOTH TRUSTEES and members of the CCPA accused each other of issuing "veiled threats" to village employes. Both sides denied the charges.

Wheeling village employes will meet Thursday with the CCPA, Jaglarski said, adding the group would "consider all alternatives."

Tad Leach, chairman of the employes' wage and salary committee, accused trustees of creating "an atmosphere of distrust and of disdain."

He said that employes "have been continuously subjected to closed doors, closed ears and closed minds." His statement was greeted by applause and a standing ovation by the 35 employes attending the meeting.

Union employes picket village

About 35 Wheeling employes Monday picketed the village hall to protect the village board's refusal to recognize their union.

The picketers, mostly members of the police and fire departments, carried signs protesting low salaries and poor working conditions.

The signs included, "The village board is to negotiations what Attila the Hun is to civilization;" "Representation as agreed — CCPA;" "We didn't mismanage the money;" and, "Executive sessions get out of the backroom."

THE EMPLOYES PICKETED the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd., for two hours before the regular board meeting. Their signs were greeted by honking horns from passing motorists, and an occasional "Give em hell."

Tad Leach, chairman of the employe wage and salary committee, said members of the Combined Counties Police Assn., will "go to whatever

"HOW CAN WE as employes have respect for the village board and their positions when they don't have enough respect for us to meet face to face," Jaglarski said.

Leach said that the board's "inept attempt at dealing with employes . . . can only be rectified by officials who are willing to live up to campaign promises of open government."

Trustees last month ended salary negotiations with village employes, saying there is no money available to grant pay raises in 1976-77.

The board also had reaffirmed an earlier decision not to recognize the CCPA or Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes.

Milwaukee Ave. repaving asked

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.

See map, Page 5

- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

Man dies after fall from ladder

A 36-year-old Chicago man was killed Monday when he fell 20 feet from a ladder behind a Des Plaines factory. Hector Moran Prado, 2237 W. Armitage Ave., was pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. His body was taken to the Cook County Morgue. Details of the accident were incomplete, but witnesses told fire department paramedics that shortly after noon Prado had been on ladder behind the Jeco Industries, 1297 Redecker Rd., when he fell.

Arlington to enforce curfew law

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night directed the village's police department to enforce the state's curfew law, although an Illinois appellate court last year ruled the curfew statute unconstitutional. Village Atty. Jack Siegel recommended that the board reinstate the policy of enforcing the state curfew law because the appellate court decision is being appealed, and therefore is not in effect. Siegel also predicted that the Illinois Supreme Court will overturn the appellate court ruling this fall.

Union employes picket village hall

Thirty-five Wheeling emploes picketed in front of the village hall Monday night to protest the village board's refusal to recognize their union. The employes picketed in front of the hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd., for two hours before the regular board meeting. In 1970, the police staged a 12-day strike to gain recognition for the Combined Counties Police Assn. Tad Leach, chairman of the employe wage and salary committee, said members of the union will "go to whatever lengths we have to get recognized." Union officials say more than 90 per cent of the village's 35 policemen and 80 per cent of the 17 firefighters belong to the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes, a CCPA affiliate.

Two arrested in holiday fires

Two Hanover Park residents have been arrested and a third is being sought for the Memorial Day fires at two Hanover Park houses only a block apart. Charged with two counts each of burglary and arson is Santos B. Segovia, 18, who was arrested after police, following a tip, found him and Pamela S. Dewey, 18, in possession of jewelry allegedly stolen in the incidents. The woman has been charged with possession of stolen jewelry and possession of narcotics. Police also are seeking Donald R. Blake, 18, in connection with the fires. The fires occurred within 10 minutes of each other May 31 at the homes of Frank D'argento and Gerald Schreibstein. No one was home at either residence at the time. Segovia and Ms. Dewey are to appear in Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court Thursday.

Leader in fight to oust Pikarski

Baldino reappointed to RTA post

The six suburban commissioners on the Cook County Board Monday reappointed Regional Transportation Authority board member Daniel Baldino to a term expiring in 1981.

Baldino, 34, has been a leader in efforts by the four suburban RTA board members to force the ouster of RTA Board Chairman Milton Pikarsky. Baldino's term was due to expire July 1.

In reappointing Baldino, County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect said, "The suburban commissioners have made abundantly clear their support for the position taken by the four suburban RTA directors that a change in leadership and direction for the RTA is imperative."

IN A PREPARED statement issued following the reappointment, Hansen said the idea behind the RTA is sound, but is being undermined by the present RTA administration.

He said, "Instead of a record of careful planning for the future, the RTA has spent much of its time putting out fires of its own making. Instead of carefully balancing transportation needs throughout the area, the RTA has clearly shown favoritism to the CTA (Chicago Transit Authority)."

There had been rumors around the RTA that Baldino's reappointment to the board might be in jeopardy because county board members were unhappy that he voted to hire Pikarksy in January 1975.

However, since March the suburban RTA board members have said they will refuse to approve the RTA budget until Pikarsky is removed. The four have veto power over the budget if they vote as a block because six votes of the nine-member board are required to approve expenditures.

A group of suburban legislators have expressed their support for the suburban board members' demand.

Paddock area contest winner

Bill Runkel in Washington for national spelling bee

by DAN BARREIRO

Spelling champions are starting to run in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Runkel, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Runkel once finished fifth in a citywide Chicago spelling contest, and her son Bill will represent the Northwest suburbs at the National Spelling Bee Wednesday and Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Bill flew to the nation's capital Monday to compete for the national title against 85 seventh-and eighth-grade champions from across the nation.

HE COMPETED against 250 seventh and eighth graders in the area spelling bee sponsored by Paddock Publications May 1, winning the championship on the 14th round.

"I'm a little nervous," Bill said Sunday. "It's pretty hard to keep it out of my mind."

There's plenty to be nervous about. The first place finisher wins $1,000, a cup and a plaque for his or her school. Bill, whose family resides at 508 S. Williams, is completing seventh grade at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

The runnerup wins $500 and the third place finisher receives $250. Every participant is awarded at least a $50 prize.

FOR BILL, spelling is not much of a chore. "When I'm asked to spell a word, I can see it in my mind," he said.

"I guess you could call it a photographic mind in that way," said Bill's mother, Barbara.

Bill has been spending an average of 15 minutes each day, studying from a list of 3,000 words.

"All of the participants are given a practice list called "The Words of the Champions," said Mrs. Runkel.

Bill's trip will also include sightseeing, a visit to the White House and a meeting with President Ford. He is being accompanied by his father.

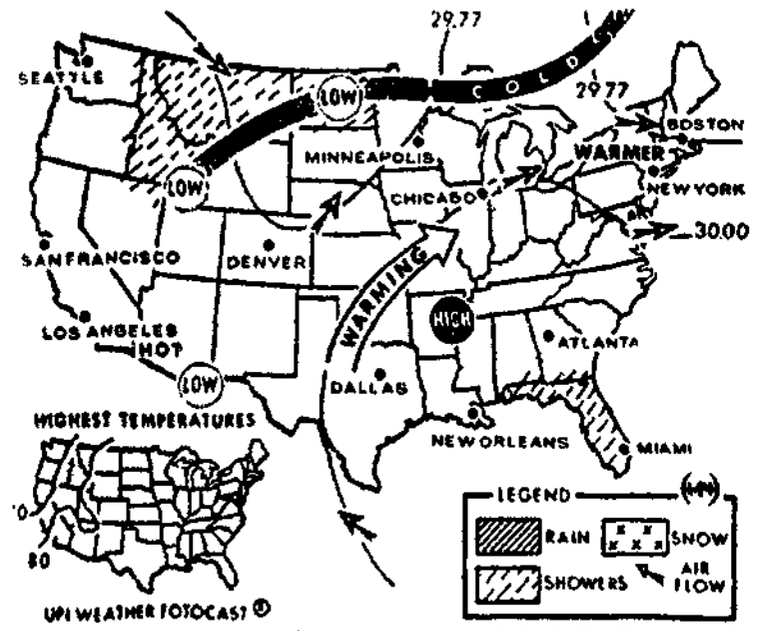

Bill is one of three Illinois representatives in the national competition. The others are from Peoria and Rockford.

A CONVOY OF leftist troops moves in to reinforce leftist and Palestinian positions on Beirut's airport road. The airport has been closed until further notice.

Syrian jets strafe Beirut

rolled west on the winding Damascus-Beirut mountain highway. They apparently met little resistance until they ran into a leftist ambush near Bhamdoun, 15 miles east of Beirut.

For the first time in Syria's week-old push into northern and eastern Lebanon, Syrian MIG jets screamed into battle, strafing leftist and Palestinian positions in the Bhamdoun area. But the leftists, putting up a desperate defense with rockets and mortars, destroyed four Syrian tanks to slow the invading column's advance, western newsmen reporting from Bhamdoun said.

The latest reports reaching Beirut said fierce fighting was still under way between the leftist defenders and the Syrian column trying to reach Bhamdoun.

Two warplanes attacked leftist and Palestinian positions in central Beirut, diving low over the Mediterranean to fire a volley of missiles at the port area, witnesses said. Planes swept over the capital throughout the day, meeting antiaircraft fire from Palestinian guerrillas.

The witnesses confirmed the planes were Soviet-built MIGs and carried Syrian markings.

It was the first time Syria has used combat planes to support its week-old invasion and the first time in the 14-month-old civil war that jet fighters went into action over the capital.

Syrian troops or Syrian-controlled guerrillas fought Moslem leftists and Palestinians on four fronts — throughout Beirut, near Bhamdoun, in the mountain area of Ain Tourah and Metein and in the southern port of Sidon.

Another column of Syrian tanks and troops struck north from bases in the eastern Bekaa valley towards leftist lines around the villages of Ain Toura and Metein, deep in the mountains 17 miles east of the capital. A leftist radio station said the Syrians shelled Moslem positions near the two towns.

Leftist forces also routed pro-Syrian Saiqa guerrillas in the port of Sidon, 28 miles south of Beirut, and stormed the Saiqa headquarters for south Lebanon, leftist radio broadcasts said. Saiqa gunners in the hills east of the city retaliated with a hail of mortar fire aimed at the port, they said.

Tax on interest, dividends urged

Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander said Monday that taxes should be withheld from interest and dividends just as they are withheld from paychecks. Alexander, in testimony to the Senate Finance Committee, said the Treasury is losing billions of dollars in revenue because thousands of Americans do not report interest on savings accounts, U.S. savings bonds, private loans and other similar transactions. However, a spokesman for the Treasury Department said the administration still did not have a firm position on what to do about the problem.

Evidence shows Hays innocent: aide

An aide to Rep. Wayne L. Hays said on the eve of Ohio's primary election the congressman has "massive evidence" to prove his innocence of charges he used federal money to finance a mistress. Carol Clawson, Hays' press secretary, said in a telephone interview Monday "We have a lot of evidence, we are just very anxious to obtain a legal forum to present it." Mrs. Clawson also said the congressman would probably put off until next week a decision whether to step down "temporarily" as chairman of the powerful House Administration Committee.

Flood waters run course in Idaho

Flood waters set loose by the collapse of the Teton dam in Idaho ran their course Monday toward the huge American Falls Reservoir after a two-day rampage that crumbled houses, smashed bridges, and drove nearly 40,000 persons from their homes. In its wake along the Teton and Snake rivers the flood left an 80-mile path of destruction estimated to have cost more than half a billion dollars. Six persons were dead, and there were reports of other bodies floating downstream. The number of missing was set at 153, and 183 injured.

No U.S. POWs in Vietnam: Hanoi

No American prisoners of war are still alive in Vietnam, North Vietnam said Monday, and any claim to the contrary is erroneous. Hanoi has refused to discuss the 2,550 Americans still missing in Indochina or repatriating their remains unless and until Washington resumes talks on paying for the damages caused by the Indochina war.

Kissinger arrives in Santiago

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Santiago, Chile Monday for a series of meetings he hopes will improve U.S. credibility with the developing world, particularly Latin America. Kissinger said in a brief statement that "the strengthening of the ties between the countries of the Western Hemisphere is one of the principle objectives of U.S. foreign policy." He was welcomed by Foreign Minister Patricio Carvajal, under routine security measures.

Court rules on federal power plants

U.S. enforces state pollution laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that states have no authority to enforce their air and water pollution laws against federally owned power plants such as the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In a pair of 7-2 decisions, the high court said that although federal facilities must comply with state pollution standards, the states have no power to require that they obtain licenses or to shut them down when state standards are not met.

Justice Byron R. White, who wrote both rulings, said Congress could override the court's decision with more specific language granting permit and enforcement powers to the states.

Kentucky, California and Washington argued unsuccessfully that since federal law required or permitted states to design their own pollution standards, there was an implied right from Congress to enforce the standards against federal facilities.

But White said that in the absence of "clear and unambiguous language" in the law, the courts would not infer a congressional intent to sacrifice federal authority over federally owned property.

The ruling means that although federal power plants are required under federal laws to meet state pollution tests, unless Congress amends the laws, any enforcement will be up to the federal agencies supervising the facilities.

The Justice Department told the Supreme Court that its ruling in the air pollution case brought by Kentucky would resolve similar suits pending in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and California.

Kentucky had brought suit to force the TVA, the Army and the Atomic Energy Commission (now the Nuclear Regulatory Commission) to obtain state permits to pollute the air. Washington and California asked the court to overturn an Environmental Protection Agency decision exempting federal facilities from state water pollution permit requirements.

The opinions were among seven handed down Monday, and the court announced it would convene again Thursday for more rulings — indicating the justices are anxious to clear up a record backlog of cases before the scheduled end of the term this month.

In other action Monday, the justices:

• Ruled unanimously that ranchers in arid Death Valley may not irrigate their lands so as to threaten the water level in Devil's Hole, the government-owned cave where the world's only surviving pupfish live.

• Ruled unanimously that consumer advocate Ralph Nader, one of over 70,000 persons who annually lose their reserved airline seats because of overbooking, can sue Allegheny Airlines for damages in federal court without waiting for a Civil Aeronautics Board regulation on the practice.

Atty. Reuben B. Robertson III of Washington, representing Nader, said the real meaning of the decision is that the airline industry "must face up to the problem in real fashin."

• Held that the state and federal governments can bar aliens from serving on juries, and agreed to rule next term on whether immigration laws discriminating against unwed fathers and their illegitimate children are constituional.

• Agreed to examine next term the constitutionality of a New York state law forbidding sales of nonprescription contraceptives to minors.

Mexico jolted by 'kick of a mule' quake

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A powerful earthquake with the "kick of a mule" sliced along a 255-mile zone of southwestern Mexico Monday, between this inland capital and Acapulco on the Pacific Coast, injuring at least five persons and causing scattered damage.

Striking at the rush hour of 8:27 a.m. with a force of 6.6 on the open-ended Richter scale, it sent frightened residents and tourists here running into the streets from buildings and hotels. Others said they swayed dizzily in creaking buildings.

One resident compared the jolt to "the kick of mule."

Broken windows, cracked walls and several small fires caused by electrical short-circuits were reported in Mexico City where the tremors lasted for at least three minutes.

Some traffic lights were knocked out, causing traffic snarls, and some buildings were left without electric power.

In the UPI office, on the 12th floor of a downtown building, a window pane shattered. Maps and pictures on the walls moved in jerky motions and file cabinet drawers snapped open.

There were reports of an earlier quake at about 3:45 a.m. but it apparently was not recorded.

First casualty reports came from Chilpancingo, capital of the Pacific coast state of Guerrero, near the epicenter of the jolt.

Chilpancingo is 130 miles south of Mexico City. Five persons, ranging in age from nine months to age 65, were hurt by falling walls in Chilpancingo, according to authorities.

Three school classrooms collapsed in Chilpancingo but a possible catastrophe was averted because children were assembling in an outside patio at the time, police said. No one was injured.

Chilpancingo police also said a motorist was "shaken" off the road outside the city by the force of the quake, but suffered no injuries.

The University of Mexico's Geophysical Study Center recorded the quake at "more than six" on the Richter scale. The United States Geological Survey at Golden, Colo., said it was 6.6.

By comparison, the earthquake which devastated neighboring Guatemala last Feb. 4 was 7.5 on the Richter scale.

Both quake centers put the epicenter of the Monday jolt in the general area of Chilpancingo.

At the Pacific resort of Acapulco, about 65 miles south of Chilpancingo, the quake was felt only slightly, authorities said.

Bicentennial year's final primaries today

by United Press International

President Ford and Ronald Reagan mounted frenzied campaigns Monday on the eve of the bicentennial year's final primaries in California, Ohio and New Jersey which could leave the two candidates for the GOP presidential nomination close to a deadlock.

Jimmy Carter battled liberals Morris Udall, Frank Church and Edmund Brown on three fronts in a bold bid to put him within striking distance of the Democratic nomination on the first ballot.

In the increasingly bitter battle for the Republican nomination, Ford made a final all-out push in Ohio. Reagan flew his chartered jet to key points in California.

Carter shuttled from Ohio to New Jersey in a last-minute campaign designed to bolster his delegate lead to a point — around 1,200 — that would kill off his active opposition and keep Hubert Humphrey from jumping into the race.

A relentless Udall and an exhausted Church concentrated on Ohio, hoping to stop Carter in the large industrial state. Brown campaigned in New Jersey.

The last three of the record-setting 32 primaries offered huge harvests of delegates — 540 for the Democrats and 331 for the Republicans or about one third of the number needed for nomination in each party.

Going into the primaries, Ford held 823-690 lead over Reagan in the number of pledged delegates with 1,130 needed for nomination. Carter was far ahead of the Democratic field with 911 of the 1,505 required to win. Udall was a distant second with 306.

The three-state showdown between Reagan and Ford appeared to shape up like this:

• Reagan, the state's former governor, appeared well ahead in California's winner-take-all primary and should add 167 delegates.

• Ford was favored in Ohio, despite a weekend of campaigning by Reagan. But the conservative crusader hopes to win somewhere around a third of the state's 97 delegates.

• In New Jersey, Reagan is not challenging in the "beauty contest" preferential contest and has not authorized a delegate slate although there is one called "Former Calaifornia Governor." Ford also does not have a slate for the 67 New Jersey delegates but the uncommitteds are virtually all his.

On the Democratic side, the three primaries look like this:

• Brown was a big favorite in his home state of California and the latest Field poll shows him winning 51 per cent to 20% for Carter and a trickle for others. The 280 delegates are the largest single bloc and will be apportioned among the candidates on the basis of the statewide popularity poll, giving Carter a shot at a sizable share even with a second-place finish.

• Carter is favored to annex Ohio, giving him his 18th primary victory and the largest proportion of the 152 delegates. Udall and Church are expected to split the liberal and anti-Carter vote.

• In New Jersey, Carter is not seriously challenged in the preferential contest. But his delegates are matched against an uncommitted slate, pledged to both Brown and Humphrey.

U.S. to the rescue of British pound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States said Monday it would offer $2 billion to the British government to help buttress the sinking pound sterling.

The United States joined nine of Britain's other trading partners in offering to put up a total of $5 3 billion to rescue the pound which has dipped as low as $1.70 on international exchanges in the past week.

It was the first time since the late 1960s the United States intervened in international currency markets to support the pound, whose purchasing power in world markets has declined 40 per cent in less than six years.

UNDER TERMS of the agreement, the United States will exchange $2 billion for pounds at the existing exchange rate. The pound stood at about $1 72 before the swap arrangement was announced.

Treasury Sec. William E. Simon said the swap would cost U.S. taxpayers nothing.

He said the Federal Reserve frequently intervenes in foreign exchange markets to maintain stability of other currencies as well as the dollars.

The primary beneficiaries in the United States will be investors and businesses with substantial pound holdings, Simon said.

HE SAID he did not believe the swap arrangement would go beyond three months, although the British have an option of extending for six months.

Simon said "only the market can determine" whether the British would use the full $5.3 billion offered.

The British government will pay the United States an interest rate equivalent to the Treasury bill rate, currently about 5.8 per cent, for the intervention.

The United States will offer the $2 billion in equal amounts from the Treasury Department's Exchange Stabilization Fund and from the Federal Reserve System.

THE RESCUE operation was organized within the Group of Ten, an informal group of major industrial countries which work together on economic matters

Italy, which has economic problems of its own, is not participating in the rescue action.

Switzerland is not a Group member but frequently becomes involved in group economic activities.

Stocks plunge to 958.09

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average Monday fell to its lowest level in nearly four months as snowballing interest rate increases sent prices skidding in the year's third slowest session on the New York Stock Exchange.

The closely-watched Dow average, a 9.90-point loser Friday, dropped 5.81 points to 958.09, the lowest level since it finished at 950.57 on Feb. 17. The blue-chip average lost 11.33 points last week.

Analysts attributed the loss to the fact that most of the nation's major banks, with the exception of First National of Chicago, have raised their prime rate a quarter point to 7¼ per cent since Friday. The prime rate has risen a half point in less than two weeks, they noted.

THE INCREASES partly reflected the Federal Reserve Board's recent credit tightening to combat a recent inflationary surge in the nation's money supply. The money supply has leveled off the past couple of weeks, however.

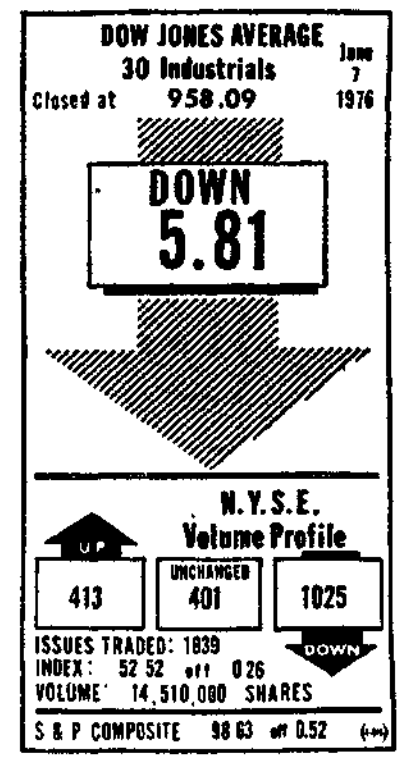

The setback was widespread. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.52 to 98.63, the NYSE common stock index fell 0.26 to 52.52 and the averqge price of an NYSE common share decreased by 16 cents.

Declines routed advances, 1,025 to 413, among the 1,839 issues crossing the tape. The 401 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty.

Volume totaled 14,510,000 shares, down from the 15,960,000 traded Friday.

Generally, investors paid little attention to outside news. Analysts said the market was suffering from a lack of bidding. Institutional investors generally are fully committed, having bought heavily in the first two months of the year. A number of observers said large investors may be adjusting portfolios and also taking profits.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased nine cents. Volume totaled 2,060,000 shares, compared with 1,810,000 traded Friday.

Ford OKs quota on steel imports

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford Monday announced he had signed documents imposing a quota system on imports of foreign made-stainless steel.

The president had threatened earlier this year to impose the quota unless voluntary restraints were met.

The quota applies to alloys and specialty stainless steel products, Ford said.

Steel producers have alleged that thousands of workers would be laid off if imports continued at current levels.

Strikes continue to plague nation

by United Press International

Union employes of the nation's 14th largest brewery went on strike Monday at Rochester, N.Y., but striking Teamsters Union members returned to their jobs at breweries of the nation's No. 1 beer-making firm for the first time since March 1.

A strike by workers who make and delivery ready-mixed concrete halted deliveries by Oklahoma City's three major concrete companies. Stink bombs fouled air conditioning vents of the strike-hit Alameda County, Calif., administration building.

On-train employes of the Frisco Railway threatened to strike Tuesday night in a quarrel over the railroad's action in tearing down lunchroom and toilet facilities in Springfield, Mo.

Negotiators tried to work out details of a tentative, unsigned agreement that averted a strike early Saturday by 5,500 flight attendants of Trans World Airlines.

THE NEW BREWERY strike by members of the Teamsters Union hit the Genesee Brewing Co. in Rochester and a company spokesman said it would virtually shut down production It was the first strike in the 43-year history of the firm, which produces 2 million barrels of beer a year.

A Teamsters Union official said 4,500 employes of Anheuser-Busch Inc., the nation's largest brewery firm, went back to work at plants in Tampa and Jacksonville, Fla.; Williamsburg, Va.; Merrimack, N.H., and Los Angeles, Houston and Columbus.

The back-to-work move came after the workers approved a compromise agreement on disciplinary action taken by the company for "unacceptable activities" by strikers during the 14-week nationwide strike.

Some 230 concrete company workers — members of the Teamsters and Operating Engineers unions — went on strike in Oklahoma's capital city and picketed three top ready-mix firms.

A COMPANY spokesman said the workers rejected an offer of a 30 per cent wage increase over two years.

About one-third of the 9,000 employes of Alameda County, in Oakland and nearby San Francisco "East Bay" communities, were in the sixth day of a strike for higher pay. Officials said county business was going ahead without major problems and the walkout would not affect Tuesday's California primary.

Six bombs of choking gas were hurled into air vents of the county administration building Sunday and workers who reported to their jobs Monday were greeted by the odor. A sheriff's office spokesman said the stink bombs were "strike-related sabotage."

J. W. REYNOLDS, an official of the United Transportation Union in Springfield, Mo., said the UTU has authorized a strike of conductors, brakemen, switchmen and engineers against the Frisco Line in a grievance over facilities used by railroad employes.

A railroad spokesman said the railroad had "received no notice of a strike."

Representatives of 2,000 striking members of the Hanford (Wash.) Atomic Metal Trades Council scheduled meetings with negotiators for four contractors Tuesday to try to settle a month-old strike that has brought more than $1 billion in construction to a halt.

Carpenters unit goes on strike

Members of the Chicago District Council of Carpenters went on strike Monday at two residential construction sites in suburban Lombard and Lansing after a split in the ranks of employers.

The council represents approximately 30,000 construction carpenters in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties.

Union officials said the walkout against De Cicco Overhead Doors, Lombard, and Alca Inca, Lansing, was approved by the full council after the two firms rejected a carpenters contract proposal.

The same proposal, calling for a $10.55 an hour wage and fringe benefits package over a three-year period, was accepted by an employers' group, the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Assn.

Alca and De Cicco, members of the Residential Construction Employers Council, rejected the proposal Thursday.

A union spokesman said the carpenters will negotiate individually with the 135 companies belonging to the residential council, but not with the council itself.

Rock Island asks to cut 2 rail lines

Rock Island Lines railroad service connecting Chicago with Rock Island and Peoria should be discontinued because of operating losses, the railway told U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr Monday.

McGarr took the request under advisement and promised a written opinion within a few days.

Nicholas Manos, attorney for Rock Island trustee William Gibbons, said the line is losing $1.8 million annually on the four daily trains. Assistant Illinois Atty. Gen. Hercules Bolos, representing the Illinois Commerce Commission, tried to intervene for state jurisdiction.

The Rock Island filed a bankruptcy petition in March 1975. McGarr was named to preside over the reorganization attempt.

Suit charges firm with price-fixing

The Justice Dept. Monday charged in a civil suit that E. I. DuPont deNemours and Co. Inc. used a cooperative advertising plan to suppress price competition in the retail sale of its Lucite paint.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Cleveland, charged that DuPont violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by requiring retailers to list Lucite prices as high as or higher than the DuPont suggested retail price. The suit seeks an injunction against further "restraint of trade" because it alleges the action carried on from 1970 to September 1974.

U.S. food prices show least increase

U.S. food price increases during the year from March 1975 to the same month this year were lower than in any of 14 other countries checked by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The agency's foreign agricultural service said Monday that U.S. retail food prices during March were 4.3 per cent higher than year-earlier levels. The increase compares to food price hikes ranging from 6.4 per cent in West Germany to 39 per cent in Brazil and 682 per cent in Argentina.

Encephalitis peril told by Lake County

by LORI OLSZEWSKI

Mosquito season is coming to Lake County and the Lake County Health Dept. is asking all municipalities and citizens to participate in a county-wide encephalitis prevention program.

Last year, 1,171 Illinois residents were infected with St. Louis encephalitis, a mosquito-transmitted illness. Fift-two of those persons died.

At a press conference to launch the encephalitis prevention program, Steven Potsic, director of the Lake County Health Dept., said, "Lake County shouldn't be lulled into a false sense of security just because none of last year's encephalitis cases occurred within county limits. Cook County is too close to be ignored."

POTSIC SAID prevention is very important because there is no cure for the disease. Once a person has been infected, doctors can only provide supportive care, to try and stabilize the patient's condition and relieve his symptoms, Potsic said.

In the early stages of the disease, those symptoms include fatigue, fever and a headache. Most patients recover from those symptoms within a few days without harmful effects. However, Potsic said, the infection becomes serious if those symptoms persist and are accompanied by a feeling of disorientation, memory lapses, tremors or convulsions.

If the viral infection enters the more serious stage, Potsic said, the patient may experience permanent damage to his kidneys, liver, lungs and brain. Approximately 10 per cent of the cases are fatal. Most of those cases involve infants and the elderly.

THE COUNTY has already begun its prevention program by eliminating mosquitos in their breeding places while they're still larvae.

The larvae are killed by spilling a small amount of oil on their breeding sites to cut off their oxygen supply. The oil evaporates in 24 to 48 hours.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health also is trying to control encephalitis by monitoring the birds who transfer the disease to the mosquitos.

JOHN MOCK, a county entomologist, said the cooperation of individuals is important because the Culex mosquito, which is the carrier, is "home-grown."

For laying its eggs, the Culex favors temporary pools and standing water such as flower pots, old tires, improperly drained gutters and vases holding cut flowers or cuttings. Mock suggests a backyard clean-up program to eliminate those breeding grounds.

"Those mosquitos usually never travel more than two miles from their birthplace, so what you and your neighbors do in your own backyard will determine the success of prevention," Mock said.

Garage owners are advised to spray the insides of standing tires with oil. Homeowners are advised to use oil, never gasoline, if water collects near their lawns.

To eliminate the mosquitos that survive these initial efforts, the county and municipalities plan to "fog" areas during the critical periods in July and August.

Residents question RTA existence

The Regional Transportation Authority received criticism from Lake County residents and mixed reviews from local transportation planners at a hearing Monday night attended by more than 50 persons at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

The hearing was to have been on the RTA budget and five-year plan, but residents questioned the existence of the RTA.

"You are assessing a heavy penalty to the senior citizen and everyone else," said Charles Kerry of Grayslake. "The money should be put back in the hands of the local community. Leave us our money and we will find us our own way to get around."

HERBERT REIMER of Lake Villa added, "I pay my own light and gas bills. Let those who use the CTA pay for it instead of coming out here begging."

Norman Wolf, Lake County Regional Planning Commission transportation chief, said the five-year plan was consistent with the county's transportation priorities, but he was concerned with budget deficits projects in future years.

The deficit projected for fiscal 1977 is $53 million, Wolf said.

The planning commission suggests transit projects be related to revenues and that priorities be set, Wolf said.

There were several references by RTA Board members to the widening split between the Chicago and suburban board members. Suburban board members intend to hold approval of the budget until Milton Pikarsky is removed as chairman of the RTA.

WAUKEGAN RTA Comr. Richard Newland asked Wolf whether Lake County could survive without the RTA budget. Wolf replied that there weren't many transportation services in the county.

Newland later said that the five counties surrounding Cook County pay two-thirds of the RTA funding while Chicago pays only one third.

"You measure who is paying the freight," Newland said.

The hearing was one of a series being held throughout the six-county region.

Fire destroys pair of vacant trailers

Fire gutted a pair of empty trailers Monday afternoon in the Whipple Tree Village Trailer Park, Wheeling firefighters said.

Firemen were investigating the cause of the blaze that started at 1:15 p.m. in the two vacant trailers near Buck Board Drive, in the mobile home park.

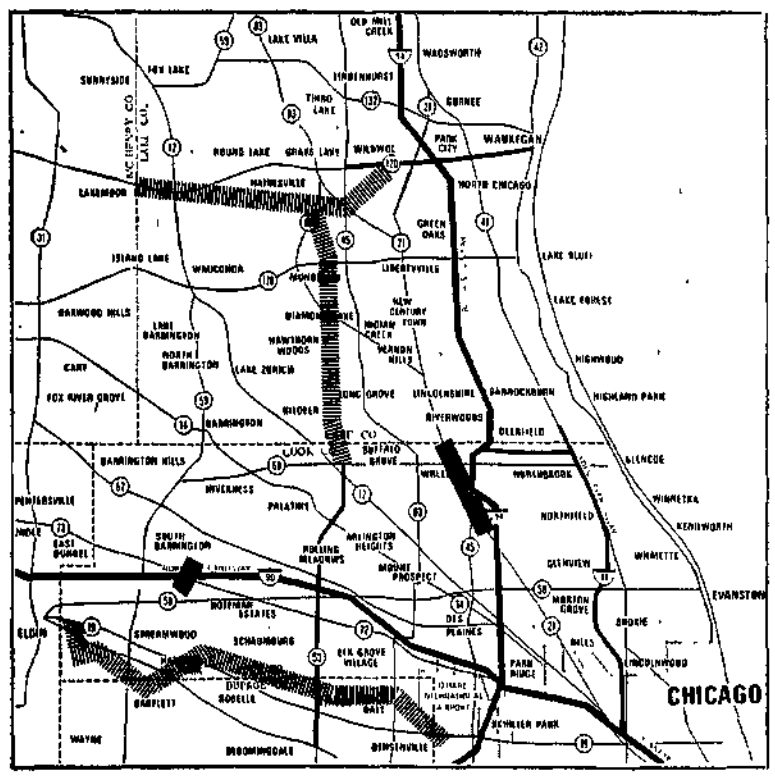

There was no damage estimate available because the trailers had been damaged by a previous fire and were moved into an empty lot.

Part of Weiland Rd. closed for widening

Weiland Road from McHenry Road to Busch Road is closed to all traffic for widening to four lanes, state highway authorities announced earlir this week.

Southbound traffic on Weiland will use Busch road to McHenry Road (Ill. Rte. 83) and northbound traffic will use the same detour in reverse. The detour will be lifted this fall upon completion of the project.

The widening is part of the Lake Cook Road construction from McHenry Road to Milwaukee Avenue.

lengths we have to to get recognized."

In 1970, the police staged a 12-day strike to gain recognition for the CCPA. An agreement following the strike said the board would recognize the "duly selected representatives of the majority of the Wheeling Police Dept."

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon said he was "greeted with kindness" by the picketers.

"They conducted themselves very orderly and haven't been rowdy. They haven't interfered with anyone," he said.

The picketers generally were courteous, although the arrival of Village Atty. John Burke prompted jeers from some of the group.

The picketers left their posts in front of the building and crowded into the village hall council chambers for the village board meeting.

Union officials said more than 90 per cent of the village's 35 policemen are CCPA members and about 80 per cent of the 17 firefighters belong to the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes, a CCPA affiliate.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Recovery of muscle fatigue is variable

Dear Dr. Lamb — How long do you have to rest before you regain your strength after exercise? After I have done some exercise I seem to need to rest quite a long time before I can resume exercising. I'm trying to get in shape but want to do it the right way.

Dear Reader — Fatigue is difficult to measure and quantitate. Sometimes it is related to psychological factors and other times to metabolic factors.

Laboratory studies of measuring muscle strength have shown that if you fatigue a muscle it will take about 45 minutes for it to recover its strength completely.

Under ideal circumstances, though, the muscle will regain about 70 per cent of its strength within 30 seconds and will be recovered enough to contract to 85 per cent of normal within seven and a half minutes.

Work studies have shown that it is better not to work to exhaustion and then rest. You will be able to do more work by stopping and resting a few minutes before you are excessively fatigued. The rest period to recover is much shorter when you use this method.

ANYONE INTERESTED in exercise should understand how the muscles work. I am sending you an issue of The Health Letter number 1-9, Exercise, Muscles, which will give you a basic information about muscles and how they work. Others who want this issue can forward 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What would yo do if a child's mother had been given DES while carrying her baby?

My daughter was home on vacation and she has been depressed after learning and hearing about effects on a girl born to a mother on this drug. My daughter's girl is now 13, and she is sure she was given DES when she was pregnant.

I talked to our family doctor about it after she left. His advice was to ignore it. He said, if she had been given the drug what could you do about it?

That is the reason I asked you the question. Would you please give me an answer?

Dear Reader — With all due respect to your doctor if he really told you to forget about it I can't agree with him. This is certainly a real danger and your daughter is right to be concerned.

What should she do? She should take her daughter to her gynecologist right now and have a check-up. Then her daughter should be followed carefully for an early sign of any malignancy. I hope she never develops one but the truth is that daughters of mothers who took diethylstilbesterol (DES) to maintain a pregnancy now face the possibility that the daughter might develop cancer of the vagina. It is a rare but very dangerous cancer. The best safeguard is the earliest possible detection, and if it should occur, immediate treatment. A delay could be fatal.

Incidentally there is now evidence that male babies may also have some abnormalities as a result of DES being given to the mother. Fortunately the changes that are suspect do not include cancer.

Easy screen patch is less costly than door

Dear Dorothy: We've got a couple of holes in the kitchen screen door and each time I've been at the hardware store I've been tempted to buy one of those patching kits. But we've had so much grief with the put-it-together-yourself toys and so forth, that I'm "from Missouri" these days. Surely there are better ways of fixing these rips? —Amanda Cooper

This is one do-it-yourself bit where you're overly suspicious, Amanda. The screen patches work easily. You just trim the hole in the screen to make smooth edges. Cut a patch an inch larger than the hole, and bend the wires at the proper places. It's really quite easy and you save the cost of having the entire door screen replaced. That's the only other alternative. Buy that patching kit this week.

Dear Dorothy: Others with the same problem might like to know how we solved the problem of a five pound "rock" of sugar. Turned the oven to 250 degrees, let it get warm and then turned off the oven and put in the bag of sugar. Let it warm for 10 minutes. The outer part of the sugar "rock" softened. Kneeded the bag enough to loosen this outer portion, made a small hole and poured off the granulated sugar. All we had to do was repeat this process. It was easy and thorough. —Lynn Pierce.

Dear Dorothy: While it's a gracious thing for friends to send flowers when you're ill, it's even more thoughtful when a friend makes a double recipe of the casserole she is having for dinner and brings some over for you and your family. —Laura Kennerly

Know how you feel. One of the nicest things that ever happened during one of my hospital stays was when Erma Dick had a luscious, full-course dinner sent right into my room.

Omni House Director

He values human relationships

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

RICHARD WYNN, right, and Peter Digre discuss Omni House, a youth counseling bureau which Wynn helped found. Wynn, a Palatine resident, has been a life-long student, teacher, counselor and administrator. He believes that working with people is "essential in life."

"What is important and essential in life is the value of human relationships, not money."

Richard Wynn, teacher at Jack London Junior High School, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School District 21, is a gentleman of philosophical bent. And he's one who puts his ideals to work.

Wynn helped found Omni House Youth Services Bureau and has served as president and advisory board member. The Bureau serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Vernon Township and Arlington Heights.

"IT TOOK TREMENDOUS time and effort from a dedicated group of people working along with me," Wynn said of Omni House beginnings. Dr. Peter Digre now implements programs designed to help kids and families in trouble at the community level, offering them opportunities for personal development.

Prestigious recognition subsequently awarded to Omni House for its workable programs pleases and gratifies Wynn. For example, the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges used Omni House as a case study of exemplary youth programs published in their Conference Handbook at the Third National Conference of Juvenile Justice.

And Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission cited Omni House as an example of exemplary youth services, as did Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, Wynn reported.

"Omni House is unique. It works. And it works because a group of ordinary citizens makes it work," he said.

Wynn's main concern for some 25 years has been enriching his personal growth, serving his community, and teaching and counseling pre-teens and teenagers. "What I want most to communicate to youth is they can accomplish anything they want if they are willing to work hard.

"DEMOCRACY WILL work if its citizens do," he believes. And that's what he demonstrates.

A scholar with four college degrees, Wynn rigorously followed his own advice until a serious illness forced him to curtail his extensive community involvement. Since then, he has returned to teaching, which is less strenuous and takes less time, he explained.

The first counselor hired by School District 21, Wynn started as a teacher seventeen years ago. He has also been a director of research and testing and director of special education.

A 1943 graduate of Arlington High School, Wynn attended De Paul University where he earned bachelor's degree in philosophy in 1949, intending to go into counseling.

HOWEVER, HE GOT sidetracked. For ten years he worked in insurance and as a railroad roundhouse timekeeper and crew dispatcher. At that time he also attended Loyola University where he earned a master's degree in social and industrial relations.

After Loyola, he began studying at Northwestern University where he completed a master's in counseling in 1967. From there he went to Northern Illinois University and in 1975, was awarded a certificate of advanced studies — a doctorate without dissertation.

He's now working toward another graduate degree in counseling. For Wynn, a member of Mensa — the international high IQ society — achieving academic goals is a rewarding way of life, along with sharing his expertise and talent.

"ALL THE GROUP efforts I've been engaged in are with people committed to something bigger than they are. I appreciate these contributing kinds of people," he mused.

As for his experiences with youngsters, Wynn sees today's kids in a positive, hopeful light. "Most kids I see are healthy, worthwhile and well directed. Some are troubled . . ."

A bachelor and 18-year-resident of Palatine, Wynn handles his own domestic chores, plays poker, and enjoys being part of informal groups of friends. He loves all kinds of music, drawing, painting and sculpture.

A published writer and co-author of educational articles, Wynn is an avid reader, enjoying a personal library of some 3,500 books.

"Education should be a lifelong process. It doesn't necessarily have to be limited to classrooms," he believes.

BPW clubs will attend conference

Members of 11 business and professional women's clubs in District III will be attending the Illinois Federation Leadership Conference Sunday at the Holiday Inn-O'Hare/Kennedy.

Clubs in District III include Barrington Area, Crystal Lake, Elk Grove Village, Lake-Cook, Mid-Lake, Mount Prospect, North DuPage, North Glen, Park Ridge, Schaumburg Area and Skokie Valley.

The program, presided by state officers and committee chairmen, will consist of workshops for local officers and chairmen to assist them in leadership and to develop federation objectives. At a luncheon after the morning sessions Yvonne Hirsch of Tinley Park, Illinois Federation president, will introduce the 1976-77 state officers and committee chairmen to the assembly.

Newly-elected officers of District III are Jacqueline Krepl, Crystal Lake; Rita Cooper, Barrington Area; Dorothy Karger and Norma DiVito, Mount Prospect.

Happenings

October in June

An out-of-season event, an "Octoberfest" party, will be held June 19 in Wheeling. Sponsored by The Spares Sunday Evening Club, the affair will be held at 8 p.m. at the Gladstone Glen Apartments, 1509 S. Wolf Rd.

The evening will include swimming, singing, dancing and food. Committee members planning the party include Muriel Hogarty of Arlington Heights; Shirley Crowther and Jim Garrison of Des Plaines; Lorraine Collings, Palatine; and Mary Garber, Wheeling.

Cost of the party is $7 and Mary Garber is taking reservations at 459-0026.

Clipped Wings install

O'Hare Chapter of Clipped Wings, United Airlines Stewardess Alumnae, will hold an installation dinner Saturday at Nordic Hills Country Club.

New officers being installed are: Mrs. Chloe Ann Brown, Lake Forest, president; Mrs. Judy Ahmer, Arlington Heights, vice-president; Mrs. Cheryl Jensen, Barrington, secretary; and Mrs. Maureen Drum, Barrington, treasurer.

Future plans include a family picnic Saturday, June 19 at Lakewood Forest Preserve, Wauconda, and the Clipped Wings National Convention July 19-23 at the Olympia Princess Resort, Oconomowoc, Wis.

Clipped Wings will recess for the summer and resume again in September. Membership is open to all former and present United Airlines and Capital flight attendants. For information, former stewardesses may call Mrs. P. Hamilton Brown, president, 882-2226.

County Board approves punch card voting system

The Cook County Board Monday officially approved a switch in the county's voting system from lever machines to punch card ballots and computer counting.

The board approved a bid of $4,359,800 from Computer Election Systems Inc. of Berkeley, Calif. for the new system, which will be used in at least two Congressional districts and perhaps in the whole county for the November general election.

The new system will use computer punch cards as ballots. Election judges will use mini-computers in each polling place to count the ballots once the polls close.

County election officials said they plan to install the system in as many of the county's 2,300 polling places as possible, but are not sure they will get enough equipment from the company to convert the whole county.

The new election system is similar to systems being used in Lake and DuPage counties.

In other county board action:

• Chicago commissioners appointed former State Rep. Matt Ropa of Chicago to replace the late Comr. Charles Bonk on the board. Ropa, who served in the Illinois House from 1955 to 1972, was sponsored for the post by Chicago Ald. Vito Marzullo, Democratic committeeman for the 25th Ward. Bonk, who last year was acquitted of federal bribery and extortion charges, died of a heart attack in April.

• Agreed to lend support to Downstate counties which are trying to get lights at all railroad crossings in the state. The Downstate efforts are the result of several recent multiple fatality crashes at unprotected rail crossings.

Metro briefs

Housing program told

A one-year trial program to place 400 families needing public housing outside the inner city and into apartments in the six-county metropolitan Chicago area was announced Monday by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

Both HUD and plaintiffs in a suit challenging alleged discriminatory housing patterns in Chicago agreed to postpone for at least a year their attempt to get a court order scattering public housing.

Under the joint agreement, apartments in the six-county area would be rented by either those now living in public housing units or those on a waiting list, HUD attorney Robert R. Elliott said.

HUD would subsidize rent payments to the landlords who voluntarily participate in the program and oversee the program's administration. Local housing authorities would be paid a $100 occupancy fee to place the families.

While landlords will not be coerced into accepting program participants, current laws will prohibit them from bit them from discriminating on a racial basis.

Surgery for Walker

Gov. Daniel Walker was to enter Highland Park Hospital Monday night for an operation to remove his gall bladder, a spokesman for the governor said. The operation is to be performed Tuesday or Wednesday. The spokesman said the governor would go directly to the hospital after arriving from Providence, R.I., where he attended the graduation from Brown University of his son, Charles, 2d.

Walker was expected to remain in the hospital for about 10 days before returning to Springfield, the spokesman said.

BGA chief asks city audit

J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the Better Government Assn., Monday called on Mayor Richard J. Daley to launch an audit of City Treasurer Joseph Bertrand's office to determine if Bertrand used his position to reward or punish banks.

During a news conference, Brunner said Bertrand's receipt of more than $400,000 in loans from banks that receive city deposits could be just the beginning of further revelations.

"If he was using funds in this manner, what else was going on?" Brunner asked. "If the city lost funds, this could be determined by an audit."

Illinois briefs

House ends wrangling; OKs school aid formula

The Illinois House, after days of wrangling and parliamentary infighting, Monday shaped a school aid formula bill which would primarily benefit Chicago and downstate unit districts.

The measure would provide about $102.9 million in additional state aid next year than the current school aid formula if the formula is fully funded. Of the increase, $28.9 million would go to Chicago and $56.5 million would be shared by the state's other unit districts.

Elementary districts would get $17.4 million and high school districts would receive $59,000.

It is unlikely, however, that the legislature will approve enough school aid money to fully fund the formula.

The final touches were put on the measure in the form of an amendment by Rep. Michael McClain, D-Quincy. That amendment would change the formula to make it easier for those districts to qualify for maximum state aid.

Other provisions which already were in the bill include:

• Permission for wealthy districts to increase their education tax rates without losing state aid.

• Permission for districts to include their transportation tax rates in their state aid calculations, which would make it easier for them to qualify for maximum aid.

• Calculation of attendance figure on the basis of an average of the past three years, rather than merely the past year's figure.

COLLINSVILLE LAWYER Dakin Williams sang another song for reporters Monday as he announced he will run for governor on an American Independent party ticket. Williams said the ticket would be headed by George Wallace but Wallace spokesmen have denied the reports. Dakin's song said: "Big Jim can't win — Howlett will foul it — Dakin ain't fakin.'

Highway worker funds OK

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday signed into law a bill appropriating $3.1 million to pay 3,000 state Dept. of Transportation workers who were sent layoff notices last week.

Walker's action allows the employes, mostly highway maintenance workers, to return to work from a one-day layoff.

Transportation Secy. Langhorne Bond said Monday the department has set up a telephone network to call the workers back to their job if Walker signed the bill. He said he thought the workers could return to work Tuesday.

The measure (H3427) passed the Senate earlier in the day by a 37 to 4 vote. It pays through June, when the present fiscal year ends, a salary increase negotiated for the highway workers last winter. The pay hike is reflected in the fiscal 1977 department budget.

Bond said last week notices had been sent to the maintenance employes because the Illinois General Assembly had delayed action on the bill, which was introduced in April.

Pollution alert on

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency Monday declared an air pollution yellow alert for parts of Madison County that lie north of I-270 and west of I-55. The alert, effective at 2 p.m., will remain in effect until agency officials issue a notice that the alert has been dropped.

The yellow alert status is the second step in the state's four-stage control plan designed to protect the public by reducing high air pollution levels during periods of stagnant weather.

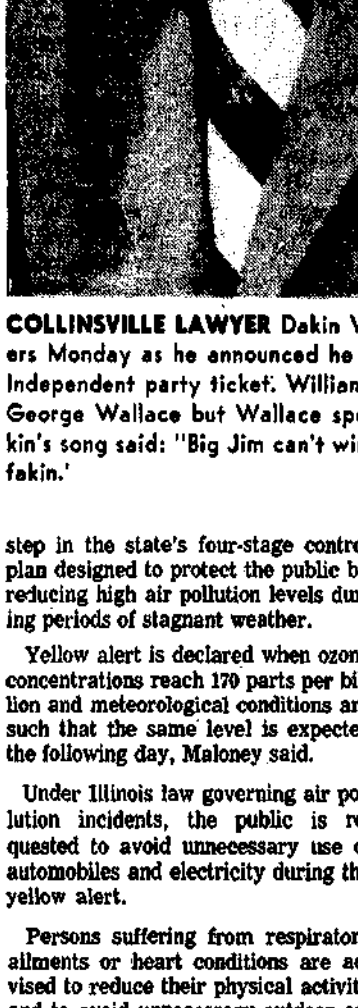

Yellow alert is declared when ozone concentrations reach 170 parts per billion and meteorological conditions are such that the same level is expected the following day, Maloney said.

Under Illinois law governing air pollution incidents, the public is requested to avoid unnecessary use of automobiles and electricity during the yellow alert.

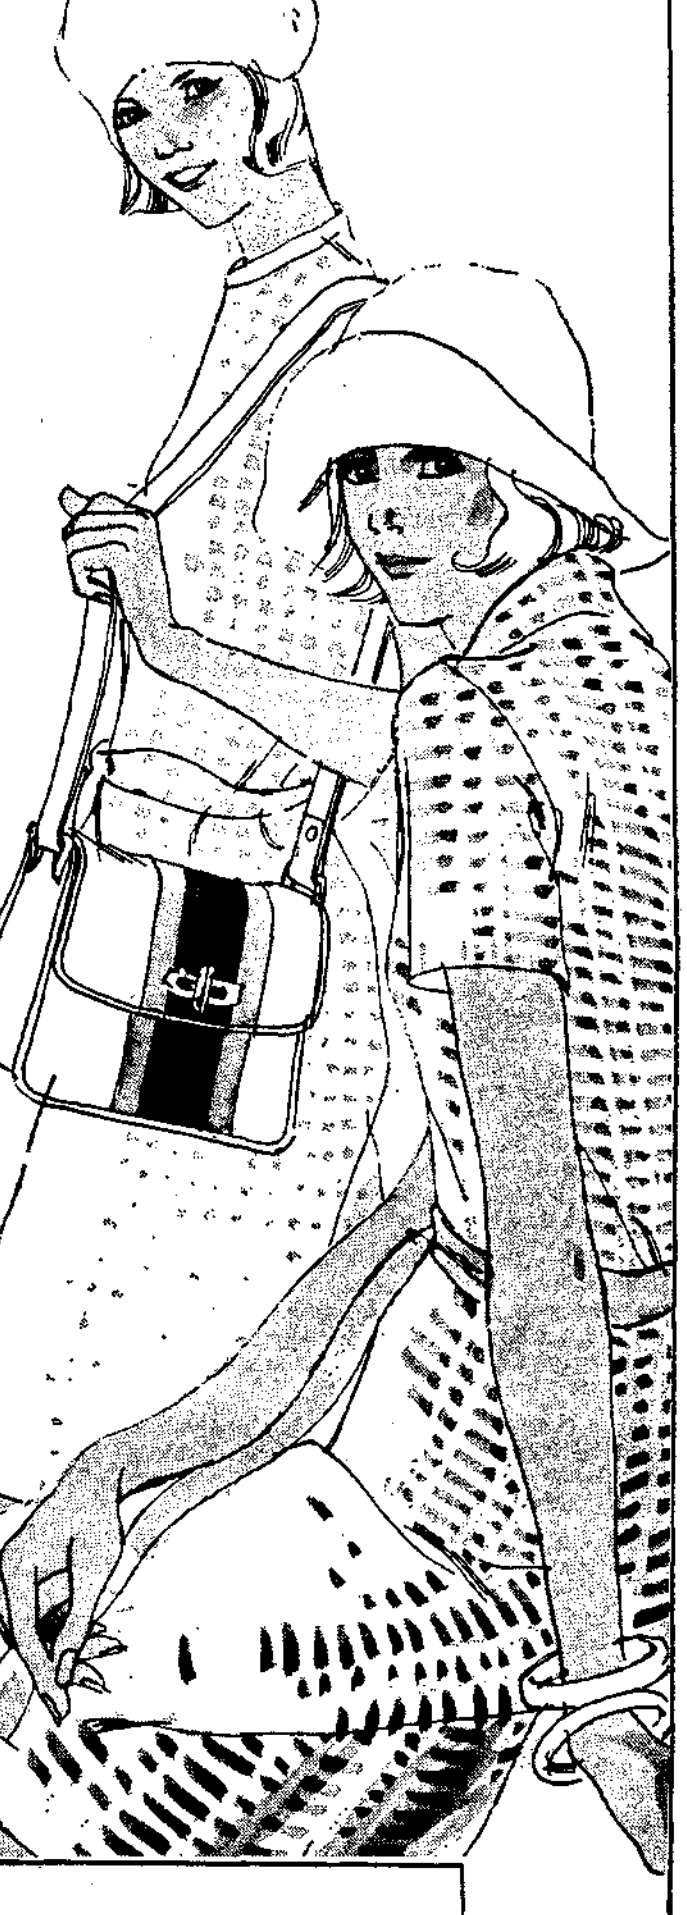

Persons suffering from respiratory ailments or heart conditions are advised to reduce their physical activity and to avoid unnecessary outdoor exposure.

Skiing among pleasures of Austria — but there's more to this country

Editor's note: Herald Travel Writer Jill Bettner was part of a group of travel writers from the United States who participated in a press tour of Austria earlier this year.

The trip was sponsored and paid for entirely by Trans World Airlines and the Austrian National Tourist Office.

by JILL BETTNER

AUSTRIA—Savoring the last drop of wine served with an inimitable Austrian feast, a native Tyrolean friend put down his glass, turned and said with a wink, "Here we don't just live life —we reach out and gr-r-rab it!"

It's true. Hale and hearty, the robust Austrians work hard, play hard and laugh often. Their enthusiasm for the simple pleasures is contagious: An exhilarating afternoon's skiing high in the mountains followed by an evening of good food, pleasant company and a dose of Tyrolean merriment and you're hooked.

The pleasures, including skiing, are there for enjoying year-round and Austrians like nothing better than to share all the fun with their guests. Whether you choose inexpensive "pensions" run by families in the many small Alpine hamlets, the adventure of staying in a medieval castle-hotel or the modern luxury of the elegant Vienna Hilton, you'll find the same warm hospitality and hosts anxious to please.

SOMETIMES CALLED the most European of countries, Austria, a once-mighty empire, preserves its heritage and traditions with strong national pride. The great cities — Vienna, Salzburg, Innsbruck — are as cosmopolitan and sophisticated as any in Europe, but life in the rural areas remains much as it has been for centuries.

Many Tyrolean ski areas are within a walk or short ride by train or car from the picturesque rural hamlets. The trains serve nearly all ski areas with frequent runs.

The availability of inexpensive rail transportation, plus the fact that hotel and pension rates are usually lower if you stay at least seven days, makes it wise to pick one village as home base while you're in Austria and then plan short side trips to other areas.

On a nine-day trip to the Tyrol late in February, our group had a chance to see five very different ski areas in the Tyrol plus some of the sights of Vienna. Each of the ski resorts, besides offering a certain brand of skiing, has its own unique personality.

ALL OF TYROL'S highest ski resorts are situated in the Oetzal Alps. The season here is considered to last from the beginning of December through the first of June, but Alpine skiing at the top altitudes is available year-round.

In these mountains, one of the most popular resorts is Hochsolden, connected to the village of Solden below by a chairlift and a narrow, winding road that allows only one-way traffic. Each hour, the direction of traffic is reversed on this treacherous path that is almost as much of a thrill as schusssing down some of the more challenging ski runs. The Oetz Valley Glacier Cableway, Austria's highest cablecar, goes to several slopes that can be skied until the end of May.

The high altitude of Hochsolden (about 7,900 feet above sea level) makes the area fun for both skiers and sun worshippers. Lounge chairs outside the restaurants at the mid-station and summit are always filled with people enjoying a cup of mulled wine or a beer while they catch a few rays.

Solden, in the heart of the Oetzal and Stubai Alps, is a winter holiday resort town with a variety of shops and several cafes and bars for tea-dancing and relaxing in a friendly, Tyrolean atmosphere.

TEA-DANCING IS one of the great Tyrolean customs. It has been described to me as the "mating ritual" among skiers in Austria. The ritual involves stopping by a local gathering spot for late-afternoon apres-ski coffee and a pastry or maybe a drink for purposes of meeting someone with whom to spend the evening. The dancing is incidental.

There are a number of popular ski trains that connect Solden-Hochsolden with the area of Zwieselstein about 2½ miles away.

The regions of Vent and Obergurgl, also in the Oetzal Alps, are other popular areas for ski-touring. Vent is a small, centuries-old village with beautiful Catholic churches displaying medieval works of art.

Obergurgl is called the "glacier village" of Austria and offers year-round skiing. It also is considered to be a little more trendy than the other Oetzal Alps resorts because of the large number of cafes and night spots that are popular with the single set.

BOTH THE SKI areas of Obergurgl and Hochgurgl, which is higher up still, get their names from the babbling mountain streams that do, indeed, "gurgle" All of the areas in the Oetzal Alps are served several times a day by bus from the Oetztal express train station. Collectively, they have the reputation of having excellent practice slopes and instruction for beginning skiers plus ski trails and runs for advanced ski tourists and downhill enthusiasts.

No matter where you ski in the Tyrol, it is almost mandatory to go with a guide or someone who knows the mountains. Although trails in some areas are well-marked, many are not and getting lost can be very dangerous.

Some of the best glacier skiing in the Oetz-Stubai Alps region is at Neustift, where the long, wide open gentle runs are in use year-round.

The center of tourism in the Stubai Valley, Neustift has numerous mountain lodges and quaint alpine inns. The glacier is reached by cablecar. For nightlife, the Olympic city of Innsbruck is just 16 miles away with bus transportation available.

THE VILLAGE of Mayrhofen in the Zillertal Valley, popular with families both in winter and in summer, has a ski mountain on each side. Both are served by cablecars that are within walking distance of a number of hotels and pensions. There's also a free ski bus that circulates through the village all day long.

Ex-Olympian Rikki Spiess-Mahringer is codirector of the ski school and runs the mountain-top children's nursery. She's also the American Skier's Best Friend in Mayrhofen and well-acquainted with the 13 miles of ski runs.

A lively town, Mayrhofen has a number of stores and shops as well as a community sauna (men's and ladies' nights alternate), a movie, plus several excellent restaurants.

Rich and hearty, Austrian food is one of the country's biggest drawing cards. Specialties such as goulash-suppe, weiner schnitzel, venison dishes and the incomparable Austrian pastries reflect the influences of other countries that were once part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Both noon and evening meals are always sumptuous and prices in restaurants nearly everywhere are reasonable.

FROM MAYRHOFEN, it's fun in the summertime to take the Zillertalbahn narrow guage steam locomotive from the village to Zel-Ziller, just outside Kitzbuhel. Friendly engineers will let you drive the hobby train and blow the whistle.

Kitzbuhel, home of numerous Olympic and world ski champions, is the oldest commercial ski center in Austria and world-renowned for its innumerable practice slopes served by 78 cablecars, mountain railways, chairlifts and T-bars.

The resort is one of the few ski spots in Austria where chairlifts are used extensively. Our guide, Gerhard Markus of the Austrian National Tourist Office in New York, said it is felt that T-bars are safer for getting around on the slopes because they keep the leg muscles in use and therefore, warm. Chairlifts, Markus said, can be more likely to cause a skier to develop muscle cramps from riding them in the crisp mountain air.

A cosmopolitan city, "Kitz" is the favorite of the skiing jet set for its wide variety of chic shops and exciting nightlife in the bars, discotheques and casino.

ACCOMMODATIONS IN Kitzbuhel range from inexpensive rooms in private homes and "bed and breakfast" pensions to many first-class hotels.

In Kitzbuhel as well as in many other places throughout the Tyrol, rates for accommodations, cable railways and ski lifts are lower in summer and up until Christmas. After the holidays, prices usually go down again during January and until Easter. Advance reservations are absolutely necessary during the Christmas and Easter seasons.

Trans World Airlines offers a number of ski packaged tours to Austria. The schedule of tours to be scheduled during the 1976-77 season will be available later this summer. For information, contact your travel agent or TWA.

A number of other trans-Atlantic airlines besides TWA also serve Austria with the nearest airports to the Tyrol region in Munich and Zurich. There is also an airport in Vienna. No visa is required to enter the country, just a valid passport.

Look up a friend

When you get to Austria, look up a friend — your American skier's Best Friend, that is, the special host at 15 different ski resorts throughout the Tyrol who is there to help you get the most out of your vacation.

Host to more U.S. skiers than any other part of Europe, the Tyrol welcomes American visitors with an offer of lots of free advice from a local expert on the area.

More than likely, your "best friend" in each resort will be someone who grew up skiing the mountains surrounding the village. It might be former Olympic skiing champion Rikki Spiess-Mahringers, who's the American Skier's Best Friend in Mayrhoven or a Tyrolean folklore expert like Iggi Praxmair of Kitzbuhel.

ALL OF THE "best friends" speak English, of course, because it's their job to answer any and all questions American skiers might have — such as where to find the best snow, the easiest way to get to the slopes and how to avoid runs you might not be able to handle once you get up there.

The "best friends" can also tell you how to enjoy yourself off your skis, too, with a dip in an indoor pool at Kleinwalsertal, a lively tea dance in one of the restaurant/bars in Obergurgl or in the casino in Seefeld.

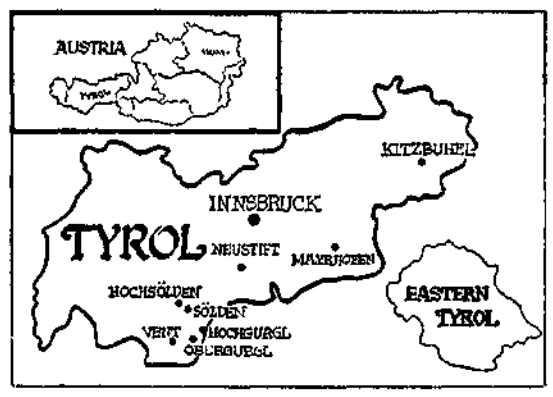

In case there's a problem over a hotel bill you do not understand or you have a gripe about something, talk it over with your "best friend." That's another part of the job.

When you arrive at any of the 15 Tyrol resorts participating in the American Skiers' Best Friends program, a letter should be waiting in your hotel room or gasthaus from the person who has volunteered to be the official "best friend" of all American visitors. The letter will tell you where to meet him or her, probably at the local tourist office.

On your first night in town, join your "best friend" at the "American Table" reserved in one of the local gathering spots and sign the official American guest register that automatically makes you eligible for the Free Vacation Sweepstakes. If your name is drawn at the end of the season, you'll get a chance to come back to Austria for a week with all expenses paid.

The American Skiers' Best Friends program is sponsored by the Austrian National Tourist Office. The Chicago branch is located in the Standard Oil Building, Suite 5130, 200 E. Randolph St., Chicago.

Despite Bicentennial celebrations

10% increase seen in travel to Europe

by United Press International

The U.S. Bicentennial celebrations are expected to have little effect on American travel to Europe this year.

In fact, the European Travel Commission already is forecasting an increase of about 10 per cent over 1975, when more than three million Americans visited the continent.

The strengthening of the U.S. dollar on the foreign exchange markets was cited as one key factor in the upturn, which the ETC said began last fall. Figures released by the U.S. Passport Office showed travel to Europe up 7 per cent in September, 14 per cent in October, and 12 per cent in November compared with 1974.

The new low-cost One-Stop Tour Charters and other cost-cutting special air fares and tour packages also are expected to help make Europe a popular tourist destination for Americans once again.

HERE ARE REPORTS from UPI bureaus in some of the major capitals on the tourist picture for 1976:

• London — Americans coming to Britain will find their dollars travel further than ever before because of the devaluation of the pound. The pound dropped from about $2.40 a year ago to as low as $1.92 in March.

"There is a definite advantage to the American tourist at present," said Kevin Pakenham, chief economist for the American Exchange Bank in London. "The recent drop in the value of the pound has done more than required to offset the rate of inflation."

How long the advantage lasts, he added, "depends on how long it takes the rate of inflation to catch up."

"American tourists will get a better deal this year," said a spokesman for the British Tourist Authority. "Our survey on the number of American tourists expected to visit Britain this year is exceedingly promising."

HOTELS ARE plentiful in London and the range of prices will fit almost any budget. There are hotels offering bed-and-breakfast from $6 to $12 per person. The top-rated establishments begin at about $20 single and proceed upwards.

The cheapest meals are available in hamburger joints, Indian and Chinese restaurants and Greek kebab houses — from about $2 to $6 per person. Middle-range restaurants go from about $6 to $12 each, expensive eateries from $12 up to $30 and more per person.

One of the biggest bargains for the American visitor is the theater. An estimated 42 per cent of all tourists went to see a show last year. Tickets for seats begin as low as $1.20, with the top price about $7 — about what it costs to go to the movies in New York.

• Rome — The one bright spot in Italy's gloomy economic picture is that the lira's tailspin will mean a travel boom of Americans. Rome tourist officials expect Italy to rejoin Britain and France in the "Big Three," a role it lost in recent years to Greece, Spain ad Yugoslavia, which offered more value for the travel dollar.

THE PLUNGE in the lira means Americans will be getting a lot more lira this year for their dollars than in 1975. A year ago, the dollar fetched about 635 lira. This March, the dollar bought around 850 lira.

An average hotel room for two in or near Rome's historic center is around $20 per night, but adequate pension accommodations can be found for around $12, including breakfast. An average meal, including wine and tip, can cost between $4 and $6. But those on tighter budgets can eat nourishingly for half that if they take the time to look.

• Paris — The French tourist industry has more fear of the stronger franc than the Bicentennial. Prices in Paris are markedly higher than elsewhere in France — except in the Riviera during the season.

Rates in deluxe hotels are comparable to those in New York — about $40 per person daily up. But there are scores of good hotels offering rooms for two with private bathroom for about $28. For tighter budgets, a room for two with bathroom down the hall will cost about $9 per day in smaller hotels. Breakfast of bread, jam and beverage is usually included.

Paris boasts numerous world renowned — and expensive — restaurants. But there are others where a steak dinner costs only $4, including salad, wine and dessert.

Travelers who need medical help, try this

Developing an illness abroad, whether it's a minor sore throat or something serious, can be a frightening and confusing experience.

Especially in non-English speaking countries, it can be difficult first to communicate the problem to medical authorities and then to be sure of getting the proper treatment.

The International Assn. for Medical Assistance to Travelers is a doctors' organization that offers free help for tourists in 450 cities in 120 countries.

The organization is a nonprofit foundation financed entirely through donations from the tourists who are members of the group.

Members of the organization receive a pocket-sized directory listing IAMAT centers abroad and their addresses, along with telephone numbers and an official membership card that makes them eligible for IAMAT services.

For additional information on the group, write Dr. V. Marcolongo, president, 350 Fifth Ave., Suite 5620, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Grande dame of culture

Tales of Vienna's moods

VIENNA — Wien, beautiful Wien. City of culture and Olde World grace, of art treasures and places that once belonged to some of the most famous names in history—Hapsburg, Maximilian, Marie Antoinette. This is Austria's grande dame and one of the most enchanting of all European capitals.

Patron city of the arts since the days when it was the seat of the Holy Roman Empire, Vienna is a fascinating cosmopolitan center where the glow of the city's past splendor shines through to the present.

The treasures of 20 centuries are preserved in the many palaces, churches and museums of the city. The music of the great Viennese masters — Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert and Strauss — is performed continually in the never-ending series of operas, concerts, recitals and operettas staged here. The State Opera is one of the few in Europe that schedules performances 10 months of the year.

OUTSTANDING EXAMPLES of medieval, Renaissance and Baroque architecture fill the inner city or Innere Stadt, a square mile that is a sightseer's paradise. Many commercial bus tours circle the "Ring" that follows part of the wall that once surrounded the city.

Inside the curving promenade is St. Stephen's Cathedral, famous for its ornate carvings. From its spire, one can get a magnificent view of the city. Nearby is the Augustinerkirche on Karntnerstrasse, where the remains of the Empress Maria Theresa and many Hapsburg rulers are entombed.

The Hofburg, Imperial Palace and winter residence of the Hapsburgs, is a huge compound with magnificent gardens, and an exhibit of the crown jewels that includes the Crown of the Holy Roman Empire that is almost 1,000 years old. Here, too, is the Stallburg (Winter Riding School) where the famous Lipizzaner Stallions "dance" from fall to spring.

Just outside the Hofburg are two of Vienna's most beautiful small parks — the Burggarten and the Volksgarten.

AMONG VIENNA'S many resplendent baroque palaces, the Schonnbrunn Palace, the summer residence of the Hapsburgs on the outskirts of the city, is one of the most outstanding. The Schonnbrunn is usually described as one of the most colorful of all palaces in Europe with its walls painted an array of bright pastel colors. Here, the imperial state-carriages are on display.

Other palaces to see include the Belvedere, the Peterskirche in the Inner City and the Karlskirche, just outside the Ring on Karlsplatz.

The Vienna State Opera House is on the corner of the Ring named for it. Tours are available of the elegant building where elaborate operas are staged from July through September.

Also around the Ring are the Museum of Natural History and the Fine Arts Museum, along with the Albertina that is said to have the best collection of prints and drawings of all the museums in the world.

FOR RELAXING at the end of a tour around the Ring, there is Stadtpark with its monument to Johann Strauss. Prater Park, just across the Danube, is a summer amusement center complete with ferris wheel and other rides. In the summer, at the two parks, there are also outdoor concerts performed by the Vienna Philharmonic and Vienna Symphony Orchestra.

Cruises on the Danube are available only in the summer.

VIENNA'S RINGSTRASSE or "The Ring" circles the central city that is a sightseer's paradise of art and architecture, monuments and museums. The square mile area is called the Innere Stadt.

Interesting excursions to points outside the city by bus or rental car include the short trip to the Vienna Woods, where pie-covered hills offer excellent views of the city below. This is also a favorite recreation area of the city's residents.

Restaurants in Vienna range from wine taverns where you can get a light lunch and the unique Konditorei for pastries and such delicacies as vegetable souffles and roast squab to first-class elegant restaurants such as the dining room of the Hotel Sacher. The fmous Sachertorte (a light chocolate cake with oodles of "schlag" or whipped cream) melts in your mouth.

THE CITY HAS a number of casinos and nightclubs featuring all types of music, from romantic mood tunes to rock, and many large cafes also have dancing.

Vienna's main hotel center is in the Inner City. It is wise to book reservations well in advance during the summer season, the peak tourist time. In addition to Vienna's many fine hotels, there are a number of lake resorts and private homes just outside the city limits that have rooms for rent. Off-season rates from October to May on all types of accommodations can be as much as 50 per cent lower than in the summer months.

Tips on clearing U.S. Customs

An important part of an American citizen's homecoming after a trip abroad is clearing U.S. Customs — bringing into the country purchases made during foreign travel.

The Air Transport Assn. says that being forearmed with basic information about customs regulations will help the returning U.S. resident get through customs with minimum delay.

The first thing to know is that you may bring back to the U.S. duty free up to $100 in foreign purchases. And if the value of your purchases does not exceed $100, you may make a simple oral declaration to the customs inspector. All you do is fill out a short form supplied to you before landing by a flight attendant. The form is presented to the customs inspector at the time of baggage inspection with the spoken statement "nothing to declare."

However, there are certain conditions you must meet when making an oral declaration:

- The articles must accompany you when you return.
- You must have been out of the country at least 48 hours. (There is no minimum time requirement for the U.S. Virgin Islands or Mexico).
- Only one such exemption is allowed within a 30-day period.

If you are returning from the Virgin Islands, American Samoa or Guam, you are entitled to a $200 exemption. There is no duty-free limit on the value of articles purchased in Puerto Rico; it is as though you were traveling from one U.S. state to another.

Only one quart of alcoholic beverages is included in your exemption if you are returning from a foreign country. This goes up to a gallon if you are returning from the Virgin Islands, American Samoa or Guam.

Regarding tobacco, there is no limitation on the number of cigaretter for your personal use and up to 100 cigars may be included in your duty-free quota, provided they are not made of Cuban tobacco. If so, they will be confiscated by Customs.

If you exceed your duty-free allowance, you must provide a list of all articles purchased, showing the amount paid for each. To expedite passage through Customs, it's good judgment to prepare the list beforehand. If you are unable to provide evidence of purchase cost, those items on which duty must be paid are assessed at the retail value as determined by the examining Customs officer.

ATA says one way to make certain that you are well informed on what to expect at point of entry when returning from a trip abroad is to check with the nearest airline or travel agent where complete and up-to-date information on most aspects of foreign travel is available.

Hays case rattles Capitol skeletons

by RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A study some time back by a scholar working with the Brookings Institution gave evidence that the Senate and House of Representatives act only on wrongdoing by members which becomes so publicized as to embarrass the whole of Congress.

More disclosure of crimes — misuse of power or government funds, bribery, corruption, payroll padding and such — have been cause for action only infrequently by the courts and almost not at all by the legislators. The exceptions have been, as in the case of Adam Clayton Powell, so sensational that action could not be avoided.

With this in mind, it is logical to suppose Rep. Wayne L. Hays, with all his power, may possibly be in for a beating. Not for his wrongdoing, of which virtually everyone on the Hill was aware, but because he failed to keep it swept under the rug.

The case of President Nixon and his aides brought no general cleanup of politicians in high places. We can conclude that punishment given Hays will not lead to a follow through on the guilty Congressmen.

TO ILLUSTRATE the point, let us go back to Jan. 13, 1975. On that day, Common Cause, in a series of reports on committee chairmen in the House, outlined the ways in which Hays had abused his vast powers as chairman of the House Administration Committee, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and "ultimate controller of staff payrolls, allocator of offices and furniture, overseer of the House Information System and . . . dispenser of parking spaces"

At that time, Common Cause reported:

Since becoming chairman, Hays increased the number of employes on the House Administration Committee payroll from less than 50 to more than 200 — twice as many as any other House committee.

Using his power as chairman of the House Administration Committee, Hays refused to release the paycheck of a staff aide of another member because the aide was arranging for witnesses to testify for his member's bill which Hays opposed.

HAYS THREATENED to withhold paychecks of other House employes, including a member of the Speaker's staff whom the Speaker had assigned to help with a proposal Hays opposed.

During the impeachment investigation, Hays threatened to cut the Judiciary Committee's impeachment staff after getting into an argument with two committee interns in an elevator.

Hays refused to authorize funds so that the 93rd Congress Select Committee on Committees, which Hays didn't like, could have its hearings printed as a House document.

After a Government Operations subcommittee issued a report which displeased Hays, he used his power as then chairman of the Accounts subcommittee to cut the full committee's budget in half.

Common Cause also accused Hays of using his committee power to intervene illegally in House and Senate election campaigns to assist candidates he personally supported.

Despite these charges, in the next go round Hays was continued as chairman of the House Administration Committee and the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, though not without a hassle.

The point is that Hays has been able to use his power to put roadblocks in the way of those he does not like. But he also uses his power to help those he favors. Those he has helped fear they won't get the same favored treatment from his successors.

In this, they are his partners, profiting from his actions. They are not about to vote him out unless extreme publicity and embarrassment forces them to act. There are also men, of course, who fear that if they oppose him, and fail, reprisals will be quick and certain.

There's also another matter. Many senators and House members have skeletons in their own closets. Few want to open Pandora's Box.

The way we see it

Program review reasoned

The evaluation of education programs in Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 deserves careful consideration, and the decision of the board's education committee to make this its top priority for the summer months is a good one.

Dist. 96 uses the Individually Guided Education (IGE) method of instruction, a program that has evoked controversy in the school community almost from its beginning four years ago.

The system, used in an open classroom format in Dist. 96, is designed to give students individualized instruction while also giving them responsibility for their learning.

Some parents have been critical of the program, saying although it works for many students, others cannot cope with the distraction of the open classrooms nor handle the amount of responsibility thrust on them.

Last week the committee invited parents who have withdrawn their children from Dist. 96 to discuss their dissatisfaction with the program. Inviting criticism took courage, but it gave committee members a good base to work from in their evaluation.

The committee meeting was a forum for constructive, informative discussion. We hope the tone set there is carried through other evaluation sessions.

IGE is an innovative program, and any innovation will have its staunch defenders and detractors.

IGE has been an annual election issue and a frequent topic at board meetings. We urge parents, teachers, board members and administrators to resist the temptation to turn the district into a battleground with one faction attacking the other.

A district's education program is the single most important part of any school district. It is essential that board members be aware of the quality of their education program.

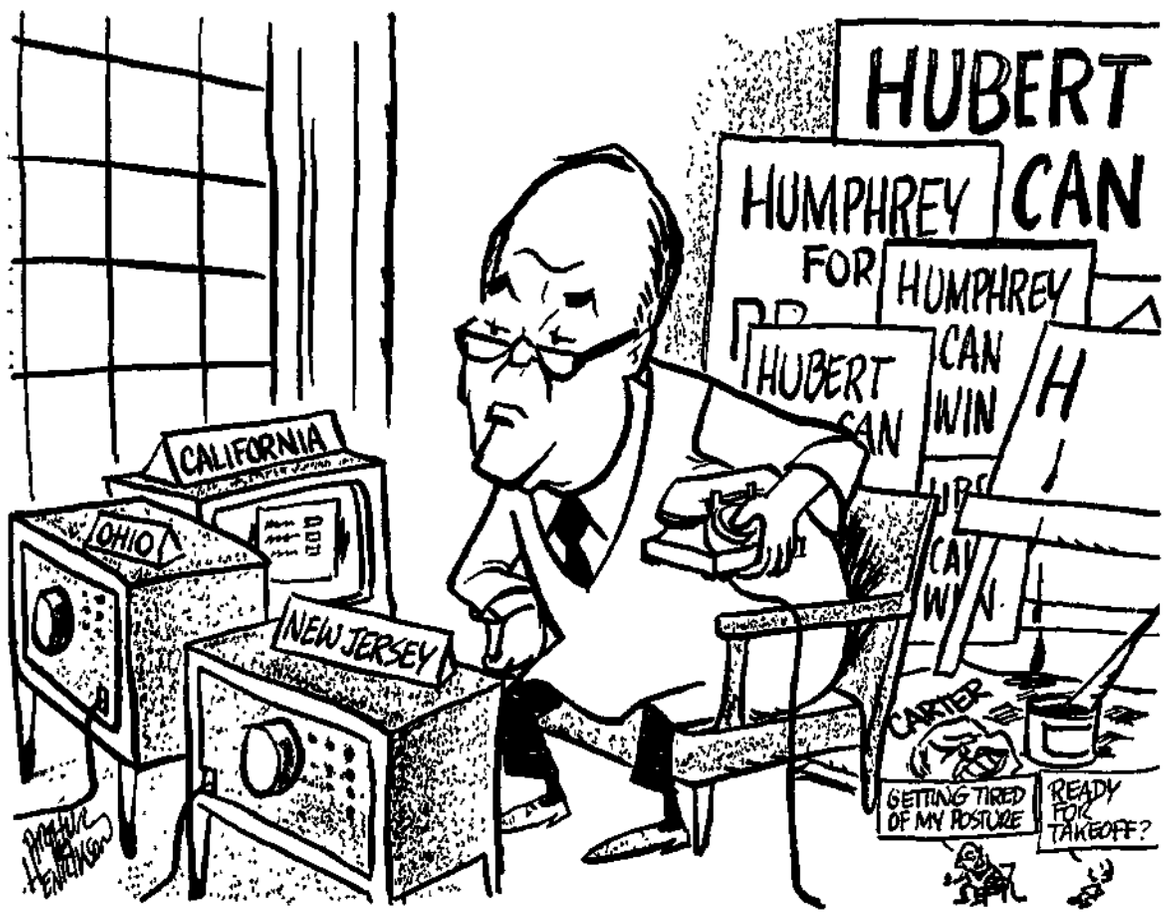

A thorough and open analysis of IGE is needed in Dist. 96 for the board to make decisions on what, if any, changes need to be made. That analysis can only be achieved in a spirit of cooperation among the committee, the staff and the community.

Both views of abortion issue offered

Pro...

The legalization of abortion is important to all, but especially to women because it recognizes them as people, rather than mere reproductive instruments of the state. No longer will women be forced to have children they may not want or they are unable to care for.

The shift in thought since the legalization of abortion has not been from one of pro-life to anti-life as anti-abortionists emotionally declare. Instead it has shifted from viewing life in terms of quantity to viewing life in terms of quality. It is ironic that anti-abortionists don't recognize this as being humane.

The strictly emotional appeal of those who oppose abortion gives the impression that a woman who has an abortion is murdering a live human being, when actually a fetus is not viable, that is, it is not even able to survive by itself until the last 10 weeks of the pregnancy during which time states can, through individual initiative, prohibit abortion. By bringing in both the law and facts (upon which the law is based) we are presented with a much clearer view of the issue.

The Supreme Court, in determining its stand on abortion in 1973, has determined that the Constitution's definition of "person" has application only postnatally. To not perform abortions under legally specified conditions is to violate the Due Process Clause of the 14th Amendment in which the term "person" was interpreted by the Supreme Court to not refer to the unborn. In concluding that a fetus is not a "person" under the Constitution, but that it "represents only the potentiality of life," the rights of a grown woman are legally established as superior to the rights of a fertilized egg.

I fully support the decision of Northwest Community Hospital to perform abortions during the first trimester of pregnancy in full compliance with the laws of the United States.

In reading the May 20 Fence Post in which you unfairly printed five con, one pro arguments on Northwest Community Hospital's abortion decision, I object to your slanted editorializing.

Print this to your holier than thou readers who want to impose their will on everyone else. Abortion is an individual's decision, as it should be, for that person has to live with it. Becoming a "human being" takes more than conception. It takes love, education, guidance and many other things that require a tremendous amount of time. If a parent can't devote that time he has no business having a child by mistake or otherwise.

(Editor's note: The 5 to 1 ratio reflects the fact that the overwhelming majority of letters received on this issue have been anti-abortion.)

Con...

To the woman carrying an unplanned pregnancy, or soon to become pregnant against her will!

Before you go to your doctor asking for an abortion to be performed at Northwest Community Hospital, reflect on the loss you will suffer.

This is the child who will never be brought to you, or an adoptive parent — red-faced, squalling, kicking with new life. This baby will not slumber sweetly in your arms, and "smile" due to a gas bubble. "The most beautiful baby" in your world.

Could this child grow in 13 years to be kind and sensitive? When his grandmother dies he grieves openly and unashamed, but goes to his job that helps pay for lessons in the sport he early loves. When he feels the pain of loss — closes himself in a room so no one will know — comes out and carries on his work still smiling and friendly. He is growing up.

IS THIS THE GIRL approaching her teens who loves people, and working with small children. She is pretty, but doesn't believe it. She is shy and needs help building her confidence, but possesses a strong character and determination others now perceive.

Is this the two-year-old boy who almost died at Northwest Hospital? Tears in our doctor's eyes — a nurse crying. They cared so much, as it seemed so hopeless. He survived, and now is a typical 10-year-old who gets into more of his share of fights; occasionally bringing a complaining parent to our door. He perseveres, and walks 17 miles to collect for the March of Dimes.

Perhaps a small nine-year-old girl — combination tomboy, little mother, uncomplaining worker — full of laughter, dreams — love.

Your child could be a six-year-old, full of mischief and endless chit-chat. Some day when you walk into his first grade class, he will run to you, pull you down, smack a "wet" kiss on your face saying "I love you Mom."

Please remember — A child is unique. Aborted, his truest potential is denied fulfillment.

Worthy of note

On Wednesday May 26, our two dogs somehow got out of our fenced yard. Our schnauzer was struck by a hit and run driver. Two young men passing by stopped to comfort Shelley. A young girl ran to get another fellow to drive them to a vet. Our neighbor found our other dog, and we left for the vets where our little dog quickly died.

We didn't lose a dog, we lost the brightest bit of sunshine in our scruffy character, Shelley. Our wish is that these young people, at a time when they need help, will receive as kind and generous a gesture from an unexpected source.

Proposal due Thursday

Lindberg to unveil plan to avoid boost in taxes

by STEVE BROWN

State Comptroller George Lindberg Monday said new fiscal data suggests a "tax increase is absolutely required" next year. He added, however, he has a blueprint to avoid a tax hike which may not completely close the door on new taxes as a solution.

Lindberg talked in general terms about the plan, which will be presented to the Illinois General Assembly Thursday.

In an interview with The Herald, Lindberg said, "If followed, the plan will give the state the strongest possibility to avoid a tax increase next year."

LINDBERG HAS predicted serious state fiscal problems since 1975. He refused to offer specifics of the plan Monday and indicated the final version of the proposal was not completed.

The comptroller refused to rule out the implementation of any new state taxes as part of his plan.

When asked if the plan would require the state to obtain any new revenue sources, Lindberg said, "I don't want to comment yes or no on that at this time."

Lindberg did say the plan would "probably not" require any new taxes. He also declined to explain if the plan would require approval of the legislature.

THE CRYSTAL Lake Republican, who faces Democrat Michael Bakalis in the November election, said he wanted to delay comment on the plan until he presents the proposal to legislators.

Lindberg explained that within the last two weeks his office has received updated economic information which has allowed for new projection on state revenues until July 1, 1977, the start of the 1978 fiscal year.

The comptroller has warned in the past that the state is spending more than it takes in. He has predicted that the state may temporarily be unable to pay some of its bills in October because of cash flow problems.

He said Monday there are "insurmountable odds against" the state avoiding a tax increase during the next 12 months.

HE CONTENDED, however, that his plan provides a formula to direct the governor and General Assembly on how to avoid a tax hike.

When Gov. Daniel Walker introduced his budget for the coming year in March, Lindberg warned the legislature about $100 million would have to be cut from the $6 billion spending plan.

Walker's 'speedup' tax bill killed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill (UPI) — The tax collection "speedup" plan which Gov. Daniel Walker says he needs to balance next year's budget was killed Monday in the Illinois House.

Despite predictions that failure of the measure would mean a tax increase this fall, the first of the two major bills got only 43 of the 89 votes it needed for passage and the second got only 32.

The package would have accelerated payment of sales taxes and state income tax withholding from merchants and employers into the state treasury.

Walker had estimated the plan would have pumped an additional $95 million to $100 million into the treasury this year.

He and Rep. Jack Beaupre, D-Kankakee, who sponsored one of the measures, argued the greatest crunch facing the state will come this fall, before the full impact of the national economic recovery makes itself felt in increased revenues.

If the acceleration program were passed to help the state through that period, they said, the higher level of tax receipts resulting from an expanding economy could delay the need for a tax increase indefinitely.

New name, new rule, new look

Vietnamese prepare for changes

by ALAN DAWSON

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Late this month, Vietnam will get a new look, a new government and a new official name.

Official Vietnamese media have reported that preparations already have begun for the first meeting of the 492-member National Assembly, which will approve the changes in the new Vietnam.

Few of the details are known yet. But it is clear the assembly, elected in nationwide balloting April 25, will approve unanimously the decision to reunify the nation.

FOR THE FIRST time since 1946, Vietnam will be one country. Hanoi will become the national capital, and it is probable the current North Vietnamese anthem and flag will become national symbols.

Presumably, the makeup of the new government already has been decided upon by the 11-man Politburo in Hanoi, which has run all of Vietnam since the surrender of the last pro-American government in Saigon April 30, 1975.

Most analysts of Vietnam affairs believe North Vietnamese President Ton Duc Thang and Vice President Nguyen Luong Bang, aged revolutionaries, will keep their posts under the new administration.

THE ACTUAL MAKEUP of the government will be closely watched, however, to determine how the Politburo intends to deal with the touchy problem of North-South relations.

Reunification officially will wipe out what is commonly known as the Viet Cong — the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) which technically holds the powr in South Vietnam now.

Technical terms for Viet Cong organizations — National Liberation Front, People's Liberation Armed Forces, People's Revolutionary Party — will be no more. Some minor official groups already have merged their northern and southern branches under new names.

True South Vietnamese — those residents of the nation living in Saigon and south of the capital — have long been suspicious of North Vietnamese intentions. A move to stack the new government with North Vietnamese could bring trouble in the south.

BUT THERE IS no indication the Politburo intends to ignore southerners in the new power structure.

All the Viet Cong leaders — NLF president Nguyen Huu Tho, PRG president Huynh Tan Phat, Viet Cong Foreign Minister Nguyen Thi Binh — are expected to be part of the new national administration. What power they will wield remains to be seen.

According to Mme. Binh, the top vote-getter in South Vietnam in the April elections, Vietnam after this month will be represented abroad by a single national delegation.

Hanoi presumably will drop all demands that both North Vietnam and South Vietnam be represented in the United Nations, for example.

But details on this are fuzzy. South Vietnam only last week established relations with Nigeria, a strange step for a nation that supposedly will no longer exist in a month.

TRAVELERS FROM Saigon recently say they have been told by officials there that the southern city will remain "an important center," mostly in the economic field.

But whether there will be foreign residents remains to be seen. Last year at this time, PRG officials were searching for embassy space for 82 countries, a search that was halted last autumn.

All foreign missions in Saigon except the French consulate were closed a month ago and diplomats left the country. The French have been told, diplomatic sources say, they will have to close up in Saigon after the foreigners leave by French-chartered aircraft, probably later this year.

Thre is no doubt the 11 members of the Hanoi Politburo of the Vietnam Workers party will continue to make the major decisions concerning their country.

How much others will share in the power may begin to become clear later this month.

Gas dealer official calls for resignation of Walsh

Robert Jacbos, executive director of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Assn., last week called for the resignation of Illinois Fire Marshal Robert G. Walsh.

Jacobs said Walsh is an employe on leave for the Marathon Pipeline Co. The firm is a subsidiary of the Marathon Oil Co. Jacobs said Walsh's study of proposed self-service gasoline sales regulations for the state reflect oil industry rather than consumer interest.

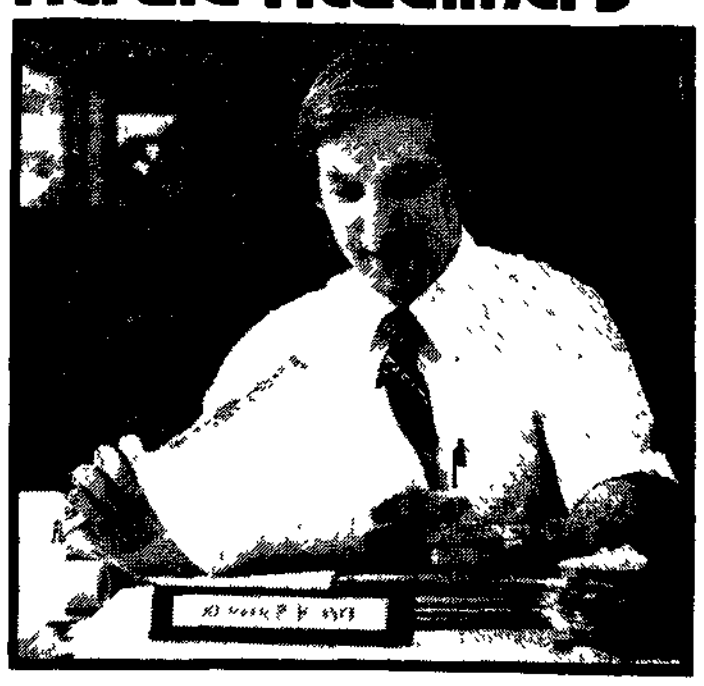

The "brazen, outrageous" proposal to allow self-service gasoline sales in Illinois would bypass the state legislature, Jacobs said.

Walsh was not available at his Springfield office for comment. No information on his alleged employment status was available at the Marathon Pipeline Co. offices in Indianapolis.

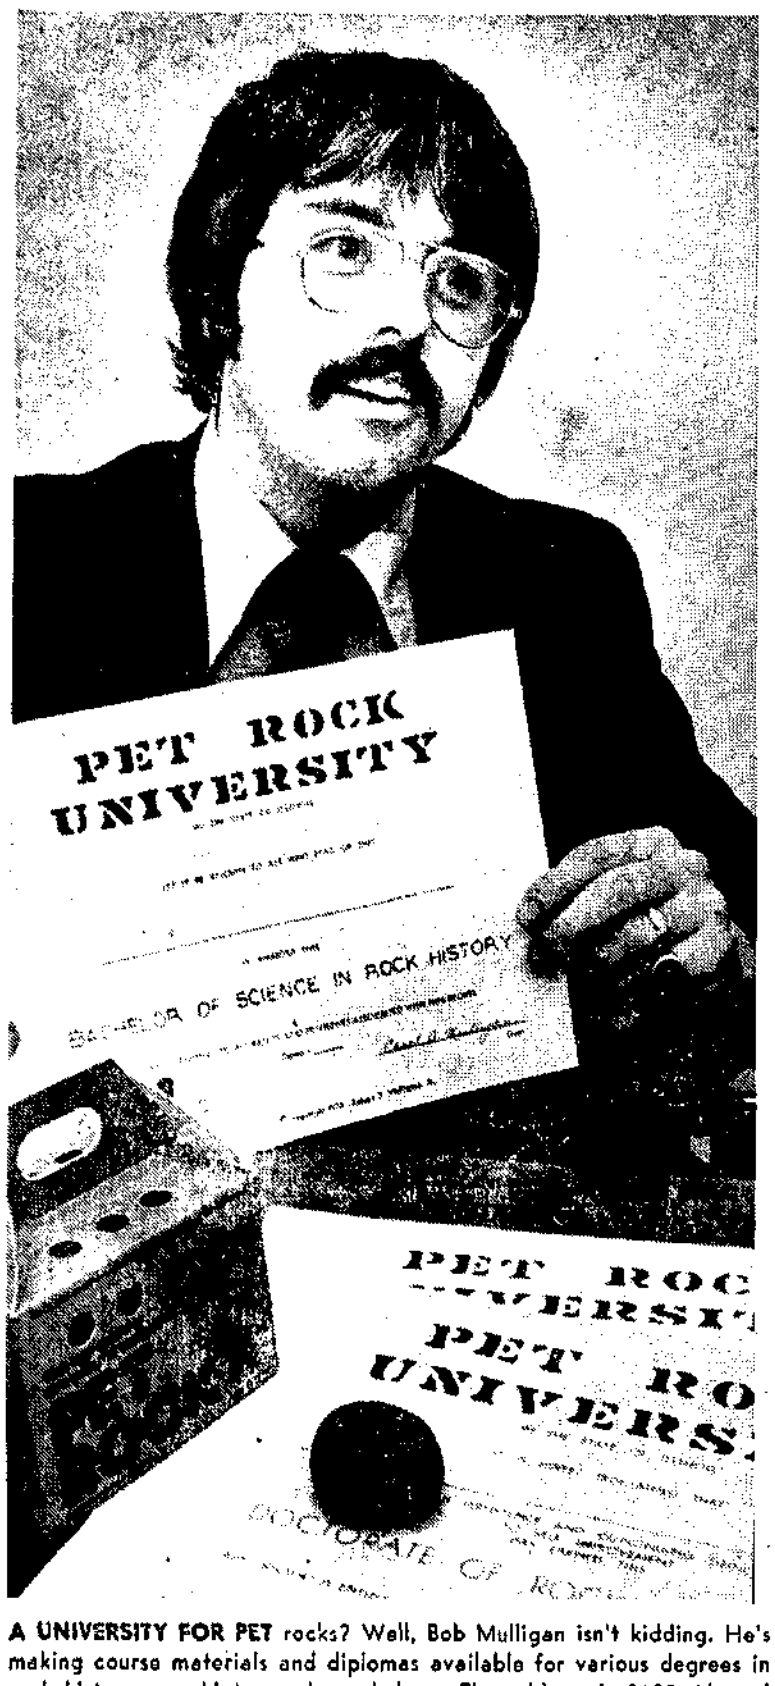

Walsh announced he would study a proposal to end the state ban on self-service gasoline sales. He said estimates of consumer savings due to the self-service concept range from 3 to 5 cents a gallon.

For the rock with brains—a PRU degree

A UNIVERSITY FOR PET rocks? Well, Bob Mulligan isn't kidding. He's making course materials and diplomas available for various degrees in rock history, psychiatry and psychology. The address is 2122 Almond Ln., Glendale Heights, Ill.

by DIANE MERMIGAS

You've probably been on the rocks at one time or another. And no doubt you've heard rock 'n roll. And "Rock-A-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody." But, would you believe Pet Rock University?

Well, it's the brainchild of Bob Mulligan, a man who believes pet rocks should have minds of their own.

Mulligan is devoted to the belief that a pet rock's mind is a terrible thing to waste. He's convinced they should be educated at his new school for stones.

He also wants to get a cut of the pet-rock action that has made some people very rich in the last few months, and that isn't so crazy.

SO, FOR $8, Mulligan sends course materials and printed diplomas for a Bachelor of Science degree in Rock History, a Master's of Rock Psychiatry and a Ph.D. in Rock Philosophy — all for your very own pet rock.

"Now, you wouldn't want to refuse your pet rock a further education," Mulligan argues.

Mulligan's pet rock, Rocky, was the first to obtain all three degrees. Since about a month ago, when Mulligan first came up with the idea, he's received several hundred applications from faithful pet rock owners.

The inquiries have come from all over the country, solicited only by word of mouth and through two newspaper advertisements — one in the Los Angeles Times and the other in the New York Times.

"How often does someone say to you — it's just a stupid, dumb rock? Well, you don't have to hear that about your rock again," the advertisement declares.

Today

"There are a lot of people in this country who really love their rocks and want to do the best thing for them," says Mulligan, an employe of A.B. Dick, Elk Grove Village, and a Glendale Heights resident.

BUT, GARY DAHL, president of Rock Bottom Productions and inventor of the pet rock craze, isn't in full agreement.

"I think Americans are becoming bored with them, and I personally believe the pet rock fad is dead. It's too bad he (Mulligan) didn't come up with the idea sooner, like around Christmas when our sales were booming," Dahl said.

And he means booming. One million dollars worth of pet rocks were sold between October 1975, when they were first marketed, and December, Dahl said. Current sales don't exceed $25,000 each month nationwide.

Many major department stores have stopped carrying the $5 pet rock kits, including rock and training manual. But novelty shops like P.J.'s Trick Shop, in the Randhurst Shopping Center, continue to carry not only the kits but pet rock food, clothes, and mood and stud rocks.

"They are still being sold, and there are a lot of pet rock owners out there. This is going to be big," Mulligan said.

The long-range plan calls for the world's only Pet Rock University to be expanded to include an alumni association and monthly newsletter noting births, deaths and marriages of pet rocks. There will be school pennants and other souvenirs, a sports team and who knows what else, he said.

Mulligan has other plans for patrons of pet rockdom. He plans to provide a "Dear Rocky" advice-by-mail service and a marriage performed-by-mail service, appropriately tagged "Justice of the Peace of the Rock," for pet rock owners.

Mulligan also is working on a comic strip series on the adventures of Bionic Boulder, a secret crime fighting agent for the United States. If the comic strip hero is popular, a Bionic Boulder toy will be manufactured for sale around Christmas, he said.

And where does it all end? When have you reached rock bottom?

Well, Mulligan's staying up nights coming up with these ideas.

Enthusiastic pet owners, like a Los Angeles attorney and a Connecticut dog groomer who traces the "pedigrees" of pet rocks on the side, keep buying the ideas.

The attorney, for instance, has a pet rock named Irving of Lancaster and that alone should tell you a little something about the way that rock is treated.

There are air force captains, homemakers and even politicians, all pet rock lovers who have applied to Pet Rock University to educate their rocks.

"Every human being has the need, at least once in his life, to do something really absurd, crazy. Pet rocks are something accepted by society, something that society says if you want to train it, feed it, educate it or just keep it around the house it's OK," Mulligan said.

Pet rocks don't make messes, or noise or problems like other pets. With an education, they could muster up a few tricks, right?

"When I first told my family and friends about the Pet Rock University, they all just laughed and said it was the craziest thing they ever heard. Then they said they wished the idea was theirs," Mulligan said.

But, Mulligan isn't going to let nasty statements get in his way. He's going to keep on working because, as they say, a rolling stone gathers no moss — only money.

All eyes focus on the freckled soccer ball which is about to receive a kickback.

Quick kicks

The game is soccer — demanding, fatiguing, rewarding soccer — and it's captured the hearts, heads, bodies and feet of Northwest suburban youth groups. The Palatine Celtic All-Stars delighted a Soldier Field audience with their endless energy and surprising talents prior to a professional Chicago Sting match. Besides getting a kick out of the appearance, the Palatine squad won 3-1.

Finfrock resigns Pirate cage post after 6 seasons

by ART MUGALIAN

Ron Finfrock

After six seasons, Ron Finfrock has resigned the position of head basketball coach at Palatine High School, effective immediately.

The announcement came from Palatine athletic director Chic Anderson, who is now faced with the task of replacing Finfrock on the staff. Applications are being accepted by Donald Skinner, director of personnel for Dist. 211, 1750 Roselle Rd. in Palatine.

Finfrock, who had served as head coach at Erie and Geneseo High Schools before coming to Palatine, steps down after a six-year regime which produced a 49-84 record. Prior to that, Finfrock was 35-38 Geneseo and 50-8 at Erie.

"Palatine is a good school, the people are good, and they have treated me well," said Finfrock, who will stay on to teach physical education and coach freshman baseball.

Finfrock gave his health as a major reason for quitting. "I was sick for half the winter, but now I've got a complete bill of health from the doctor and I'd just rather not take that chance again throughout another season."

Finfrock's teams captured two regional titles, once in 1975 and again in 1973. "Those had to be the highlights," said Finfrock.

After beginning his Palatine reign with a 2-19 mark in 1970-71, Finfrock guided the team to seasons of 9-12, 10-13, 9-11, and 11-13 before last season's disappointing 8-16. Last year's club failed to win a game in the Mid-Suburban League.

"The program never developed the way we thought it would," Finfrock said. "We were competitive for the past couple of seasons — until last year. We should have gotten over the hump, but we didn't.

"But I think we've left a decent nucleus here," he continued. "If I had stayed one more year, that wouldn't have been true."

Palatine's outstanding returnee is 6-foot-6 Kevin McKenna, who averaged 25 points as a junior this past season.

Finfrock, who had hinted earlier in the year that he might stay for one more season, said he made his decision to quit within the last week.

"Now I can devote more time to teaching," he said. "I hope to become a better teacher."

Rebels sweep 2 in season debut

A pair of solid pitching performances highlighted the Northwest Rebels opening doubleheader as they began their Greater Illinois Baseball League season with a sweep of the Romeoville Sports.

Jim Bokelman and Al Schuette, both newcomers to the Rebel staff, collected wins with relief help from Rick Marino and Willie Kozel.

Bokelman, a product of Arlington High School and Southern Illinois University, pitched nearly five innings of no-hit baseball and retired after relinquishing one hit, a single unearned run and seven strikeouts.

Marino mopped up for the save as the Rebs hammered the Sports 9-3 in the opener.

John Theriault, also playing for the Rebels for the first time, stroked a home run and Tom Good pinch hit two more runs home to lead the charge.

Bruce Hanson, Bruce Eberle and Scott Day also had RBIs.

Schuette, a bit lefty who has coached at Conant High School and Harper College, contacted the Rebels himself and earned a spot in the rotation with four innings of work in the second game.

He allowed one run during the stint before Kozel came on to collect the save as Northwest posted a 5-2 win.

Scott Day, who finished the afternoon with a 4-for-7 plate performance, belted the first pitch of the game for a home run.

Marino, the Rebels' manager, commented on his pitching staff, "I have a stronger staff with the addition of Bokelman and Schuette than the championship team of last year.

"They just couldn't touch Bokelman."

Marino also singled out Mike Quade, who was 1-for-3 in the doubleheader but walked five times and stole four bases. John Slack also ripped off three bases as the Rebels stole eight for the day.

Hawks ready to sign Orr

The Black Hawks appear to have the inside track in gaining the services of hockey superstar Bobby Orr.

Attorney Alan Eagleson conducted meetings with officials from the Hawks and the St. Louis Blues, the ony two National Hockey League teams still vying for rights to the injury-plagued defenseman.

Eagleson, Orr's attorney, has indicated he may be ready to name Orr's new employer today. The Toronto lawyer has reviewed bids from several teams since Orr became a free agent from Boston, June 1, but finally narrowed the choice down to Chicago or St. Louis.

Black Hawks' President William Wirtz — who said last week, "we want Orr, no matter what the cost" — was scheduled to meet Eagleson late Monday.

Eagleson and Wirtz reportedly have discussed terms that would see Orr getting paid $3 million over a five-year contract.

While Eagleson has maintained that Orr's contract stipulated no compensation would have to be paid to the Bruins, Eagleson said recently he and Orr had agreed some compensation should be made, probably through an exchange of players.

Orr's contract predated a new agreement between the owners and the National Hockey League Players Association which permits players to become free agents after playing out their options, but calls for compensation to clubs.

While Eagleson appeared to be leaning to the Black Hawks, he said he would make no final announcement until he met with Emile Francis, the Blues' general manager today.

Ventresca qualifies as alternate in Open

by DON FRISKE

If Billy Ventresca could re-play one stroke from Monday's U.S. Open sectional at Midlothian, there is little doubt as to what his choice would be.

The head professional at Rolling Green Country Club barely missed a two-foot putt on the last hole of the second round. If the shot had dropped, he would have qualified for the U.S. Open at Atlanta June 17-20 with a score of 143.

Instead he went into a five-man playoff and eventually earned the spot as first alternate.

The Northwest suburbs will be represented at the Open, however, as 18-year-old Gary Hallberg of Barrington, the 1975 Illinois state high school champion, qualified with a score of 143.

Ventresca's near-miss occurred when he couldn't sink the short putt on his 36th hole of play.

"The putt was downhill and real fast and I tried to hit it straight in," he said, "but it broke to the right. I just missed it off the right edge."

Five players participated in the playoff as the sixth and seventh spots for Open qualifiers were still waiting to be claimed.

Dennis Tiziani of Madison, Wis., birdied the second playoff hole and the sixth spot was gone. Then Brady Miller scored a birdie on the next hole and the seven qualifiers had been decided.

Ventresca went four more holes before scoring a birdie on a par-five to earn the spot of first alternate. He shot a 74 in the morning and came back with a 70 in the afternoon to finish with his 144.

"I was putting very poorly in the morning, but I came back in the afternoon. I did miss about five two-to-five foot putts," Ventresca said. "I missed more than I should have, but other than that I played well."

Ventresca said he hit 30 greens for the day, but further explained that he was never really in trouble.

"The greens I didn't make were just on the collar," he said.

The Arlington Heights resident went into the sectional with a strategy different from his previous six tries for a spot in the U.S. Open. He entered play with an attitude toward enjoying the day, hoping not to push himself too hard.

"You have to pay attention and stay loose," he said. "I didn't ever try and the strategy worked . . . except on maybe a few of those short putts."

This is the closest Ventresca has come to playing in the Open, and he still feels he has a slim chance of getting into the select field.

If not, he figures he will probably go after it again next year.

Hallberg made the cut with a 71-72-143 and is one of the youngest players ever to qualify for the Open.

But he also had trouble with his put-

Rules offered to curb violence in hockey

The National Hockey League Rules Committee, meeting on the first day of the league's annual meeting in Montreal, Monday introduced proposals to drastically cut down on violence in hockey.

The committee introduced new regulations that would further penalize players who start and participate in fights, including stiff suspensions.

The proposal must still be ratified by the league's Board of Governors when that group meets today.

Explained NHL Referee-in-Chief Scotty Morrison: "The committee ruled 10-7 that in regular league games those players who receive any accumulation of three game or gross misconducts shall also receive an automatic one game suspension."

"Subsequent game misconduct penalties would receive further suspension," said Morrison.

Four other rulings involving fighting were unanimously passed, taking, according to Morrison, "a great step in getting what the people want."

The committee gave the league president the right to hand out further sentences altough the referee had not handed out penalties when the infraction occurred.

Also, the referee will now have the power to hand out a major and game misconduct penalty if one player clearly starts a fight and continually appears to be the aggressor.

The committee decided that any player who physically interferes with a fan while a game is in progress would immediately receive a game misconduct.

Cubs' Hundley undergoes surgery

Chicago Cub catcher and Palatine resident, Randy Hundley, underwent surgery Monday for injuries he suffered in an altercation during a Cubs-Giants game at Candlestick Park May 1.

Hundley has been out of action and in traction most of the time since the incident. Club officials said following the operation that Hundley's future playing status was still unknown.

Doctors removed a disk and fused two vertebrae in Hundley's neck in an effort to return him to playing condition. His condition at Northwestern Memorial Hospital was described as satisfactory.

Bears deal draft picks for 3 Bengals

The Bears Monday acquired three former Ohio college stars from the Cincinnati Bengals — running back Harold "Champ" Henson, middle linebacker Brad Cousino, and rookie placekicker Tom Klaban — in a trade for undisclosed draft choices.

Bears general manager Jim Finks made the move a month before the start of summer training camp in an effort to shore up his club's power running game, the core of the Bears' defense, and the place-kicking game.

Henson, a fullback-sized running back at 6 foot 3 and 240 pounds, and Cousino, a quick 6-foot, 219-pounder, both saw limited action for the Bengals as rookies last season.

Klaban, a 10th round draft choice last year by Cincinnati, is best known for kicking four field goals two years ago to give Ohio State a 12-10 season-ending victory over Michigan and a berth in the 1975 Rose Bowl.

Henson led the nation in scoring as a sophomore at Ohio State with 20 touchdowns.

Rockets trade for top NBA draft pick

The Houston Rockets acquired the first pick in today's NBA college draft from the Atlanta Hawks and said they would select Maryland's 6-foot-4 All-America forward John Lucas.

The Hawks traded the draft choice and center-forward Dwight Jones to the Rockets for reserve guard Gus Bailey, reserve center Joe Meriweather and the Rockets' first round pick, which is the ninth selection.

After posting the worst record (29-53) in the Eastern Division this past season, The Hawks had won the right to draft first in a coin toss with the Chicago Bulls, the team with the worst record in the Western Division.

It had been speculated that the Hawks would choose 7-1 center Robert Parrish of Centenary in the draft, but Hawks' spokesman Jim Schultz said Meriweather was a proven player while Parrish had never played an NBA game.

All-America Scott May, a 6-7 forward from NCAA champion Indiana, and 6-9 Alabama center Leon Douglas were other players expected to go early when the 18 teams make their choices.

The New York Knicks lost their opportunity to pick in the first round when they were penalized for last year's illegal signing of George McGinnis, who wound up with the Philadelphia 76ers.

Several top players with college eligibility remaining will also be available in the NBA draft today, it was announced Monday.

Among them are Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame and Richard Washington of UCLA, who along with 16 others became eligible as "hardship" cases. Also eligible is Marques Johnson, Washington's teammate at UCLA.

Cleveland triple play stops Twins

The Cleveland Indians made a triple play Monday night in the fifth inning of their game against the Minnesota Twins.

After the Twins had scored three runs and had runners on first and second, Butch Wynegar hit a line drive to relief pitcher Stan Thomas, who speared the ball and turned and threw to shortstop Frank Duffy to double Larry Hisle off second. Duffy completed the triple play by throwing to first to retire baserunner Dan Ford.

Ventresca makes U.S. Open alternate ting.

"I played well, but I putted terribly," Hallberg said. "I had to birdie two of the last three holes to qualify. One was a par-five and the other a long par-four."

Others who made the cut at Midlothian were Bob Zender of Skokie (69-68-137), George Thomas of Elkhart, Ind. (68-74-142), Bob Mack of Peoria (70-72-142), and Bradley Schuchat of Des Moines, Iowa (70-73-143).

Earlier, Ventresca anticipated it would take a score of only a few shots over par to qualify for the Open.

Even par at Midlothian is 142 so Ventresca's guess was right on target.

Unfortunately for the soft-spoken local pro, his two-foot putt on the final hole was not.

Ask Andy

All fish must move to stay alive

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Albert Pavucek, age 13, of Philadelphia, Pa., for his question:

HOW DOES A FISH MOVE?

A barracuda can zip along at 30 miles per hour. Even a goldfish can do 5 m.p.h., fast enough to challenge a good human swimmer. A sturdy salmon can swim upstream, against the splashing rapids. Teeming schools of frantic herring swim shoulder to shoulder, nonstop, day and night. Obviously fish are splendid athletes. The truth is that they must move to stay alive.

Flounders and a few other slowpokes flop on the bottom and move as little as possible. But most of the 20,000 or so known fishes are frisky fellows, always on the move. After all, their watery world is a hungry place where every fish is hunted by larger fishes while he hunts smaller fishes.

Naturally the average fish is designed to cope with these harsh conditions of life. His body is a streamlined muscular marvel to keep him in motion. He can swim forward or backward, speed up or slow down, turn left or right. He also can raise or lower himself to swim at different levels.

He is, of course, a vertebrate animal with a spine and a bony skeleton. His strong, supple spine can swish from side to side in curves and S-shapes. His meat is mostly lean muscle, suitable for mighty motion. His scaly, slippery skin helps his streamlined body to slip smoothly through the water. Instead of limbs he has sets of gauzy, moveable fins.

A fish thrusts forward by swishing his spine from side to side. Water jetting backwards from his gill covers also slightly helps the forward motion. The tail flicks sideways to add to the push. When he reaches his desired speed he moves only slightly to keep going.

When he wishes to change course, several subtle maneuvers come into play. A pair of pectoral fins are placed on each side just behind his head. When on a straight course, he usually leaves them folded to his sides. When he wants to turn, he extends his left pectoral, much as a human driver makes a hand signal. To make a right turn, he extends his right pectoral, creating a little eddy that swerves his body around to the right. When he wants to slow down or come to a stop, he extends both pectoral fins. His dorsal, pelvic and tail fins also make small motions to help to maneuver his course.

There are times when a fish needs to swim higher or lower in the water — to chase his dinner or dodge his enemies. The average fish has a swim bladder, a long sac or gases between his spine and his stomach. Its contents can be adjusted to change his total body weight, which is one way to lift or lower him to different levels in the water.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Jennifer Bomback, age 7, of Winnipeg, Man., Canada, for her question:

EXACTLY HOW BIG IS THE MOON?

Sometimes our golden moon looks about as big as a beach ball. But we know that this cannot be true because the astronauts landed there and walked around. It also looks about the same size as the dazzling sun. But experts tell us that the sun is 400 times wider than the moon — and 400 times farther away. The moon is our nearest neighbor in the sky. It is about a quarter of a million miles away — which is why it looks smaller than it really is.

If the earth and the moon were side by side, almost touching, we would see that the earth is almost four times bigger. The moon is about 2,160 miles wide, and the earth is almost 8,000 miles wide. However, the earth weighs 83 times more than the moon because it is made of much heavier materials. The bigger, heavier earth makes us weigh more. For example, a person who weights 120 pounds on the earth weighs only 20 pounds on the moon.

Woody Allen's 'Sam' still a good bet for live comedy

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Few things are appreciated more by a general audience than a well-produced, genuine comedy. One currently realizing a disproportionate amount of live laughter, and deservedly so, is Country Club Comedy Theatre's rendition of "Play It Again Sam."

The three-act, fun-filled show fairly glows, as does the theatergoer who barely finds time to catch his/her breath in between the innocent, unexpected two-liners and typical Woody Allen boggled antics.

A sophisticated slapstick and Humphrey Bogart spoof, "Play It Again Sam" is one of Allen's few attempts at live theater and, in my book, one of his over-all best creations. It was first produced on Broadway in 1969 with the clowning blunderbuss himself in the leading role of the eccentric Allan Felix.

YET WITH EXPERT casting and impressive staging, Country Club Theatre is effectively resurrecting this Woody Allen favorite that has retained every bit of its original sparkle.

"Play It Again Sam" opens on a nervous little movie critic (the size and temperament of the playwright himself naturally), who agonizes over the humiliation of having just been deserted by his wife.

Experiencing no luck with his little black book saved from high school days, he relies on his best friend to fix him up with a series of eligible, attractive young women. But not only does Felix fail to score every time, he completely goes to pieces.

THE REJECTED hero is a great fan of Humphrey Bogart, who occasionally makes the scene himself to tell Felix how to "make it" with the women.

Mark Fenske as Bogey not only looks the part of the suave actor, he imitates him exactly too.

But naturally Bogart's famous "Casablanca love 'em and leave 'em," routine does nothing for Felix who openly admits even when he was married, "I couldn't find a date for New Year's Eve."

Kent Monken is superb in his comic attempts to impress the women, his tete-a-tetes with Bogey and his outright clumsiness. Who else but a Woody Allen character could be blown all over the room by a hair dryer?

FELIX'S WIFE, who makes frequent charade appearances, is played by Barbara McGreevy, who also does a fine job doubling as all of Felix's dates, those that are real and the others he only fantasizes.

Completing the cast as his best friend, a high-pressured corporate robot, is Rick Snyder His wife is played by Mary Mikva, who finds by offering companionship and condolence to Felix she is able to fill a lonely void in her own life. But not without further ticklish complications.

Tom Ventriss directed this gleeful summer frolic that is further accentuated by Larry Peterson's set design and lighting by George Wajda. Together they are able to turn the spirit of Humphrey Bogart into a viable, on-the-scene character and back into a spirit again.

Cayne squeezes six spades

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Billy Eisenberg, a member of the last American team to win the world's championship, finished second in the Cavendish invitation with Jimmy Cayne of New York. Oswald Jacoby captained that championship team and Jim Jacoby was a playing member.

Billy and Jimmy were one of the pairs to bid six with today's hand and Cayne one of the very few to make the slam.

The dummy was disappointing and there was no apparent way to avoid two losers, but Cayne handled it nicely.

He led a spade to dummy at trick two and continued with the queen of hearts to West's ace. West led a second diamond. Cayne ruffed, cashed the king of hearts while discarding a club from dummy, ruffed a low heart and had a count on the East hand of two hearts, seven diamonds and four clubs.

This led to a simple squeeze against East. Jimmy led a second trump to his own hand, ruffed his last heart, led dummy's last trump to his own hand, played out his last trump to leave dummy with one diamond and two clubs and poor East with no discard. He had to hold a high diamond and was forced to unguard his queen of clubs.

Shecky Greene back on stage

Comedian survives throat surgery

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Doctors told comedian Shecky Greene six months ago he would never talk again following an operation for removal of a tumor in his throat.

Greene's left vocal cord was paralyzed during surgery and Shecky found himself unable to do more than whisper for four months.

A standup comic without a voice is a man in deep trouble.

HE MIGHT have turned to writing gags for other comedians. There was the unlikely prospect of working up a pantomime act. But the famed funny man did neither.

Today, following special treatment, Shecky has the use of his voice once more, apparently as good as new.

"I had mixed emotions during those silent months," he said. "I'd never known how or when I'd be able to get out of show business and the throat problem made my decision for me."

Greene, however, is walking right back on stage, and with considerable trepidation.

HE OPENS for one night at the Concord Hotel in the Catskills June 26, then a Chicago stand for a week before opening in Las Vegas July 8.

His reputation as the comedian's comedian was established in the lounges of Las Vegas hotels for 16 years.

Greene has played five different strip hotels since 1954 and currently stars at the biggest of them all, the MGM Grand — and in the main room.

"I have my own favorite comedians," Shecky said. "I like Don Rickles, Buddy Hackett, Jonathan Winters, Bob Hope and Dick Shawn."

VACATION HOME SACRIFICE
Near the Wisconsin Dells, we must sell 10 sites within 200 yds. of lake. Lake rights are included. Approx. 3 hrs. from Chicago. These properties will be sold individually with a shell home of the purchaser's choice at one total package price. We will sell our 2 Bdrm. A-frame shell home and basic ¾ acre site for $9,995. Our 3 bdrm. A-frame and basic ¾ acre site would run $11,995. Ranch home shells and log cabin financing can be arranged. These are not pre-fab or pre-cut homes but are built from the ground up by our professional carpenters. They are beautifully finished on the outside and are studded and ready to complete on the inside. Because we must begin now to order materials and schedule work crews, these 10 properties must be sold immediately. Our representatives will be at the sites this coming weekend. June 12th and 13th. Should 10 parcels not be sold they will return the following weekend, June 19th and 20th. This is an absolute sale. If you've ever wanted to own your own summer home at a price you can afford, this is your opportunity. For further information or directions and reservations, call broker at (312) 654-2282.

After 20 years on high court

Brennan sees influence slipping

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The impression that comes through these days reading his many dissenting opinions is that Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. is an angry, frustrated and somewhat saddened man.

While some justices, like the late Hugo L. Black, stayed on the bench long enough to see their dissents become law with the arrival of more liberal colleagues, the opposite is happening to Brennan.

Brennan is witnessing the law that he and the late Chief Justice Earl Warren helped create in the 1960s undergoing a steady erosion at the hand of colleagues with a more conservative outlook.

What seems to hurt Brennan even more is the feeling, evident between the lines of his opinions, that this continual chipping away — especially in the area of criminal law — is being done in something less than an intellectually honest manner.

AN EISENHOWER appointee who took his seat in 1956, Brennan recently completed his 20th term and is the senior justice in length of service, since ailing Justice William O. Douglas retired last year. A former state supreme court justice in his native New Jersey, Brennan turned 70 in April and has spent 27 years as a judge.

Two Brennan speeches show how circumstances have changed. Just 10 years ago he was detailing to the Kansas City bar the protections under the Constitution's Bill of Rights, which the Supreme Court had made binding on the states since 1925.

Included were the rights of free speech and press, the privilege against self-incrimination, the ban on cruel and unusual punishment and the accused person's right to a lawyer.

"The genius of the Constitution resides not in any static meaning that it has in a world that is dead and gone, but in its adaptability of its great principles to cope with current problems and current needs," Brennan said.

BRENNAN SPOKE virtually the same words a few weeks ago to the New Jersey state bar, but in a totally different context. He said the Supreme Court is falling behind many state supreme courts in guaranteeing the rights and liberties of Americans.

He said the state courts might be sensing — and disagreeing with — a "pulling back" by the Supreme Court from a liberal interpretation of the Constitution, and are relying instead on similar provisions in their own state constittions.

That Brennan is pained by this turn of events was obvious two years ago when the Supreme Court threw out a test case on "reverse discrimination," involving a suit filed by a white law student who felt wronged by advantages afforded minority students.

Brennan chided the majority for "sidestepping" a difficult case, saying: "Few constitutional questions in recent history have stirred as much debate, and they will not disappear."

HE TERMED "a clear retreat" a recent court ruling that a person's good name is not included in the liberties protected by the Constitution.

A major point of contention is the high court's tendency to whittle away at the rule, which Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has never hesitated to oppose, that illegally obtained evidence cannot be used in a trial. The idea of the rule is that police should not be encouraged to engage in lawlessness.

"If the majority of my colleagues are determined to discard the exclusionary rule in (search) cases they should forthrightly do so and be done with it," Brennan said a year ago.

"This business of slow strangulation . . . would be indefensible in any circumstances. But to attempt covertly the erosion of an important principle . . . clearly demands . . . the institutional integrity of this court."

THE JUSTICES recently restricted the ability of state prisoners to overturn their convictions in federal courts, a right affirmed in an opinon written by Brennan in 1960.

"If the court believes that (the decision) is no longer good law . . . then it has the duty to face squarely our prior cases . . . and honestly state the reasons, if any, for its altered perceptions," Brennan wrote.

He labeled one recent majority opinion a "distortion" which foreshadowed the eventual overturning of the celebrated, 10-year-old "Miranda rule," which requires that a suspect be informed of his right to remain silent and have the benefit of a lawyer.

Brennan sees the Miranda rule as shoring up the constitutional protection against self-incrimination "after decades of police coercion . . . ranging from torture to trickery."

"It is monstrous that courts should aid or abet the lawbreaking officer," he said last term. "It is abiding truth that nothing can destroy a government more quickly than its failure to observe its own laws, or worse, its disregard of the charter of its own existence."

Government feels sting of bee 'insurance' plan

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert R. Stansberry Jr., head of the federal dead bee program, occasionally gets stung by a canard.

It's an occupational hazard. Any time federal funds become available, misunderstandings are likely to arise. And a program that provides payments for deceased honeybees is harder to explain that most.

The Beekeepers Indemnity Program, as it is called, compensates beekeepers for losses sustained when their honeybees are inadvertently killed by government-approved pesticides. Nevertheless, the program has created erroneous impressions.

One canard that gives Stansberry pain is the gibe that since the payments started in 1972 no honeybee in America has died of natural causes.

STANSBERRY, HOWEVER, is a man of composure. When a reporter checking into the honeybee fatality situation confronted him with that allegation, he hardly even winced.

Stansberry conceded he and his agents do not perform an autopsy on every bee on which indemnity is paid. When a bee passes on, he explained, a postmortem would have to be done within 15 minutes to establish conclusively that it was a victim of pesticide poisoning.

Therefore, evidence considered at bee inquests is mainly circumstantial. But Stansberry, who works for the Agriculture Dept. denied there was any chance of a large scale dead bee ripoff.

There are safeguards, he said, to prevent beekeepers from collecting on bees that expire, say, from old age. Agents conduct on-the-spot investigations.

"ALL OF OUR MEN are trained to recognize signs of neglect or disease in bee corpses," Stansberry said. "Both are easy to spot when you know what to look for.

"When a lot of bees from the same colony die suddenly and there is no sign of disease or neglect, it must be presumed that they were killed by pesticides sprayed on plants from which they gathered nectar."

Another canard that pains Stansberry is the insinuation that the $15 million the government has shelled out under the program amounts to a federal subsidy for the honey industry.

Actually, it's pollination, not honey production, that the program was designed to abet.

MODERN MAN, proud creator of countless technological marvels, is reluctant to admit he is dependent on insects. Modern man prefers to belive he has control of his destiny. But realists know that facts cannot be blinked away.

Bees, possibly with some help from butterflies, provide fertilization for at least 50 nursery, farm and orchard plants whose annual yield is valued at more than $6 billion.

Stansberry contends that if it were not for the indemnity program, many beekeepers would not replace colonies wiped out by pesticides. Since nature alone does not produce enough bees to handle the burdens of pollination, decimation of the cultivated bee population would be an economical and ecological disaster.

Have no fear. Even though canards swarm about him, Stansberry is prepared to see the program through.

Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22 7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city "Tt include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax "

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300
Inverness	$ 11,300
Mount Prospect	$236,500
Palatine	$175,100
Rolling Meadows	$129,200
Schaumburg	$125,200
Wheeling	$ 99,700

Bid to kill unit law aid defeated by Dist. 59 vote

by PAM BIGFORD

Two members of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education pressed unsuccessfully Monday night to drop legal services involving a unit district referendum because of an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which indicates employing the law firm may be illegal.

Board member Charles Canupp asked the board to release the services of the law firm Reid, Oschenschlage, Murphy and Hupp which was retained for legal advice on bringing the question of forming a unit district to a referendum

The Scott opinion, pertaining to a unit district controversy in Vermilion County, stated that school boards are not authorized to spend district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit district

CANUPP SAID the community of 10 Dist 59 residents who filed unit district petitions should pay for legal advice.

Canupp's resolution to drop the law firm was defeated 5 to 2. Canupp and fellow member Paul Kucharski voted to support the resolution

The board unanimously passed a resolution to cooperate in providing citizens "with all the pertinent facts" concerning the formation of a unit district.

High School Dist 214 has voiced opposition to a unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from the district and place them under Dist. 59 control.

BOARD PRES. Judith Zanca said Dist. 59 Atty. Frank Hines has not seen the entire Scott opinion but has told her that in his opinion board expenditures before a public hearing on a unit district are legal Mrs. Zanca said Hines will report further to the board after he studies the opinion.

Kucharski said he called Scott's office and talked to William Wallin, a staff member, who said, "In no uncertain terms, any action toward that (unit district) study that involves citizens funds is in Scott's opinion illegal."

Mrs Zanca said Hines based his opinion on information from the Illinois Office of Education. The school board always has operated under the guidelines of the IOE, she said.

"Scott has one opinion and the IOE has another opinion We (the board) operate under the opinion of the IOE, and until you get into a court of law, you just have two different opinions," Mrs. Zanca said.

Summer jobs available, township agency reports

Elk Grove Township students looking for summer jobs may be able to find them through the township's Youth Employment Service.

Nita Stamm, who handles the program, said Monday that 55 companies in the Elk Grove Industrial Park already have said they have summer jobs available, as many as eight and 10 jobs per company in some instances.

"We have placed several kids," Ms Stamm said. "But the kids haven't been coming in as fast because we haven't pubhcized it much this year "

SHE SAID THAT in addition to the 900 letters sent to industrial park companies, the township plans to send letters to Woodfield Shopping Center businessmen, seeking information on available jobs.

Ms. Stamm said she was pleasantly surprised with the response from the industries, adding the survey almost was not made this year because of the poor response last year. Last year, letters were sent to more than 1,500 employers and only 35 responses were received.

More responses from the industrial area are expected during the next few weeks.

Ms. Stamm urged both employers and students seeking jobs to contact the township hall, 437-0300.

Students also may fill out an application to use the service at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

IN THE TOWNSHIP'S own summer job program, funded with federal revenue-sharing funds, Ms. Stamm said all but one half-time position with the Youth Services Bureau have been filled.

She said the Mount Prospect and Elk Grove park districts each will have four students working for them through Aug. 27. One full-time and two quarter-time jobs with the township day-care center also have been filled.

Ms. Stamm said the program has been restricted, a result of the increase in the minimum wage to $2.20 an hour, causing a cutback of some two weeks in the employment period.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however

Village sets hydrant flushing this week

The Des Plaines Fire Dept. will begin the annual flushing of fire hydrants this week.

Hydrant flushing is expected to be completed by Aug. 31. The flushing will take place from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Flowers gone for good thanks to vandals' auto

No additional flowers will be planted in Friendship Park, 395 Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, because of the recent destruction by vandals of a Bicentennial garden there

Thomas T. Tayler, assistant director of parks and recreation in Mount Prospect, said the vandals apparently drove a car through the flower bed Sunday. Damage was estimated at $200. Tayler said the incident was not the first this year at Friendship Park.

"Kids have been going across the park in cars and motorcycles throughout the year," he said.

Tayler, who reported the incident to the Des Plaines Police Dept., said vehicles have been sighted between 9 p.m. and 4 a.m. daily when the park is not patrolled. He has requested additional policing in that area.

"WE FEEL OUR coverage is adequate," Des Plaines Police Chief Arthur Hintz said Monday. "We're not going to be able to stop everything "

Des Plaines police now patrol the park from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. daily in addition to the regular eight-hour

Private classes OKd in Dist. 59

Sponsorship of summer school programs by private individuals and organizations was approved Monday night by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

The board approved guidelines drawn up by the administration stating that the programs must be sponsored by a recognized organization within Dist. 59, must be approved by the administration and must employ Dist. 59 teachers.

Several band groups and some reading and math teachers asked to use district schools for summer programs after the board last month canceled summer school for this year. The state board of education has indicated the state will not be able to fund summer school as it has in past years.

State tells area road work plans

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

--w• A co

• Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;

• Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.

• Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.

• Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

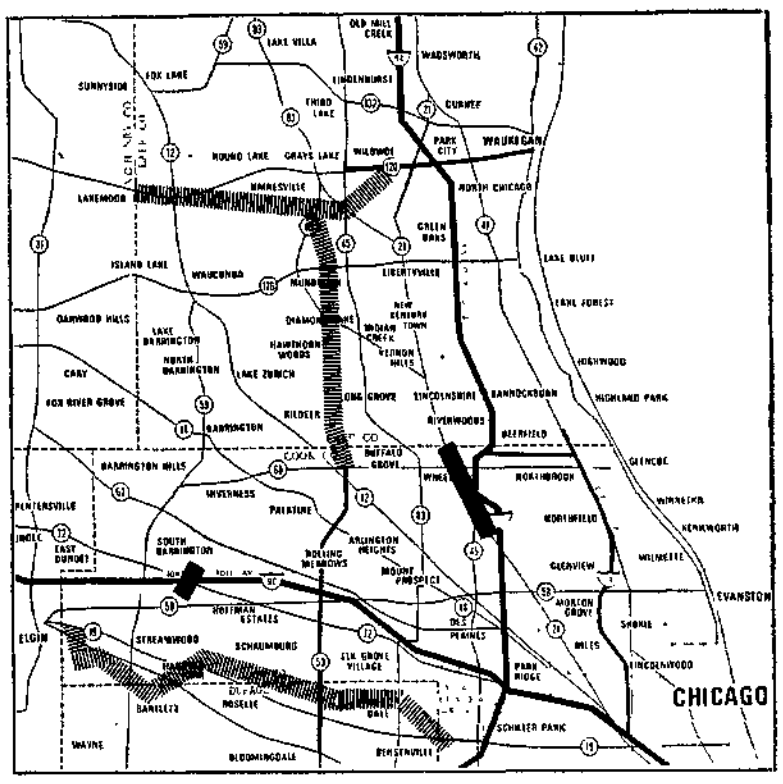

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245 9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

MSD court ruling goes against city

A U.S. District Court judge Monday ruled against Des Plaines in a lawsuit that challenged the federal government's approval of the Metropolitan Sanitary District's O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant.

In the lawsuit, the city charged that a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency environmental impact study was inadequate to ensure the safey of residents near the sewage treatment plant, which is now under construction at the southwest corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Judge George Leighton ruled in the MSD's favor after reviewing the impact study and briefs filed by the city and MSD.

A SPOKESMAN for Leighton said although the lawsuit was not dismissed, the judge's ruling probably will have the same effect.

The judge is expected to outline the reasons for his ruling in a written opinion that may be prepared in about two weeks.

James Murray, an attorney for the MSD, said the judge made the decision without conducting a trial.

"The judge reviewed the briefs and the environmental impact study and upheld the sufficiency of the impact statement," he said.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said he was not aware of the judge's ruling, and would not comment until he talked with Robert Di Leonardi, city corporation counsel. DiLeonardi was unavailable for comment Monday. The city could appeal the ruling to the U.S. Appellate Court.

THE CITY HAS been fighting the MSD in court since 1966 on the contention the sewage treatment plant will pose a health hazard to residents in the area. The city objects to emission standards used by the MSD.

Des Plaines last March lost a battle before the Illinois Supreme Court in its suit that the MSD should be required to follow strict local health ordinances. The high court ruled that the city has no authority to regulate regional agencies.

In addition to the lawsuits, the city is awaiting a ruling on a complaint it filed before the Illinois Pollution Control Board. The city has asked the agency to requre the MSD to meet state environmental standards in construction of the sewage treatment plant.

The plant will treat 72 million gallons of sewage a day and is expected to relieve flooding in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

Elk Grove Village officials have joined the MSD in opposing Des Plaines, saying the $114.8 million plant is needed to alleviate chronic flooding problems in the area.

shifts assigned to cruise that area.

"Quite frequently, cars are in and out of there," Hintz said.

Horticulturist Bruce Whalen, supervisor of the Mount Prospect Park District's greenhouse and conservatory at Friendship Park, said the $200 damage estimate does not include labor and equipment costs incurred in planting the garden.

"The $200 is only the cost of the petunias and peat moss," he said. Approximately 1,000 petunias had been planted.

"THE SAD THING IS that it wasn't complete," Whalen said. The plot is about 28 square feet and flowers were planted in the shape of the nation's Bicentennial logo. Whalen said it appears that the vandals drove through the garden about two or three times.

"We'll concentrate (new flower plantings) in Lions Park because of the vandalism," Whalen said. "I don't feel secure enough to put up a garden anymore without it being trampled or torn apart."

Tayler said the frequent recurrence of vandalism in Friendship Park is because there is no full-time staff there to supervise activities.

"Our other parks," he said, "have center facilities and someone is there all of the time." Friendship Park is now used as a cooperative facility with Friendship Junor High School.

Alcohol apparently is the overriding problem, Tayler admitted. "The younger kids, who are probably not of drinking age, just can't handle booze."

Park district officials said they believe closing Friendship Park would not be a solution to the vandalism problem.

"We don't want to close the park," Tayler said. "We can't punish the entire community because of a handful of kids."

Tayler said he has tried chaining the parking lot and even closed the lot earlier than before, but "I found the chains cut in five different places with bolt cutters."

Former parks chief joins Realtors

Robert Kunkel, former Des Plaines Park District director who resigned that position in March, has been hired by William L. Kunkel & Co. Realtors as a sales associate.

Kunkel resigned for personal reasons after working with the district for 10½ years, serving as superintendent of recreation for 3½ years and as director of parks and recreation for seven years.

Kunkel will work out of the Arlington Heights office of Kunkel Realtors, according to Ralph Martin, president. There is no relationship between Kunkel and the owners of the firm.

Neither Kunkel nor park district commissioners have disclosed the reasons for Kunkel's sudden resignation. David Markworth, superintendent of recreation when Kunkel resigned, has been named director of parks and recreation.

Kunkel, 33, earned a bachelor of arts degree in physical education and business from the University of Northern Iowa and has done graduate work in park recreation administration at Northern Illinois University and the University of Illinois. He is a 30-year resident of Des Plaines.

Eight hurt in two traffic accidents

Eight persons were injured, one of them seriously, in two separate traffic accidents in Des Plaines Sunday.

One mishap occurred when a motorcycle driven by Max A. Schaerli, 21, of 905 S. Wille Rd., Des Plaines, struck a group of bicyclists at Mount Prospect Road and Howard Streets shortly after 1 a.m. injuring three of the bike riders, police said.

In stable condition but in intensive care at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, was Victoria Sieber, 27, 62 Kendal Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Cliff Sieber, 29, also of the Elk Grove Village address, and Robert Curatti, 35, of 237 Brighton Rd., also of Elk Grove Village, were treated and released.

Schaerli also was hospitalized at Holy Family and listed in good condition. He was ticketed by police for speeding.

Later Sunday, four other persons were injured in a three-car collision at Oakton Street, and the Soo-Line R R., tracks at Winthrop Drive.

The impact of the crash pushed two of the cars across the tracks in front of an oncoming train, police said.

All four persons were treated and released from Holy Family, but police ticketed Perry G. Cummings, 23, of 9023 Capitol Dr., Des Plaines, for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, and for driving on a suspended license.

Police said Cummings was driving the auto that triggered the collision.

School benefit at store

Dominick's Finer Foods will have a Benefit Day for St. George Church School, Wednesday at the Dominick store, 767 Golf Rd., Des Plaines, and for the Rosemont Band Boosters at the Des Plaines store, 1035 E. Oakton St.

Those who shop on the benefit day at any Dominick store should present their Benefit Day identification slip to the cashier. The group will then receive 5 per cent of the price of the purchase.

Slips are available from the groups or on request at the stores on the day of the benefit.

Dance group at pavilion

The Richard Arve Dance Company will perform at the Memorial Band Pavilion 7:30 p.m. Friday. The performance is free and sponsored by the Des Plaines Park District. The band shell is located at Lake Opeka on Lee Street just north of Touhy Avenue and south of Howard Street.

On Wednesday, June 16, the Des Plaines Mothersingers, a choral group, will present a variety of Bicentennial and modern music. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of Barbara Kunkel.

Parks sponsoring dance

A dance for seventh and eighth graders will be held in the Rand Park Gym, 2025 Miner St., Des Plaines from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Synn" rock band will be featured and tickets will be sold at the door for $1 or in advance for 75 cents at the Park District office, 748 Pearson St.

Transportation will be provided with bus pick-up at South, West and Cumberland Parks at 6:15 and 7 p.m. The bus will return to the same locations at 9:30 p.m.

Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300

Transit agency seeks to repave Milwaukee Ave.

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

To avoid operating losses

Panel seeks Labor Day sponsor

by BILL HURLEY

The Buffalo Grove Days committee is looking for private sponsorship for this year's Labor Day weekend events to avoid operating losses of previous years.

The village board has budgeted $3,500 to cover losses this year, but Robert Bogart, village trustee who is working as liaison with the committee, says he hopes to break even by offering a new program with local merchants.

Bogart said the committee will allow a merchant to enter a float in the parade or place a sponsorship sign on a float for $150.

"HOPEFULLY, we'll have enough sponsorships to break even," Bogart said.

Last year the event lost more than $3,700, primarily because the dinner-dance was canceled because of rain.

Bogart said losses have averaged $1,600 during the past five years.

To avoid problems that resulted last year when the dinner-dance was rained out, Bogart said the committee is looking for an indoor facility. He said two or three possibilities are being considered, including the public works building.

Bogart also said there will be no circus this year.

COMMITTEE co-chairman Kenneth Witcher said the circus lost $300 last year and attracted far fewer persons than expected.

"Trying to sell tickets for that thing was a real bear," he said. "We're not going through that kind of stuff again."

The village board has allocated $2,400 to the parade and $1,000 to the fireworks display this year. Bogart said those two events traditionally have been the biggest money losers in the 13 previous Buffalo Grove Days.

The dinner is a "break even" event, Bogart said, but tickets may be limited this year to about 400 because it will be indoors. He said 600 tickets were sold last year and 753 were sold in 1974.

BOGART SAID the ticket price would be "about the same price as last year, with maybe a slight increase." Last year tickets sold for $5.

Other activities scheduled for the Sept. 4-6 event are water fights, a teen dance, a homemaking contest and art fair.

Bogart said Buffalo Grove Days, which celebrates the anniversary of the village's founding, is scheduled for Labor Day weekend to give residents a reason to stay off the highways.

Fire destroys pair of vacant trailers

Fire gutted a pair of empty trailers Monday afternoon in the Whipple Tree Village Trailer Park, Wheeling firefighters said.

Firemen were investigating the cause of the blaze that started at 1:15 p.m. in the two vacant trailers near Buck Board Drive, in the mobile home park.

Maine man declines health director job

Ronald D. Warner of Maine has turned down an offer to become director of the Health Systems Agency for Kane, Lake and McHenry counties.

Barbara Gordon, chairman of the agency's personnel committee, said Warner has accepted another job offer.

Warner had told The Herald he had doubts about the post, including salary, structure and budgeting of the organization.

The agency is again accepting applications for the director's post, Mrs. Gordon said. The process is expected to take about a month. "We have about 20 other applications in our office, and we will be going through those who were next in line. People who are interested in the job should get their applications in as soon as possible," Mrs. Gordon said.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

A strike force of several hundred Syrian troops and about 20 tanks

London Junior High School teacher Bob Strickland and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 students Barbara and Ray Strickland have something to boast about. Wife and mother, Betty, was nominated to "Who's Who in American Women."

Mrs. Strickland is head of the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. She is also on the national steering committee for alcoholic related services.

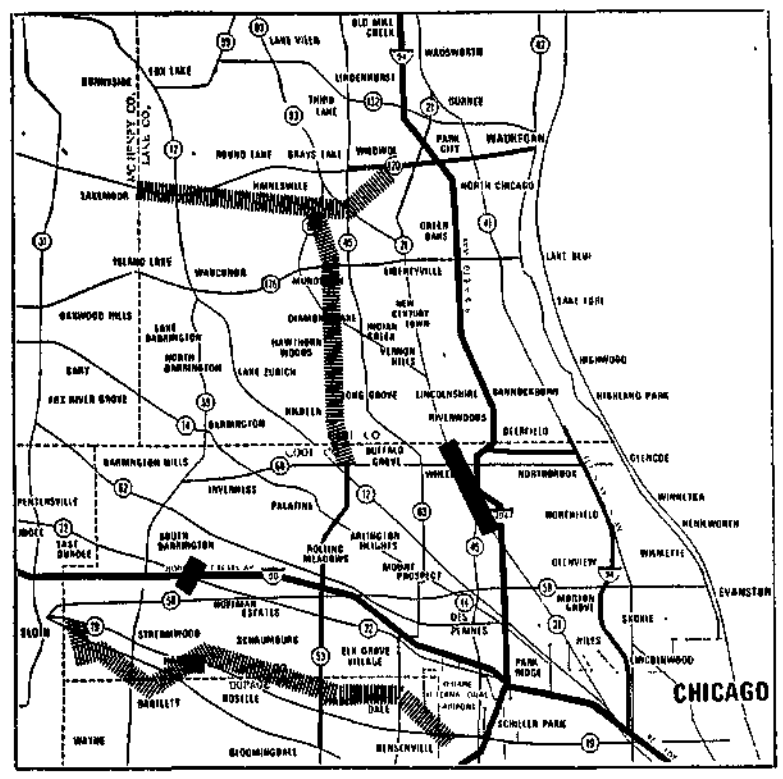

High School Dist. 214

The following students received debate awards for 1975-76: Howard Hess, Varsity Debate Award; Alan Baltis, J.V. Debate Award; Greg Hansen and Dave Cullen, Novice Debate award. Alan Baltis received the Elk Grove Woman's Club scholarship to attend Eastern Illinois University this summer.

SCOTIE awards were presented to: Debby Lange, Tom Duncan, Therese Healy, Liz Livesay, John Livesay, Ron Cohen, Joan Flores and Donna Powell. Debby Lange received the outstanding I.E. Award for 1975-76.

Drama awards were given to: Debby Lange, best actress; Paul Denny, best actor; Liz Livesay, best supporting actress; John Loprieno, best supporting actor; Karen Leksander, the Grenny; Janet Pumphrey, Le Theatre Technique; Dave Hartman, Lighting; Suzanne Jennings, Costumes; Tom Duncan, A.S. Gillette Award; Gail Knapik, publicity. Paul Denney received the $500 Masque and Staff Scholarship, which he will use at Illinois State University.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

Village to hire firm to prepare local newsletter

Funding of a quarterly village newsletter to be prepared by a professional firm was approved by the Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday night.

The newsletter will be written, photographed, edited and printed by William L. Means, a Buffalo Grove firm, at a cost of $600 per issue.

The board approved the newsletter for one printing with further issues to be approved if the first is satisfactory. The four-page newsletter will be ready by July 4, said Trustee Jerry Driscoll.

BUFFALO GROVE now publishes a newsletter approximately three times a year, Driscoll said. Village residents make written contributions, with the newsletter printed on the Dist. 21 offset press.

Driscoll said he would like to expand newsletter coverage to include additional news on the paramedics, blood donor and other programs.

"I'm not going to report the ball scores, but this newsletter could be a very useful thing if we go about it the right way," Driscoll said.

TRUSTEE THOMAS Mahoney said he questioned the need for a village newsletter.

"I really don't see a need for a newsletter," Mahoney said. "Most of the news will be stale because its issued every three months. We have many board meetings. Who is to decide what deserves space?"

The Buffalo Grove budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year includes an expenditure of $1,000 for a newsletter. The Buffalo Grove firm also had proposed another package that would have cost $200, with the village paying for printing costs

Driscoll said he thought the $600 package was worthwhile because the "backup is incredible" at the Dist. 21 facility.

Residents question RTA existence

The Regional Transportation Authority received criticism from Lake County residents and mixed reviews from local transportation planners at a hearing Monday night attended by more than 50 persons at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

The hearing was to have been on the RTA budget and five-year plan, but residents questioned the existence of the RTA.

"You are assessing a heavy penalty to the senior citizen and everyone else," said Charles Kerry of Grayslake. "The money should be put back in the hands of the local community. Leave us our money and we will find us our own way to get around."

HERBERT REIMER of Lake Villa added, "I pay my own light and gas bills. Let those who use the CTA pay for it instead of coming out here begging."

Norman Wolf, Lake County Regional Planning Commission transportation chief, said the five-year plan was consistent with the county's transportation priorities, but he was concerned with budget deficits projects in future years.

The deficit projected for fiscal 1977 is $53 million, Wolf said.

The planning commission suggests transit projects be related to revenues and that priorities be set, Wolf said.

There were several references by RTA Board members to the widening split between the Chicago and suburban board members. Suburban board members intend to hold approval of the budget until Milton Pikarsky is removed as chairman of the RTA.

WAUKEGAN RTA Comr. Richard Newland asked Wolf whether Lake County could survive without the RTA budget. Wolf replied that there weren't many transportation services in the county.

Newland later said that the five counties surrounding Cook County pay two-thirds of the RTA funding while Chicago pays only one third.

"You measure who is paying the freight," Newland said.

The hearing was one of a series being held throughout the six-county region.

Encephalitis peril told by Lake County

by LORI OLSZEWSKI

Mosquito season is coming to Lake County and the Lake County Health Dept. is asking all municipalities and citizens to participate in a county-wide encephalitis prevention program.

Last year, 1,171 Illinois residents were infected with St. Louis encephalitis, a mosquito-transmitted illness. Fift-two of those persons died.

At a press conference to launch the encephalitis prevention program, Steven Potsic, director of the Lake County Health Dept., said, "Lake County shouldn't be lulled into a false sense of security just because none of last year's encephalitis cases occurred within county limits. Cook County is too close to be ignored."

POTSIC SAID prevention is very important because there is no cure for the disease. Once a person has been infected, doctors can only provide supportive care, to try and stabilize the patient's condition and relieve his symptoms, Potsic said.

In the early stages of the disease, those symptoms include fatigue, fever and a headache. Most patients recover from those symptoms within a few days without harmful effects. However, Potsic said, the infection becomes serious if those symptoms persist and are accompanied by a feeling of disorientation, memory lapses, tremors or convulsions.

If the viral infection enters the more serious stage, Potsic said, the patient may experience permanent damage to his kidneys, liver, lungs and brain. Approximately 10 per cent of the cases are fatal. Most of those cases involve infants and the elderly.

THE COUNTY has already begun its prevention program by eliminating mosquitos in their breeding places while they're still larvae.

The larvae are killed by spilling a small amount of oil on their breeding sites to cut off their oxygen supply. The oil evaporates in 24 to 48 hours.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health also is trying to control encephalitis by monitoring the birds who transfer the disease to the mosquitos.

JOHN MOCK, a county entomologist, said the cooperation of individuals is important because the Culex mosquito, which is the carrier, is "homegrown."

For laying its eggs, the Culex favors temporary pools and standing water such as flower pots, old tires, improperly drained gutters and vases holding cut flowers or cuttings. Mock suggests a backyard clean-up program to eliminate those breeding grounds.

"Those mosquitos usually never travel more than two miles from their birthplace, so what you and your neighbors do in your own backyard will determine the success of prevention," Mock said.

Garage owners are advised to spray the insides of standing tires with oil. Homeowners are advised to use oil, never gasoline, if water collects near their lawns.

To eliminate the mosquitos that survive these initial efforts, the county and municipalities plan to "fog" areas during the critical periods in July and August.

Patricia pleads not guilty to Columbo family murders

by JOHN MAES

Patricia Columbo pleaded innocent Monday to an indictment charging her with the murders last month of her father, mother and brother in their Elk Grove Village home.

Through her attorneys, Miss Columbo, 19, entered the plea during an arraignment before presiding Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald.

A county grand jury last week indicted the former Elk Grove High School student with six counts of murder and three other counts alleging conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The Columbos — Frank, 42, Mary, 40, and Michael, 13 — were found shot, stabbed and bludgeoned to death May 7 in their home, 55 E. Brantwood Ave.

DURING A BRIEF court session, Judge Fitzgerald transferred defense and prosecution motions for discovery to Judge Phillip Romiti for a ruling today.

Public defenders representing Miss Columbo also withdrew two other motions to impound tape recordings of police radio transmissions and stenographer's notes of statements Miss Columbo made to authorities after her May 15 arrest.

The motion was designed to prevent the materials from being altered or destroyed, the attorneys said.

Public Defender William Swano said the state's attorney's office, however, had complied with the request and the materials have been turned over to the defense.

The contents of the tapes and notes were not revealed because of Judge Fitzgerald's May 25 order barring attorneys from discussing the case with the news media.

Miss Columbo is being held in lieu of $250,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court today.

Police seek 2 in cleaners robbery

Wheeling police are looking for two men who robbed Scotty's Cleaners, 13 S. Milwaukee Ave., Saturday and fled with $900 cash after tying up a woman clerk with neckties.

Police said a gunman entered the store about 6 p.m. and threatened the clerk, Margaret L. Cargill, 70, with a pistol.

He then ordered the clerk into a back room of the store and bound her hands and feet with two neckties.

The victim told police she heard another man enter the store and begin going through cash boxes. The robbers fled a short time later, police said.

The clerk said she freed herself a few minutes later and went to a shoe store next door to notify police.

Police described the gunman as about 22 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall with shoulder length hair, and wore a plaid T-shirt and blue trousers. Police had no description of the other man.

Jaycees set meeting at steak restaurant

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees' monthly meeting will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Bonanza Sirloin Pit restaurant, 105 W. Dundee Rd.

Members will review the constitution and bylaws and present a donation to the Buffalo Grove and Long Grove paramedics.

For membership information, call Bob Cole at 537-3679.

Fotomat protests mount, panel to continue talks

The Buffalo Grove Plan Commission has voted to continue discussion of a proposal to build a Fotomat booth in the Buffalo Grove Mall, Dundee and Arlington Heights roads, despite objections from neighboring Plaza Verde merchants.

Letters criticizing the proposal have been received from the developer of Plaza Verde and the general manager of Camera Sound in Plaza Verde.

Fotomat plans to construct a small booth at the northeast corner of the Buffalo Grove Mall, in front of the existing National food store.

THE LETTER from the Camera Sound store cited "minor employment opportunities," a reduction of shopping center foot traffic and creation of a possible eyesore as reasons to dismiss the request. The letter also said there are already 10 locations within one mile of the shopping center offering film processing and developing.

In his letter, Ron Grais of Buffalo Grove Associates, developer of Plaza Verde, said that the booth would alter the flow of traffic and would set a "poor precedent" by the village's appearance control commission.

Grais said the mall had redesigned its exterior to conform with the commission's restrictions and doubted whether the booth would blend in with the architecture of the Dundee Road area.

A representative from Fotomat said the company has made variations in its standard design for other shopping centers, and said a list of available variations would be presented before the next workshop session.

No date has been set for the next plan commission discussion of the project.

Free driver course offered by Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 will provide a tuition-free program in driver education this summer.

The Dist. 214 Board of Education had voted to charge students $22 in tuition for the program. School officials reversed the decision after the legal department of the Illinois Office of Education ruled that driver education is a normal part of the educational program and the Illinois Constitution requires that a free public education be provided.

Tuition fees paid by students registered for summer driver education classes will be refunded at the high schools.

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300
Inverness	$ 11,300
Mount Prospect	$236,500
Palatine	$175,100
Rolling Meadows	$129,200
Schaumburg	$125,200

MSD plant suit vetoed by court

A U.S. District Court judge Monday ruled against Des Plaines in a lawsuit that challenged the federal government's approval of the Metropolitan Sanitary District's O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant.

In the lawsuit, the city charged that a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency environmental impact study was inadequate to ensure the safey of residents near the sewage treatment plant, which is now under construction at the southwest corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

Judge George Leighton ruled in the MSD's favor after reviewing the impact study and briefs filed by the city and MSD.

A SPOKESMAN for Leighton said although the lawsuit was not dismissed, the judge's ruling probably will have the same effect.

The judge is expected to outline the reasons for his ruling in a written opinion that may be prepared in about two weeks.

James Murray, an attorney for the MSD, said the judge made the decision without conducting a trial.

"The judge reviewed the briefs and the environmental impact study and upheld the sufficiency of the impact statement," he said.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said he was not aware of the judge's ruling, and would not comment until he talked with Robert Di Leonardi, city corporation counsel. DiLeonardi was unavailable for comment Monday. The city could appeal the ruling to the U.S. Appellate Court.

THE CITY HAS been fighting the MSD in court since 1966 on the contention the sewage treatment plant will pose a health hazard to residents in the area. The city objects to emission standards used by the MSD.

Des Plaines last March lost a battle before the Illinois Supreme Court in its suit that the MSD should be required to follow strict local health ordinances. The high court ruled that the city has no authority to regulate regional agencies.

In addition to the lawsuits, the city is awaiting a ruling on a complaint it filed before the Illinois Pollution Control Board. The city has asked the agency to require the MSD to meet state environmental standards in construction of the sewage treatment plant.

Bid to kill unit law aid defeated by Dist. 59 vote

by PAM BIGFORD

Two members of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education pressed unsuccessfully Monday night to drop legal services involving a unit district referendum because of an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which indicates employing the law firm may be illegal.

Board member Charles Canupp asked the board to release the services of the law firm Reid, Oschenschlage, Murphy and Hupp which was retained for legal advice on bringing the question of forming a unit district to a referendum.

The Scott opinion, pertaining to a unit district controversy in Vermilion County, stated that school boards are not authorized to spend district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit district.

CANUPP SAID the community of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed unit district petitions should pay for legal advice.

Canupp's resolution to drop the law firm was defeated 5 to 2. Canupp and fellow member Paul Kucharski voted to support the resolution.

The board unanimously passed a resolution to cooperate in providing citizens "with all the pertinent facts" concerning the formation of a unit district.

High School Dist. 214 has voiced opposition to a unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from the district and place them under Dist. 59 control.

BOARD PRES. Judith Zanca said Dist. 59 Atty. Frank Hines has not seen the entire Scott opinion but has told her that in his opinion board expenditures before a public hearing on a unit district are legal. Mrs. Zanca said Hines will report further to the board after he studies the opinion.

Kucharski said he called Scott's office and talked to William Wallin, a staff member, who said, "In no uncertain terms, any action toward that (unit district) study that involves citizens funds is in Scott's opinion illegal."

Mrs. Zanca said Hines based his opinion on information from the Illinois Office of Education. The school board always has operated under the guidelines of the IOE, she said.

"Scott has one opinion and the IOE has another opinion. We (the board) operate under the opinion of the IOE, and until you get into a court of law, you just have two different opinions," Mrs. Zanca said.

Lions Club sponsors sale this weekend

The Elk Grove Village Lions Club will conduct a "super sale" this weekend at the Elk Grove High School fieldhouse, 500 W. Elk Grove Blvd.

The sale will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m, Sunday. Among the varied items for sale will be beer cans, coins, stamps, arts and crafts, antiques, rummage and garage sale type merchandise.

There is a 50 cent donation for adults and 25 cent donation for children, with the proceeds to be used for assisting the blind and visually handicapped and for charitable projects within the community.

Summer jobs available, township agency reports

Elk Grove Township students looking for summer jobs may be able to find them through the township's Youth Employment Service.

Nita Stamm, who handles the program, said Monday that 55 companies in the Elk Grove Industrial Park already have said they have summer jobs available, as many as eight and 10 jobs per company in some instances.

"We have placed several kids," Ms. Stamm said. "But the kids haven't been coming in as fast because we haven't publicized it much this year."

SHE SAID THAT in addition to the 900 letters sent to industrial park companies, the township plans to send letters to Woodfield Shopping Center businessmen, seeking information on available jobs.

Ms. Stamm said she was pleasantly surprised with the response from the industries, adding the survey almost was not made this year because of the poor response last year. Last year, letters were sent to more than 1,500 employers and only 35 responses were received.

More responses from the industrial area are expected during the next few weeks.

Ms. Stamm urged both employers and students seeking jobs to contact the township hall, 437-0300.

Students also may fill out an application to use the service at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

I'm not guilty: Patty Columbo

by JOHN MAES

Patricia Columbo pleaded innocent Monday to an indictment charging her with the murders last month of her father, mother and brother in their Elk Grove Village home.

Through her attorneys, Miss Columbo, 19, entered the plea during an arraignment before presiding Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald.

A county grand jury last week indicted the former Elk Grove High School student with six counts of murder and three other counts alleging conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The Columbos — Frank, 42, Mary, 40, and Michael, 13 — were found shot, stabbed and bludgeoned to death

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

A strike force of several hundred Syrian troops and about 20 tanks

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

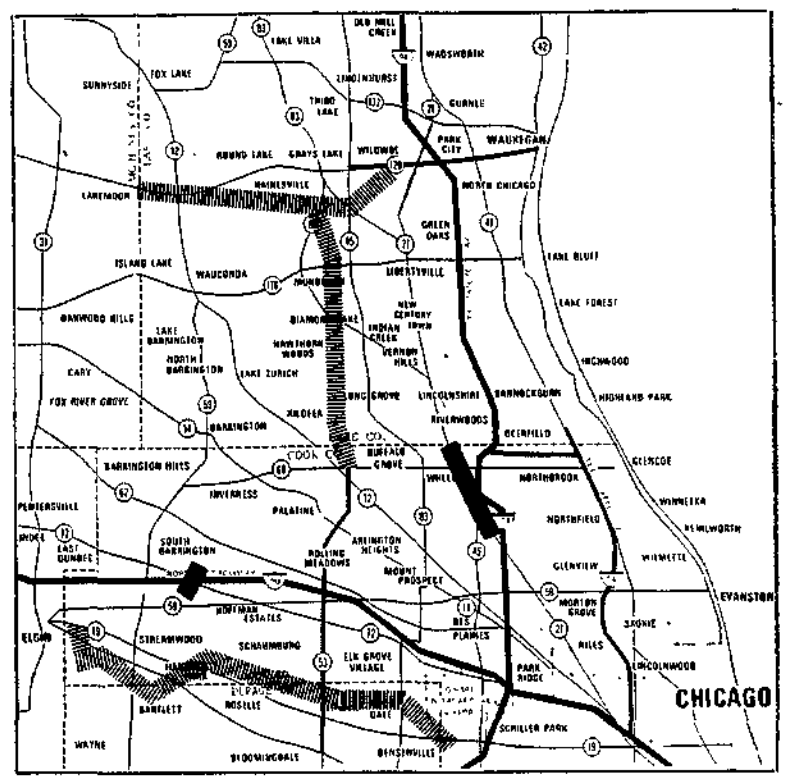

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

Conant High graduation Wednesday

Conant High School will honor 442 graduates in its 11th annual graduation ceremony Wednesday.

Weather permitting, the ceremony will be held in Cougar Field at the school, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent in High School Dist. 211, will be the featured speaker. Students Michael Frisch and Cynthia Fisher will also speak at the ceremony.

Board of Education members Jean Fisler and Robert Seger will present the Conant graduates with their diplomas.

May 7 in their home, 55 E. Brantwood Ave.

DURING A BRIEF court session, Judge Fitzgerald transferred defense and prosecution motions for discovery to Judge Phillip Romiti for a ruling today.

Public defenders representing Miss Columbo also withdrew two other motions to impound tape recordings of police radio transmissions and stenographer's notes of statements Miss Columbo made to authorities after her May 15 arrest.

The motion was designed to prevent the materials from being altered or destroyed, the attorneys said.

Public Defender William Swano said the state's attorney's office, however, had complied with the request and the materials have been turned over to the defense.

The contents of the tapes and notes were not revealed because of Judge Fitzgerald's May 25 order barring attorneys from discussing the case with the news media.

Miss Columbo is being held in lieu of $250,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court today.

Dist. 59 OKs private summer class

Sponsorship of summer school programs by private individuals and organizations was approved Monday night by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

The board approved guidelines drawn up by the administration stating that the programs must be sponsored by a recognized organization within Dist. 59, must be approved by the administration and must employ Dist. 59 teachers.

Several band groups and some reading and math teachers asked to use district schools for summer programs after the board last month canceled summer school for this year. The state board of education has indicated the state will not be able to fund summer school as it has in past years.

Free driver course offered by Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 will provide a tuition-free program in driver education this summer.

The Dist. 214 Board of Education had voted to charge students $22 in tuition for the program. School officials reversed the decision after the legal department of the Illinois Office of Education ruled that driver education is a normal part of the educational program and the Illinois Constitution requires that a free public education be provided.

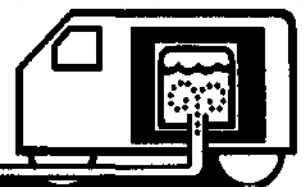

Tuition fees paid by students registered for summer driver education classes will be refunded at the high schools.

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300
Inverness	$ 11,300
Mount Prospect	$236,500
Palatine	$175,100
Rolling Meadows	$129,200
Schaumburg	$125,200

Transit agency seeks to repave Milwaukee Ave.

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

Youth, 19, injured in cycle mishap

A 19-year-old Hoffman Estates motorcyclist suffered minor injuries when his cycle overturned in Schaumburg late Monday night.

Michael Fabray of 514 Devonshire, reportedly suffered minor abrasions and lacerations when he fell on his motorcycle at 58 W. Plum Grove Rd. at 10:50 p.m. Monday.

Schaumburg firefighters rushed Fabray to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was treated for minor injuries and x-rayed.

At midnight, it was uncertain if Fabray was to be hospitalized.

Firemen douse fire in leaky waterbed

Schaumburg firefighters put out an electrical fire in a waterbed early Sunday at Walden apartment complex, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen said the apartment, which was unoccupied at the time of the fire, was flooded with about two tons of water that escaped from the bed.

Abrahamsen said the cause of the fire was an electrical malfunction.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice; cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

Village consents to review of 911 emergency phone plan

A feasibility study into a 911 emergency telephone system was approved by the Hoffman Estates Village Board Monday night, although trustees are skeptical of the system's value.

The study, to be conducted by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. at no cost to the village, will examine the practicality of installing the system in Hoffman Estates.

The system allows residents to dial 911 for emergency services, including ambulance, police and fire department. State law requires 911 to be in effect by 1980.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said the board could authorize the study but "that doesn't mean we have to activate it."

TRUSTEE JEANNE Pavey voted against the study, saying the state legislature was trying to "stuff it down our throats."

Trustee Ralph Lyerla said, "the village has no choice. We've got to do it."

Longmeyer said if the village did not approve the study by 1980, the Illinois Attorney General would direct the village to do so.

Schaumburg and Palatine have requested the study, which will better coordinate the studies of the overall area, he added.

"WE'LL PROBABLY be the test case when they are handing down law suits," Hoffman Estates Village Pres. Virginia Hayter said.

Hoffman Estates Police Chief John O'Connell, who objected to the 911 system three months ago, said Monday night he was concerned that efficiency may be lost with the new number.

Trustee Bruce Lind said the village now gets a 30-to 60-second response from emergency numbers, "but who knows how long it will take under 911?"

High school seniors up for village honor

The 1976 senior class at Schaumburg High School will be honored at tonight's village board meeting at 8 o'clock for having produced approximately 100 donors for the village's community blood drive in April.

Certificates of appreciation also will be awarded in village civic center, 101 S. Schaumburg Ct., to Mel Schwartz, Robert Link and James Blankenship.

Schwartz served as village treasurer for a number of years; Link recently resigned from the village plans commission to accept a new transfer; Blankenship was a member of the zoning board of appeals for two years.

The meeting is open to the public.

Pat Columbo enters not guilty plea

by JOHN MAES

Patricia Columbo pleaded innocent Monday to an indictment charging her with the murders last month of her father, mother and brother in their Elk Grove Village home.

Through her attorneys, Miss Columbo, 19, entered the plea during an arraignment before presiding Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald.

A county grand jury last week indicted the former Elk Grove High School student with six counts of murder and three other counts alleging conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The Columbos — Frank, 42, Mary, 40, and Michael, 13 — were found shot, stabbed and bludgeoned to death May 7 in their home, 55 E. Brantwood Ave.

DURING A BRIEF court session, Judge Fitzgerald transferred defense and prosecution motions for discovery to Judge Phillip Romiti for a ruling today.

Public defenders representing Miss Columbo also withdrew two other motions to impound tape recordings of police radio transmissions and stenographer's notes of statements Miss Columbo made to authorities after her May 15 arrest.

The motion was designed to prevent the materials from being altered or destroyed, the attorneys said.

Public Defender William Swano said the state's attorney's office, however, had complied with the request and the materials have been turned over to the defense.

The contents of the tapes and notes were not revealed because of Judge Fitzgerald's May 25 order barring attorneys from discussing the case with the news media.

Miss Columbo is being held in lieu of $250,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court today.

Romano gets 'tide-over' loan

The Des Plaines National Bank has provided interim financing for bankrupt Schaumburg developer Lee N. Romano, but bank officials remained mum last week about the sum of money involved.

Reportedly the loan will tide Romano over until October, when some of the livestock at his $4 million Fernwood Farm, Barrington, is sold.

Romano is seeking U.S. District Court approval to reorganize his holdings, which include the cattle farm, 238 acres at Higgins Road and Interstate 90 where the futuristic Outer Planets development is proposed and several other Northwest suburban properties.

SCHAUMBURG'S WOODFIELD Shopping Center area is rapidly becoming "Andersonville."

J. Emil Anderson and Son, Inc., Des Plaines developers, recently started construction of a third eight-story building at 999 Plaza Dr. in Woodfield Office Plaza.

One completed building is occupied by the Illinois Department of Transportation. The second structure is 90 per cent leased, with the tenant list including Safeco and Great American Insurance companies, the Big 10 Athletic Conference, Data General and Foremost-McKesson.

The Anderson firm also is leasing space in its Woodfield Commons office-commercial area west of Woodfield to the Secretary of State for a Northwest suburban driver examining station expected to open next month.

Rovin to head mental aid panel

Adrienne Rovin of Hoffman Estates has been elected chairman of the Schaumburg Township Board of Mental Health.

Other new officers include Dick Rehwaldt of Schaumburg, cochairman, and Mary Ellen Kelly of Hoffman Estates, secretary.

The officers will serve from July 1 to June 30, 1977.

The mental health board meets the first Tuesday of each month at 8 p.m. in the township office, 105 S. Roselle Rd.

Because of summer vacations, the mental health board will not meet in August. Regular meetings will resume in September.

Persons interested in joining the mental health board are asked to contact the township office, 894-8130, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600
Hoffman Estates	$150,300

Watson backs strong manager government plan

by TONI GINNETTI

James E. Watson, former Rolling Meadows city manager has endorsed passage of Saturday's referendum to adopt a strong manager form of government.

In a letter dated June 4, Watson recommends residents adopt the strong manager-city council system, calling it a "more efficient, effective" system which can "stay divorced from political influence."

At the same time Watson said he recommends retaining the ward system of representation and electing two aldermen per ward to provide for what he calls "full representation."

REACHED MONDAY in Olney, Ill., where he is the city manager, Watson said he wrote the letter solely to endorse the strong manager government concept.

"I almost thought it would sound like I was getting into a political thing which I was not," Watson said. "Really, the only thing I want to do is say I support the strong manager form of government. I think it is the best form."

Watson, who lived in the city for 20 years and served as a 1st Ward alderman and city manager, added that "some things would have been different" in his managerial term had the strong manager concept been in effect.

"I just feel it's a good form of government and would be good for Rolling Meadows," he said.

THE LETTER is the first public statement from the 58-year-old former city manager since his resignation in October. Watson, who had been the city's manager since 1969, resigned under fire for errors in the city's 1975-76 budget which cost an estimated $200,000 loss in tax revenue.

The city has been without a manager since Watson's resignation. Charles Green, administrative assistant, has been serving as acting city manager.

Watson was hired April 1 as the city manager of Olney, a community of 10,000 located 180 miles south of Chicago.

Watson resigned amid speculation that Mayor Roland J. Meyer had requested his resignation, although neither would comment on the rumors.

James E. Watson

WATSON'S DEPARTURE prompted aldermen to push for a referendum asking voters to adopt a strong manager form of government which would give the manager, now chiefly an administrator, power to appoint department heads.

Those appointment powers currently rest with the mayor.

The referendum, delayed for several months, will be held Saturday.

"I am a firm believer in the city manager form of government and highly recommend that you vote your approval of it for Rolling Meadows," Watson's letter states.

"IT IS IMPOSSIBLE for any manager to sit in on the daily problems that arise and, having a first hand view of the problems, be without the authority to take necessary action to handle or correct while remaining the one person held responsible."

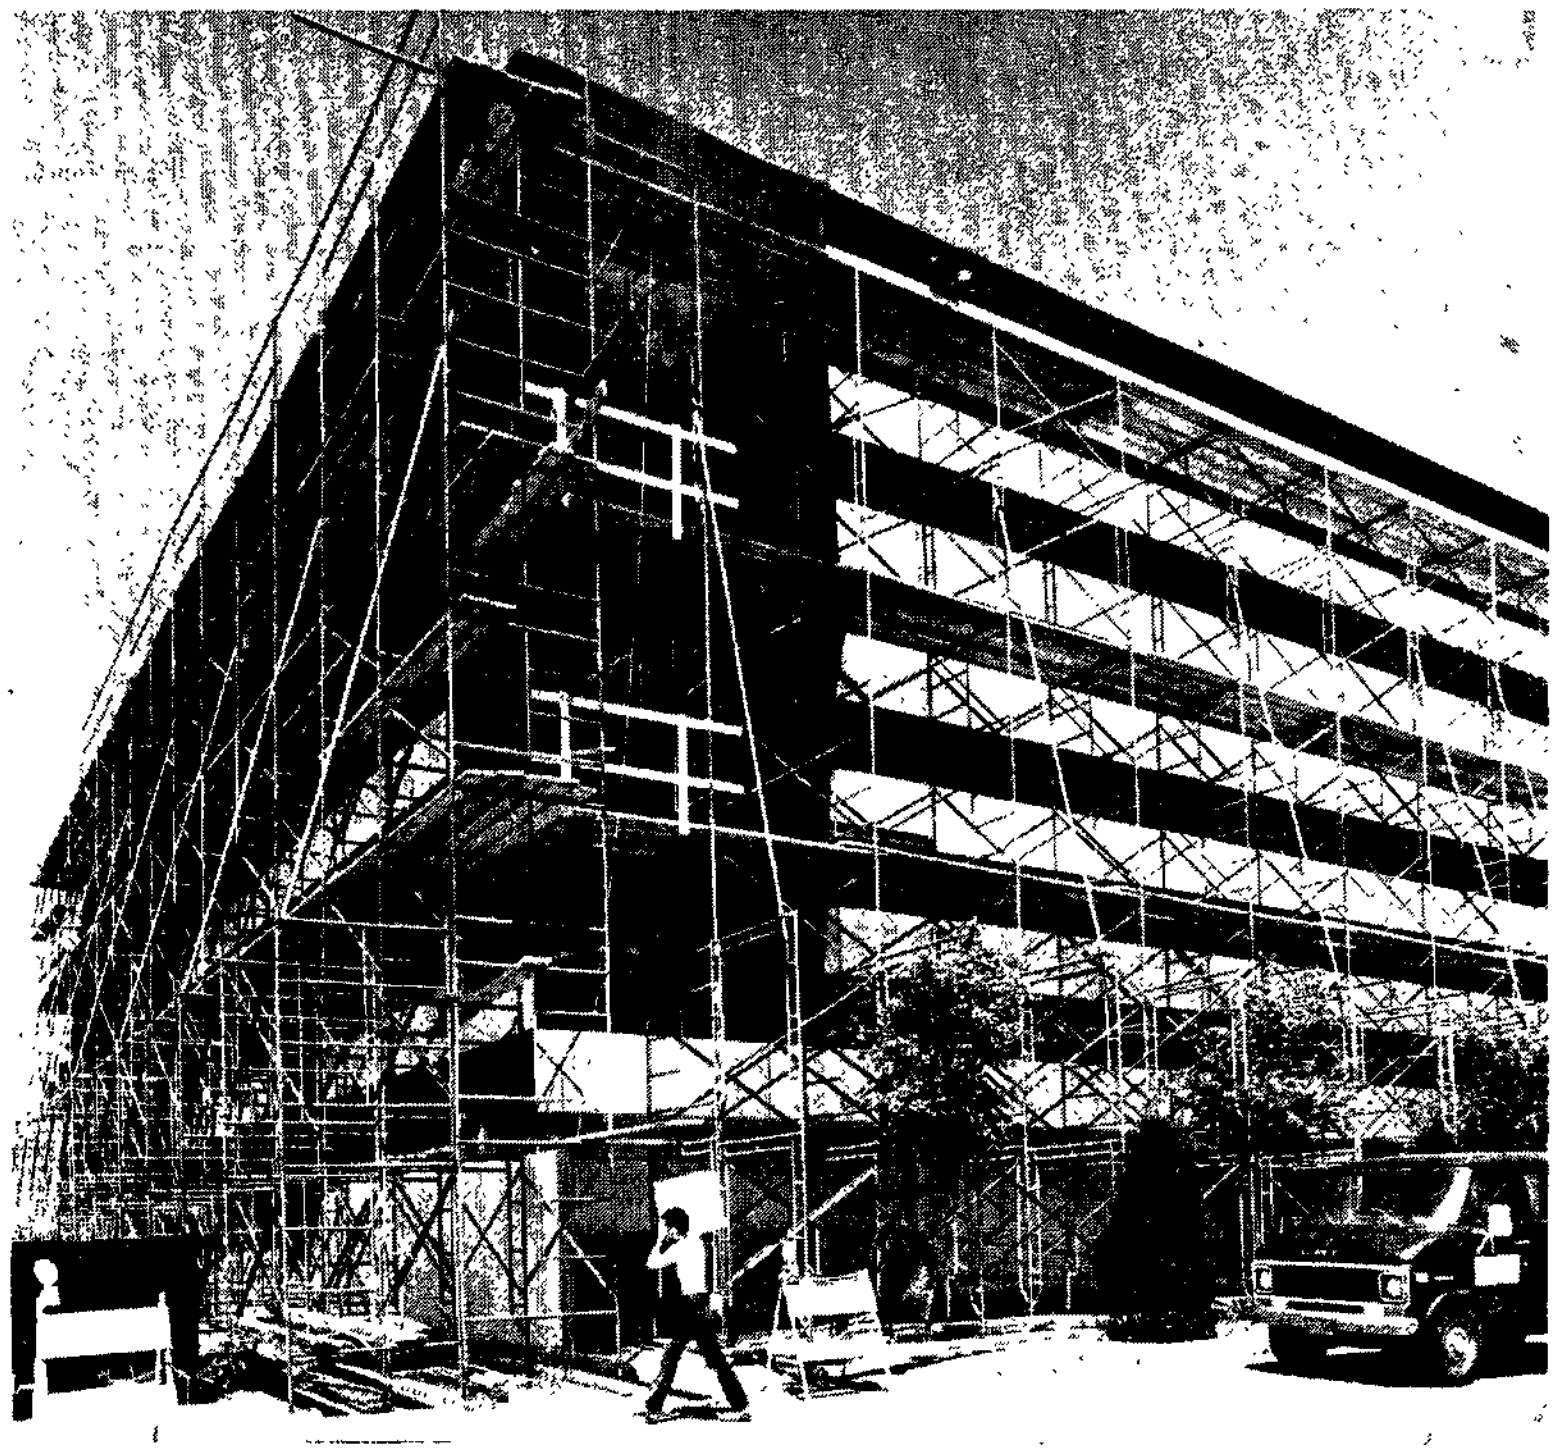

"It is also impossible for a manager to effectively control and direct department heads over whom he has little authority since they, under the present setup, receive their appointment and dismissal from the mayor with the consent of the council," the letter states.

"I believe the City of Rolling Meadows can justify a council of 10 aldermen in order to effectively maintain the representation of the electorate," it continues.

"It is also my opinion that even with a council of 10 aldermen, the administration of various departments by committees should be discontinued upon passage of the strong manager form of government.

"THE COUNCIL could then greatly reduce its work load and meetings. A

Green suggests firm for job study

Rolling Meadows Acting City Mgr. Charles Green Monday recommended the city hire Hay Associates, Chicago, to conduct a $6,500 city employe pay scale and job description survey.

The firm was high bidder for the job, also sought by Yarger and Associates, Falls Church, Va., which bid $5,900, and Public Administrations and Service Co., Chicago, who proposed the survey for $4,250.

Green said although the Hay bid was highest, "The firm has proposed a much more thorough evaluation system, which utilizes mathematical models and survey information."

CITY TREASURER Robert Cole said that Hay and Associates "will produce the better job for the city."

City officials several months ago suggested Green seek a firm to conduct the job survey to review present employe job descriptions and pay scales.

The finance committee will discuss the proposal again at a meeting June 21 and expects to make a recommendation at the city council meeting June 22.

Ald. Fredrick Jacobson, 5th, asked Green to obtain three letters of recommendation from municipalities that have used the firm's services.

ALD. RAYMOND Neuckranz, 1st, called the recommendations "a waste of time." Neuckranz said the Hay proposal appeared to use systems of evaluation that were very thorough.

"Most particularly, I'm impressed that the Hay proposal says it will take at least 13 weeks to complete the survey, which is almost twice as long as the other two," he said. "Evaluating employes is not an easy job. In some companies it takes a year."

He added that the Hay firm, in addition to other evaluations, uses a point system similar to those used by industry. "Titles don't matter in a system like this. A person gets as many points as his job shows he has responsibility. In theory a sergeant in one department could be worth as many points as a lieutenant in another," Neuckrantz said.

Neuckranz also recommended the city hire the firm, "I've reviewed all three proposals and think the Hay proposal is superior to them all."

Ald. Stephen Eberhard, 3rd, said his only concern was "that the evaluation does not become biased."

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

A strike force of several hundred Syrian troops and about 20 tanks

Right-of-way, resurfacing top list

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

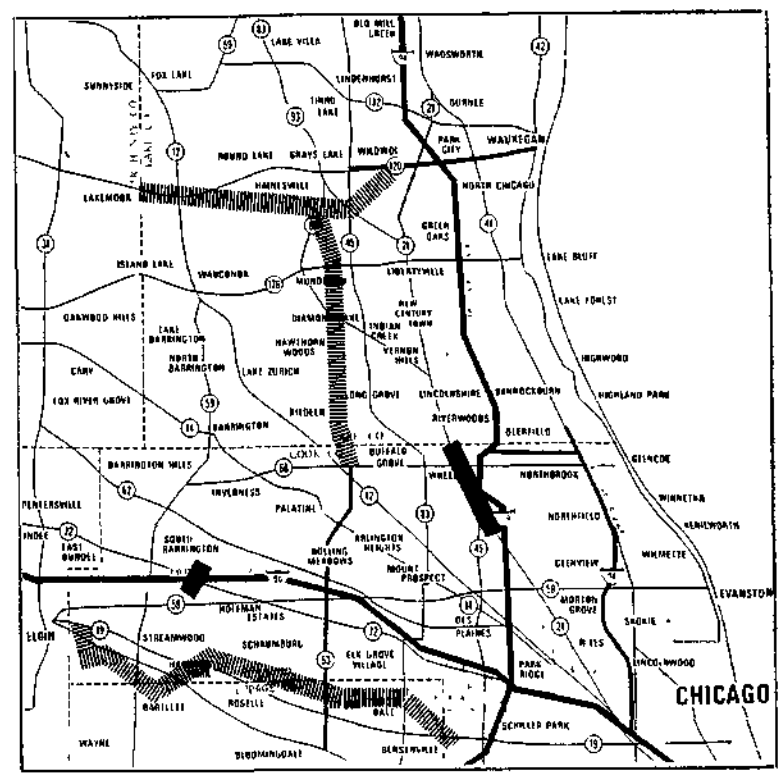

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

reduction in the compensation of the mayor and aldermen would then be justified.

"A look at the majority of the surrounding communities will show you that the strong manager form of government can be more efficient, effective and stay divorced from political influence."

The letter concludes, "Rolling Meadows has made great advances during its short lifetime and, with the proper interest and guidance, can go on to becoming one of the finest communities in the state."

Township holds Bridge funding

A decision on funding the alternative and health services programs operated by the Bridge Youth Services Bureau was deferred Monday night by the Palatine Township Board of Auditors.

Board Supervisor Howard Olsen asked the board to table action on both programs until June 28. Township officials have set a June 16 meeting with Bridge counselors to clear the air over what is termed a lack of communication between the bureau and the board.

Olsen said the town board has split into two factions over whether the township should fund the alternative school counseling program for $16,000, and the health services program, for $10,000.

He said it was necessary to eliminate the split and to have good communications between the board and Bridge personnel.

The alternative school program, an in-depth counseling service to troubled or problem students in Palatine Township High School Dist. 211, drew criticism from auditors Charles Zimmerman and John Serio over whether the township or Dist. 211 should provide the service, and whether the program was duplicating existing services.

Zimmerman also questioned whether the town board should approve specific programs proposed by the board's youth commission, or if it should approve any budget requests the commission presents.

The same questions were raised in connection with the health services program, which provides counseling for a variety of health problems, including pregnancies and venereal disease.

David Russell, director of The Bridge, said the $16,000 figure for the school program is not entirely accurate.

"We tried to cost-out counseling to families," he said, "and the counseling is nothing more than we've done for years. It's (the program) is more accurately reflected as $5,000 per year."

He said the additional cost includes the one-time charge of $3,000 for the program to begin and continuing charges of $3,000 for operating expenses incurred in other programs. Another $5,000 is for "counseling services we are providing anyway."

Keith Shelton, assistant superintendent of Dist. 211, said that both programs provide better service to the students than the district could provide at current costs.

Shelton and Dist. 211 board member Robert Sager said the board of education was committed to providing these services, but could not do it as efficiently as The Bridge.

In seeking to table action on both items, Olsen said he hoped the pot luck dinner meeting will provide new communication and sway the one uncommitted auditor.

Zimmerman and Serio said they oppose funding the programs while Liston Pennington indicated he favored it Olsen also appeared to be in favor of the funding, leaving Donald Bellm apparently the uncommitted auditor.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

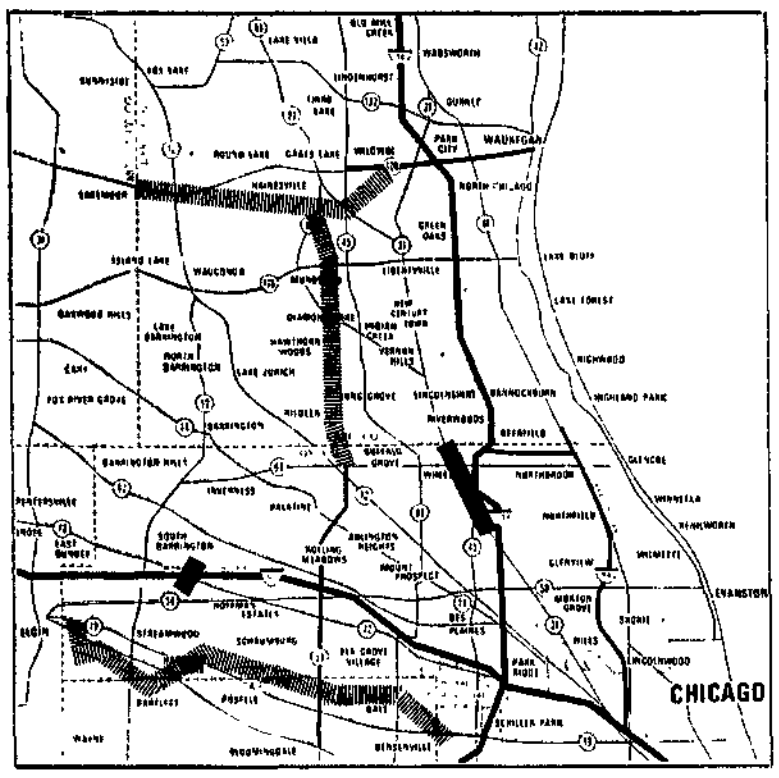

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

443 to graduate at Palatine High

Ray Mills, a counselor at Palatine High School who is retiring this month after 30 years in High School Dist. 211, will lead 443 graduates in procession in Palatine High School's centennial graduation ceremony Tuesday.

The ceremony will be held in Ost Field at the school, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine.

In honor of the school's centennial, Board of Education Pres. Robert Creek and Supt. Richard Kolze will be the guest speakers. Diplomas will be distributed by board members.

Student speakers will be Ben Siegler, Jean Linsner and Rosemary Hoppins. Music will be provided by the band and the choir.

Monday, 300 of the graduates will hold a dinner at Lancer's Steak House, Schaumburg. Kolze, board member Anna Countryman and the administrative staff of the school will attend. The music department will furnish the entertainment.

$600 water system fee urged for new residents

A $600 service connection fee for new users to hook into the village water system is needed to provide funds for future water system improvements, Palatine Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig said Monday night.

Harwig told the village board's planning, building and zoning committee the current $150 fee to install water meters to new users is the only charge to connect to the system. He said the actual average cost of adding a unit to the system is about $700.

Harwig said funds to provide improvements and maintenance of the water system currently are provided in the water rate fee structure, but he noted that a growth in the village population will require more wells or storage capacity. By charging new users a fee, funds can be established to provide for expansion of the system without charging current residents, he said.

"IT'S A philosophical issue," Harwig said. "Should the present user pay for new wells, or should the new users pay?" Residents have paid for the system as it exists today. All future needs will be based on future growth, he said.

Trustee Bryan P. Coughlin took exception to Harwig's analysis because he said the water rates have a built in depreciation cost to provide for maintenance of the system.

"I don't think we are subsidizing the new users, because they pay a depreciation cost in their water fee just like everyone else," Coughlin said. By charging a connection fee, the new user is being double-taxed, he said.

Harwig said the new user actually is not being double-taxed because the equipment needed to provide him service is not currently on line. The connection fee will provide the funds to build that extra capacity into the system, Harwig said.

TRUSTEE ROBERT Guss likened the situation to the village's recently passed land dedication ordinance, which requires developers to donate school and park sites as part of the requirements for village approval of their projects.

"I want the people of Palatine for once to get a fair shake for their dollar," Guss said. "Now the village will get service that is fairly due it."

Harwig has proposed the village board adopt the water connection fee as an ordinance. The committee voted to refer the matter to the administration, legislation and finance committee for further discussion.

Harwig also was directed to prepare a survey of similar ordinances of surrounding communities.

Library extends use of facility to village board

The Palatine Public Library Board has voted to extend the Palatine village board's use of the library for Monday night meetings through Oct. 1.

The three-month extension, a routine procedure, is contingent on three stipulations, including observation of the no-smoking rule, that the village be charged for unusual cleaning expenses and that a $10 per hour charge be made for meetings extending past midnight.

The village board has been meeting in the library's Rennack Room since December. Use of the room had to be extended because the current agreement expires in July.

Prior to use of the new library, the village board was forced to meet for 2½ years in the upstairs hall of the Slade Street Fire Station.

Police SWAT truck to make debut today

Rolling Meadows police tonight will unveil an armored truck donated by Purolator Security Inc. for the city's Special Weapons and Tactics Team.

The presentation, to be attended by Police Chief Lewis Case; John Pratt, president of Purolator; and Gene Connelly, FBI representative, will take place at the city council meeting at 8:30 p.m. at city hall, 3600 Kirchoff Rd.

Aldermen James Huddleston, 4th, and William Ahrens, 2nd, have protested funding for the SWAT team, which would include monetary support for the SWAT truck.

Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "It include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Bid to kill unit legal services nixed in Dist. 59

by PAM BIGFORD

Two members of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education pressed unsuccessfully Monday night to drop legal services involving a unit district referendum because of an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which indicates employing the law firm may be illegal.

Board member Charles Canupp asked the board to release the services of the law firm Reid, Oschenschlage, Murphy and Hupp which was retained for legal advice on bringing the question of forming a unit district to a referendum.

The Scott opinion, pertaining to a unit district controversy in Vermilion County, stated that school boards are not authorized to spend district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit district.

CANUPP SAID the community of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed unit district petitions should pay for legal advice.

Canupp's resolution to drop the law firm was defeated 5 to 2. Canupp and fellow member Paul Kucharski voted to support the resolution.

The board unanimously passed a resolution to cooperate in providing citizens "with all the pertinent facts" concerning the formation of a unit district.

High School Dist. 214 has voiced opposition to a unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from the district and place them under Dist. 59 control.

BOARD PRES. Judith Zanca said Dist. 59 Atty. Frank Hines has not seen the entire Scott opinion but has told her that in his opinion board expenditures before a public hearing on a unit district are legal. Mrs. Zanca said Hines will report further to the board after he studies the opinion.

Kucharski said he called Scott's office and talked to William Wallin, a staff member, who said, "In no uncertain terms, any action toward that (unit district) study that involves citizens funds is in Scott's opinion illegal."

Mrs. Zanca said Hines based his opinion on information from the Illinois Office of Education. The school board always has operated under the guidelines of the IOE, she said.

"Scott has one opinion and the IOE has another opinion. We (the board) operate under the opinion of the IOE, and until you get into a court of law, you just have two different opinions," Mrs. Zanca said.

Dist. 59 OKs private summer class

Sponsorship of summer school programs by private individuals and organizations was approved Monday night by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

The board approved guidelines drawn up by the administration stating that the programs must be sponsored by a recognized organization within Dist. 59, must be approved by the administration and must employ Dist. 59 teachers.

Several band groups and some reading and math teachers asked to use district schools for summer programs after the board last month canceled summer school for this year. The state board of education has indicated the state will not be able to fund summer school as it has in past years.

Free driver course offered by Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 will provide a tuition-free program in driver education this summer.

The Dist. 214 Board of Education had voted to charge students $22 in tuition for the program. School officials reversed the decision after the legal department of the Illinois Office of Education ruled that driver education is a normal part of the educational program and the Illinois Constitution requires that a free public education be provided.

Tuition fees paid by students registered for summer driver education classes will be refunded at the high schools.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Dist. 26 board meets at junior high school

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education will meet at 8 p.m. today at River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect.

Items on the board's agenda include action on the rental of Park View School and the appointment of a new board member to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Edward Pugliese.

City backs resident in zone fight

The residents of N. Pine Street won the support of the Prospect Heights City Council Monday night in an attempt to reverse a recent zoning variation granted by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals.

The council voted 6-1 to join the residents in legal action to block the construction of three houses on Pine Street.

Council members agreed to "go on record" and object to the variation and to do what they could to protect the "existing character of the community."

ALD. SHIRLEY MOORE, however, voted against the action, saying, "I thought the variation already had been reviewed and granted by the zoning board, and that I would go along with their decision.

"I believe taking this legal action will be a poor use of public tax dollars," Mrs. Moore said.

Ald. Frederick E. Gilman was absent from the meeting.

City Atty. Donald Kreger said it will cost the city between $200 and $600 to intervene "as a friend of the court."

PINE STREET residents have asked the state appellate court to reverse the zoning board of appeals' variation granted to Richard P. Schuld and William T. Esser. A hearing will be scheduled later this summer.

Neither owner of the 1.25-acre tract on which the three homes are to be built were present at Monday night's meeting.

The residents contend the variation does not comply with existing zoning in Prospect Heights, where most homes are located on a minimum of one-half-acre lots.

The Pine Street residents have criticized the variation, calling it a "dangerous precedent" in zoning. They also have received financial support from other parts of the community in the legal battle.

THE 20 PINE Street residents present at the council meeting labeled the council's action "a boost."

"We are delighted with the support of the city council. It suggests that what we have been fighting for is legitimate," said George Slawik, spokesman for the homeowners.

"Now we have the support of a legally recognized body which should help us in court," he said.

900 pledge $30,000 to fight birth defects

Almost $30,000 was pledged to fight birth defects by 900 youngsters taking part in the National Foundation-March of Dimes Northwest Suburban walk-a-thon May 16.

The money raised will support March of Dimes research, medical service and educational and community service programs in the Chicago area.

Schools

St. Paul Lutheran School

St. Paul Lutheran School, 18 South St., Mount Prospect, will graduate 22 eighth graders at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the school gymnasium.

"The Future of Tomorrow Starts Today" is the theme for the three student speakers, Ruth Hemmeter, Andy Virnich, and Bill Curtis, and the guest speaker, Wayne Schwanke, principal of St. Paul Lutheran School, Janesville, Wis.

St. Zachary School

St. Zachary School, Des Plaines, recently presented "This Is My Country," directed by Charlene Hyman, to highlight the major events in our country's history.

The program of poetry and song included such classics as "Columbus," "Paul Revere's Ride," "Yankee Doodle," "Home on the Range," J.F.K.'s Inaugural Address, dancing Indians, "The Gettysburg Address," war tunes and excerpts from Dr. Martin Luther King's "I Have A Dream."

The production ended with a patriotic rendering of "God Bless America" sung by the students and the audience.

Chippewa Junior High School

More than 220 eighth-grade students will graduate from Chippewa Junior High School at 7:30 p.m. today in the school auditorium, 123 Eighth St., Des Plaines.

The Rev. E. H. Pendergrass of Church of Christ in Elk Grove Village, will give the invocation, which will be followed by a "Patriotic Symposium in Speech and Song" performed by the graduating class.

Chippewa Principal James A. Roy will present the class and Des Plaines Dist. 62 Supt. Eric A. Sahlberg will accept the class.

Board member James N. Kosmond will be the guest speaker. Students Raymond M. Gunn and George J. Fitzgerald will introduce the graduates.

Diplomas will be presented by two board members, Stuart D. Kisten and Kosmond.

In general . . .

Marion Mason and Lorraine Gorman both of Arlington Heights, are charter members of the newly organized Library Technical Assistants at the College of Du Page, 22nd Street and Lambert Rd., Glen Ellyn.

Ms. Mason is the corresponding secretary for the group which represents students, alumni and interested persons in the college's library technician training curriculum. Those interested in the organization may call, 971-1367.

Four Northwest suburban high school students will perform in the Chicagoland High School Theatrical Troupe production of "South Pacific," which opens at the Athenaeum Theater in Chicago Wednesday for a nine-day engagement.

Starring as Nellie Forbush is Dawn Lucchese, a senior at Maine East High School in Park Ridge. Also in a lead role as Emile deBecque is Richard Roller, a senior at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

Laura de la Mata, a senior at Maine East and Lou Pontarelli, a senior at Maine West High School in Des Plaines, will sing and dance in the chorus.

About 150 students are included in the cast, orchestra, dancing and singing chorus, technical crew and production staff. They attend public, parochial and private schools in the area.

Tickets are $3 and may be purchased by sending a check and stamped, self-addressed envelope to Chicagoland Theatrical Troupe, 8708 Ridgeway Ave., Skokie, 60076. The performances will be at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and at 7 p.m. Sundays July 10-11, 16-18, 23-25 at the Athenaeum Theater, 2936 N. Southport Ave., Chicago.

Sacred Heart High School

The "Marimead" newspaper at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows, has received a medalist rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Assn.

Several thousand school newspapers participated in the national competition, sponsored by Columbia University, New York. The "Marimead" placed in the top 10 per cent of all participants.

St. Viator High School

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students has named 20 St. Viator High School students to membership. The honor students were nominated for excellence in academic and extracurricular activities.

Members are: Terrence Frett, Richard Roller, Michael Lindsey, James Greisch and Wayne Spychala, all from Arlington Heights; Michael Allare, Wesley Pinchott, Martin Hower, Eugene Grabinski, Conrad Mazeski, William Miller, Patrick Gorman and Michael Schneider, all from Mount Prospect.

Also, Nick Josten, Andrew Ortyn and George Catalona from Palatine; Michael Wood and John Ferroli from Buffalo Grove; Robert Deering, Wheeling; and Nicholas Desmond, Prospect Heights.

Dan Maguire, a senior at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, recently spoke before an AFL-CIO meeting at the Pick Congress Hotel, Chicago, making the 18-year-old the youngest high school student to address the group.

Maguire's purpose was to encourage voter registration and participation during this election year. His presentation was arranged by Frontlash, a confederation of national youth and student organizations which encourage voter registration throughout the country.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23

Mac Arthur Junior High School, Prospect Heights, gave music awards to the following students during their recent spring concert: Mary Mader and Mike Lace were named outstanding instrumental musicians of 1975-76; the Gerald McGovern music scholarship for summer band camp went to John Sarallo and Craig Schachtschneider. Other band camp scholarships were awarded to Keith Brown, Scott Okuno, Carrie Conrad, Kurt Thyreen, Jeff Kintzle, Ticia O'Neil and Laurie Birch.

High School Dist. 207

Maine Township High School recently honored Richard R. Short for his 10th anniversary as superintendent. Short was presented with an engraved pewter tray and a framed resolution expressing appreciation for his service to the school district.

High School Dist. 214

Buffalo Grove High School junior Gerry Rice has been accepted as a member of the Chicago Civic Orchestra. She was recommended for membership by Milton Preves, principal violist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Gerry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rice of Buffalo Grove. She is a member of the North Dist. 214 Symphony Orchestra and the Youth Symphony of Greater Chicago. Gerry is a member of the high school orchestra and a vocalist with the swing choir, "The Expressions."

State tells area road work plan

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

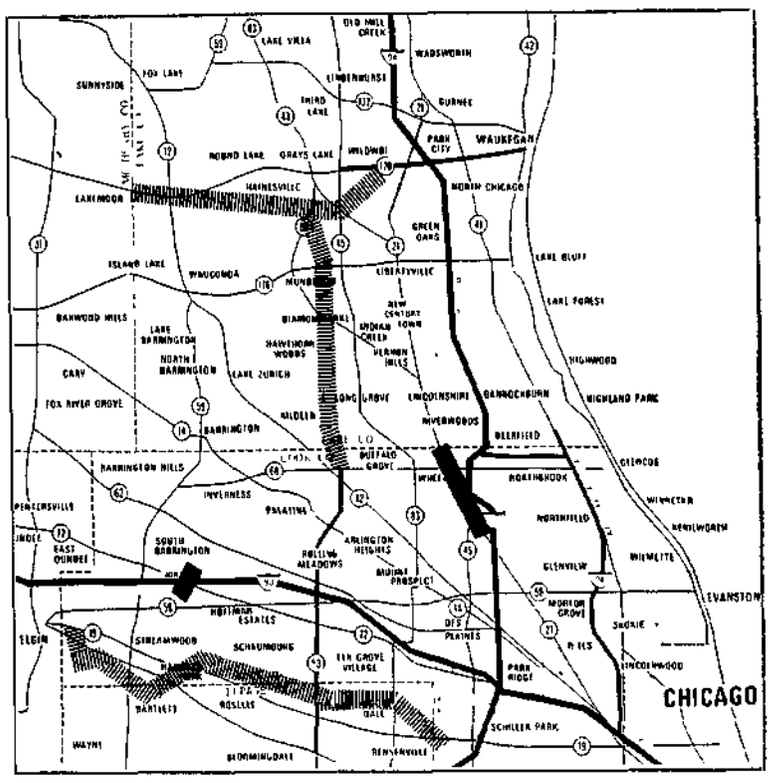

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

Hearing on $322,000 park budget today

The Prospect Heights Park Board will conduct a special public hearing tonight on its proposed $322,704.21 budget for the current 1976-77 fiscal year.

The public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. at the Gary Morava Recreation Center, 110 W. Camp McDonald Rd.

The park board is expected to approve the budget after hearing questions and comments from park district residents.

Park district residents will pay about $10 more in taxes to support the proposed budget, which reflects the additional expense of operating the new Morava recreation center, paying a first full payment on bonds that were sold to finance the center's construction, and the levying of new police and museum taxes.

LAST YEAR'S $190,591.82 park district budget was supported by a tax rate of 51.7 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation

The tax rate will increase to 62.4 cents per $100 assessed valuation during the current fiscal year, which began April 1, to support the proposed budget.

The 10.7 cent increase will mean a park district resident with a house assessed at $10,000 will pay about $62 in annual taxes instead of $51 paid to the district last year.

This year, the district will pay out $141,513.75 in its first full payment on the bonds sold as a result of a successful 1974 referendum on the new recreation center. The district paid $92,424.82 on the bonds in 1975-76.

THE DISTRICT also will set aside $9,250 in a special police fund to cover the cost of contracting for extra security service from the City of Prospect Heights.

The park district also will receive $5,500 in museum funds this year to operate a nature center on Elmhurst Road, north of Camp McDonald Rd.

The park district expects to receive revenues from programs, handball-racquetball, swimming pool and membership fees to finance the new budget.

The Prospect Heights Park District serves about 13,000 residents. Its boundaries, which do not coincide with the new City of Prospect Heights, are generally Hintz Road on the north, Euclid Avenue on the south, Wolf Road on the east and Waterman Avenue on the west.

Chuck Wagon Day slated at Maryville

The fifth annual Chuck Wagon Day to raise funds for Maryville Academy in Des Plaines will be held from 2 to 8 p.m. June 27.

About 35 Chicago sports figures will attend the event and will compete in volleyball and other games. Ernie Banks, Stan Mikita, Tony Zale, Abe Gibron, Bob Love, Ron Santo and Gary Huff are among those scheduled to attend.

Maryville is a residence for children who are wards of the state. The facilities include a home for 325 children in Des Plaines, group homes in Chicago and Maywood, and a camp in Clearwater Lake, Wis.

The Chuck Wagon Day will be held at the Des Plaines campus, Central and River roads. Refreshments will be served and entertainment will include bands, booths with prizes, rides and clowns. Door prizes also will be given away.

Workshop in magic June 22 for kids

The Prospect Heights Public Library will offer a magic workshop for children ages 11 and older beginning June 22.

The classes will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays until July 13. The cost is $20 per person to cover material costs.

Students will learn prop construction, sleight of hand and theory of illusion.

Children can be registered for the course at the Prospect Heights Public Library, Camp McDonald Road and Elm Street weekdays from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The class is open to youngsters living outside the library district.

Bike club sets meet, ride

The Mount Prospect Bicycle Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Lions Park, 411 S. Maple St., for a bike ride. A program will follow at 7:30 p.m. featuring Keith Kingbay, social cycling activities director for Schwinn Bicycle Co.

The bike ride and meeting are free to the public.

On Sunday, the bicycle club will meet at 10 a.m. at Broadhead, Wis., to travel the Sugar River Trail to New Glarus. The trip is free to the public.

Museum dirctor named

Gertrude Francek, 505 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect, has been named director of the Mount Prospect Historical Society Museum. The museum is to be dedicated at noon July 3.

As one of the historical society's charter members, Mrs. Francek has served as a society officer and on the Board of Directors since its creation in 1968.

She is the granddaughter of John Conrad Moehling, one of Mount Prospect's founding fathers, and has been involved in collecting history of her family and of Mount Prospect since she was 17. Mrs. Francek hopes, someday, to publish a book of her historical findings.

Club gives $250 to seniors

The Mount Prospect Woman's Club recently donted $250 to the village's Senior Citizen Fund to honor senior citizens in the Bicentennial.

Anton Dvylis, president of the senior citizens advisory council, said the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors has allocated $2,247 in federal revenue sharing funds providing for 100 chairs and 20 tables for the new senior citizen center. The center will be located at 14 E. Busse Ave., where the old Mount Prospect library now stands.

Dunne proposes $3 head tax on employes

by WANDALYN RICE

A $3 employe head tax on all businesses in Cook County and a "Cook County Revenue-Sharing Program" were proposed Monday by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Hearings will be held within the next two weeks on the proposal, which would generate $54 million in new revenue, $36 million of which would be given to cities and villages and $18 million to the county under Dunne's proposal.

The new tax would be imposed using the home-rule power granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution. County officials said they hope the tax will be approved and go into effect Oct. 1.

DUNNE'S PROPOSAL would require all businesses in the county with more than 15 employes to pay a $3 tax for each employe. The tax is identical to one which has been in effect in Chicago for about two years.

Dunne said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed the city would repeal its tax, at the time the county adopts it, in return for $22.7 million in revenue from the county tax.

Dunne said the county would get $18 million for its operating budget under the new tax, enough to solve the county's problems with the 1977 budget without increasing property taxes.

Dunne had said last January, when the county's 1976 budget was approved, the county would need new taxes to balance its 1977 budget. County employes received no cost-of-living raises in the 1976 budget.

DUNNE SAID Monday the new revenue from the head tax will allow cost-of-living raises to county employes to compensate for the lack of raises this year.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect raised questions about the tax, saying it might drive business from the county.

Hansen said he is concerned that county businesses will follow the example of Chicago businesses since the city tax was enacted. Businesses have said they would move out of the city. "To include the county in this tax could cause a significant loss of jobs," he said.

Hansen also said he is concerned about possible conflicts which may arise if municipalities in the county become dependent on county government for money under the revenue-sharing program.

"I question whether municipalities shouldn't decide for themselves what their revenue needs are instead of relying on the county," Hansen said.

DUNNE SAID he does not believe the tax will drive business and industry out of the county because, "It will be a cost of doing business and they will be able to deduct it on their federal income tax."

Dunne said that before proposing the head tax he and his staff studied the possibility of imposing a stock transfer tax or of legalizing off-track betting in the county.

The county first imposed a new tax under its home-rule program last year when it imposed a liquor tax over the objections of the liquor dealers' associations. The liquor tax will bring the county an estimated $18 million this year.

What's your town's cut?

Municipalities in Cook County would receive funds from the proposed $3 county employe head tax in proportion to their population.

Chicago would receive an estimated $23 million from the tax.

Following are the county estimates of the amounts Northwest suburban communities would receive from the tax. Prospect Heights is not included because 1970 census figures are used in the estimates and the city had not been incorporated.

Arlington Heights	$438,500
Buffalo Grove	$ 67,400
Des Plaines	$386,800
Elk Grove Village	$165,600

Police told to enforce curfew law

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night directed the police department to begin immediate enforcement of the State of Illinois curfew law.

The board of trustees also directed Village Atty. Jack Siegel to draft a local curfew ordinance patterned after one used by the City of Chicago. The action was recommended by the village's Zero Vandalism Committee.

The State of Illinois juvenile curfew statute sets curfew for persons under 17 years of age at 11 p.m. on Sunday through Thursday and at midnight on Friday and Saturday.

NEITHER STATE nor local curfew regulations have been enforced since October 1975 when the Second Dist. Appellate Court of Illinois ruled curfew laws were unconstitutional, saying they restricted freedom of movement without proper justification.

The Illinois Supreme Court is expected to rule on the controversial issue this fall.

Siegel said the appellate court ruling "was not a very well thought out opinion" because it does not cite any Illinois cases. He predicted the state's supreme court will overturn the decision.

Siegel also said Arlington Heights and other communities in the First District are not bound by the appellate court decision from another district.

THE BOARD ALSO showed support for adopting a local curfew law similar to the one enforced in Chicago. That ordinance allows police to pick up juveniles after curfew hours and transport them to their homes.

"The advantage of a local ordinance is that the village would then be responsible for its prosecution," Siegel said.

If a person is arrested under a state statute, the prosecution is left up to the state's attorney, Siegel said.

"With a local ordinance, we would be more in control of the situation," he said.

The curfew regulations were recommended by the Zero Vandalism Committee in hopes that summertime vandalism will be reduced.

LAST YEAR one-third of the homeowners in Arlington Heights were affected by vandalism, Trustee Robert Miller reported.

"The problems are starting already with the warm weather. The police reported more than 20 acts of vandalism over the weekend," Miller said.

Both police and parents are in favor of curfew laws to help deter vandalism, he said.

The board of trustees also showed support for the antivandalism committee's recommendation that the village pass a local ordinance saddling parents with the responsibility for acts of vandalism committed by their children.

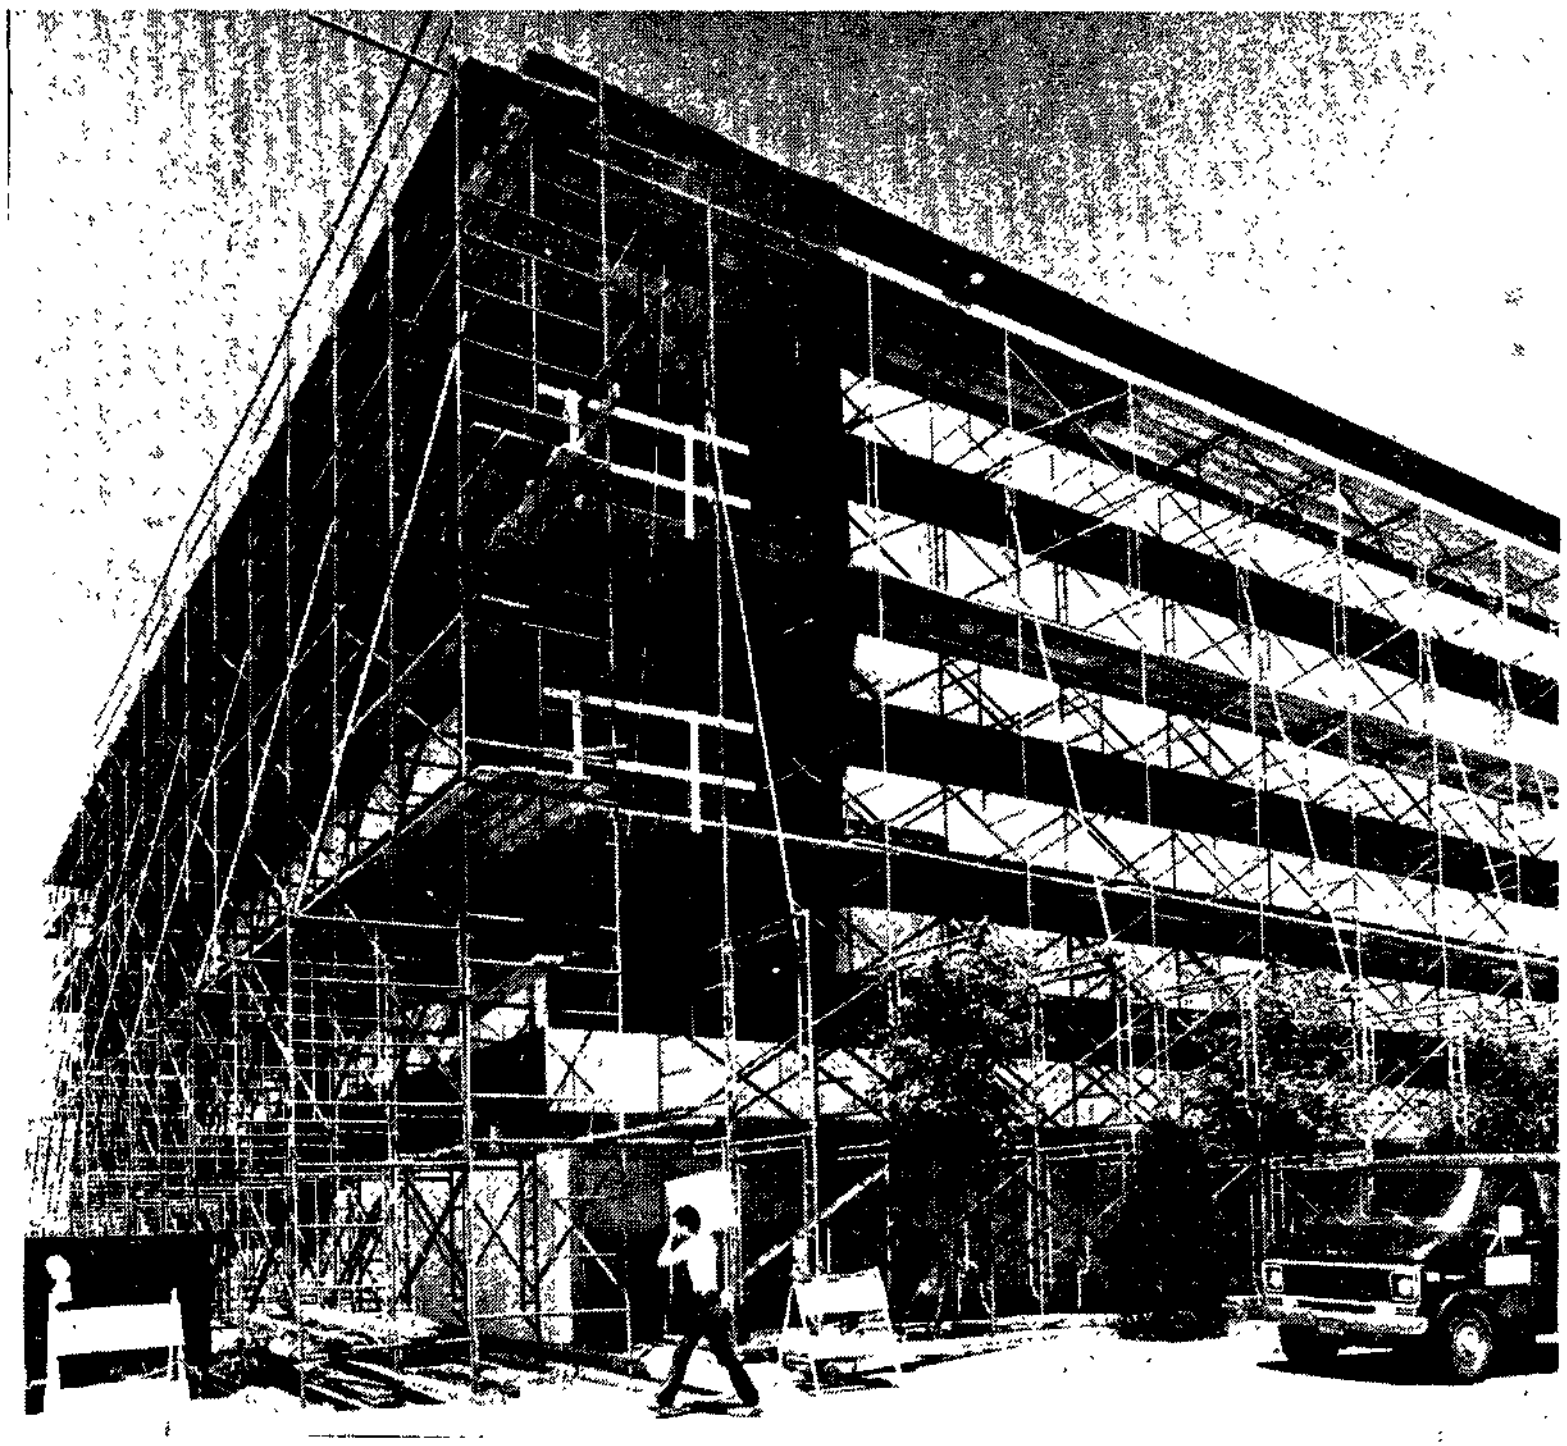

Library growth, finances topic of meet today

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library Board will discuss the expansion of the library and its financing at their meeting today.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. in the library board room, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

Funds for the expansion of the library were approved in a bond referendum in February. The library directors will discuss the maturity schedule for the bonds in addition to creation of a construction fund account and expenditure of the materials bonds.

An agreement with the Burns Electronic Security Services is slated for discussion. Last week the library installed an electronic theft detection system designed to cut losses of library materials.

WALKING THE PLANKS. Scaffolding surrounds the Northwest Medical Arts Building, 1100 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, where workers are replacing windows in the all-glass building to stop leaks in the building's exterior.

Zoners OK North School tenant

The Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals voted unanimously Monday to approve the location of the Northwest Opportunity Center in North School.

The board's action, which will be sent to the village board for final consideration, does not change the zoning of the old school building at 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd. The land use variation, recommended by the zoning board, would be nullified if the Northwest Opportunity Center vacated the school building.

Michael G. Raimondi, the center's executive director, said the building would be used to house the Head Start preschool program, social services, food stamp certification, legal assistance offices and referral services.

SHARING THE SCHOOL building will be the Summit School, a private school for children with learning disabilities.

The building is being leased to the two agencies by Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education for $20,000 per year. Dist. 25 will vacate the building because of changing attendance boundaries within the district.

The Northwest Opportunity Center will use the west wing of the school, formerly used for the kindergarten classes, the second floor and the playground. The Summit School will use the basement and first floor areas, said James Monroe, Dist. 25 director of buildings and maintenance.

Summit School officials did not appear before the zoning board. Martin Munson, village director of building and zoning, said the Summit School's use of the building did not vary from the zoning established for the elementary school.

THE ZONING BOARD, however, attached a rider to their approval calling for Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel to give a legal opinion on whether Summit meets the existing zoning standards.

The Northwest Opportunity Center is now located in the village industrial park at 8 W. College Dr.

Raimondi said the center wanted to move to a more centralized and more visible location. He said the North School building met those standards in addition to being known in the past as a community service building.

Lebanese conflict escalates to war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian MIG jets strafed Beirut with missiles Monday and a column of Damascus' tanks and troops pushing across Lebanon's central mountains ran into heavy rocket and mortar fire from Moslem leftists.

Fierce fighting on four fronts mushroomed the conflict over Syria's intervention in Lebanon to all-out war.

Rival factions battled in the smoking streets of the capital and civilians ran for cover while mortars and shells slammed into houses and shops throughout the city.

Beirut's airport, in the middle of a no-man's-land of battling guerrillas, was closed until further notice, cutting off the city's contact with the outside world.

A Damascus Radio broadcast monitored in Cairo, meantime, said a cease-fire was organized in Lebanon's civil war to take effect at 11 p.m. Monday (5p.m. EDT) but a Palestinian spokesman in Cairo discounted the report.

Damascus radio said, "A committee is to be set up immediately by the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) to take the necessary measures for policing the truce.

Palestinian spokesmen said Syria brought two fresh battalions of armored troops into Lebanon Monday to strengthen the invasion force of 12,000 men already in the country. Rightist and independent sources could not confirm the report, however.

A strike force of several hundred Syrian troops and about 20 tanks

Schools

St. Paul Lutheran School

St. Paul Lutheran School, 18 South St., Mount Prospect, will graduate 22 eighth graders at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the school gymnasium.

"The Future of Tomorrow Starts Today" is the theme for the three student speakers, Ruth Hemmeter, Andy Virnich, and Bill Curtis, and the guest speaker, Wayne Schwanke, principal of St. Paul Lutheran School, Janesville, Wis.

St. Zachary School

St. Zachary School, Des Plaines, recently presented "This Is My Country," directed by Charlene Hyman, to highlight the major events in our country's history.

The program of poetry and song included such classics as "Columbus," "Paul Revere's Ride," "Yankee Doodle," "Home on the Range," J.F.K.'s Inaugural Address, dancing Indians, "The Gettysburg Address," war tunes and excerpts from Dr. Martin Luther King's "I Have A Dream."

The production ended with a patriotic rendering of "God Bless America" sung by the students and the audience.

Chippewa Junior High School

More than 220 eighth-grade students will graduate from Chippewa Junior Higs School at 7:30 p.m. today in the school auditorium, 123 Eighth St., Des Plaines.

The Rev. E. H. Pendergrass of Church of Christ in Elk Grove Village, will give the invocation, which will be followed by a "Patriotic Symposium in Speech and Song" performed by the graduating class.

Chippewa Principal James A. Roy will present the class and Des Plaines Dist. 62 Supt. Eric A. Sahlberg will accept the class.

Board member James N. Kosmond will be the guest speaker. Students Raymond M. Gunn and George J. Fitzgerald will introduce the graduates.

Diplomas will be presented by two board members, Stuart D. Kisten and Kosmond.

In general . . .

Marion Mason and Lorraine Gorman both of Arlington Heights, are charter members of the newly organized Library Technical Assistants at the College of Du Page, 22nd Street and Lambert Rd., Glen Ellyn.

Ms. Mason is the corresponding secretary for the group which represents students, alumni and interested persons in the college's library technician training curriculum. Those interested in the organization may call, 971-1367.

Four Northwest suburban high school students will perform in the Chicagoland High School Theatrical Troupe production of "South Pacific," which opens at the Athenaeum Theater in Chicago Wednesday for a nine-day engagement.

Starring as Nellie Forbush is Dawn Lucchese, a senior at Maine East High School in Park Ridge. Also in a lead role as Emile deBecque is Richard Roller, a senior at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

Laura de la Mata, a senior at Maine East and Lou Pontarelli, a senior at Maine West High School in Des Plaines, will sing and dance in the chorus.

About 150 students are included in the cast, orchestra, dancing and singing chorus, technical crew and production staff. They attend public, parochial and private schools in the area.

Tickets are $3 and may be purchased by sending a check and stamped, self-addressed envelope to Chicagoland Theatrical Troupe, 8708 Ridgeway Ave., Skokie, 60076. The performances will be at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and at 7 p.m. Sundays July 10-11, 16-18, 23-25 at the Athenaeum Theater, 2936 N. Southport Ave., Chicago.

Sacred Heart High School

The "Marimead" newspaper at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows, has received a medalist rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Assn.

Several thousand school newspapers participated in the national competition, sponsored by Columbia University, New York. The "Marimead" placed in the top 10 per cent of all participants.

St. Viator High School

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students has named 20 St. Viator High School students to membership. The honor students were nominated for excellence in academic and extracurricular activities.

Members are: Terrence Frett, Richard Roller, Michael Lindsey, James Greisch and Wayne Spychala, all from Arlington Heights; Michael Allare, Wesley Pinchott, Martin Hower, Eugene Grabinski, Conrad Mazeski, William Miller, Patrick Gorman and Michael Schneider, all from Mount Prospect.

Also, Nick Josten, Andrew Ortyn and George Catalona from Palatine; Michael Wood and John Ferroli from Buffalo Grove; Robert Deering, Wheeling; and Nicholas Desmond, Prospect Heights.

Dan Maguire, a senior at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, recently spoke before an AFL-CIO meeting at the Pick Congress Hotel, Chicago, making the 18-year-old the youngest high school student to address the group.

Maguire's purpose was to encourage voter registration and participation during this election year. His presentation was arranged by Frontlash, a confederation of national youth and student organizations which encourage voter registration throughout the country.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23

Mac Arthur Junior High School, Prospect Heights, gave music awards to the following students during their recent spring concert: Mary Mader and Mike Lace were named outstanding instrumental musicians of 1975-76; the Gerald McGovern music scholarship for summer band camp went to John Sarallo and Craig Schachtschneider. Other band camp scholarships were awarded to Keith Brown, Scott Okuno, Carrie Conrad, Kurt Thyreen, Jeff Kintzle, Ticia O'Neil and Laurie Birch.

High School Dist. 207

Maine Township High School recently honored Richard R. Short for his 10th anniversary as superintendent. Short was presented with an engraved pewter tray and a framed resolution expressing appreciation for his service to the school district.

High School Dist. 214

Buffalo Grove High School junior Gerry Rice has been accepted as a member of the Chicago Civic Orchestra. She was recommended for membership by Milton Preves, principal violist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Gerry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rice of Buffalo Grove. She is a member of the North Dist. 214 Symphony Orchestra and the Youth Symphony of Greater Chicago. Gerry is a member of the high school orchestra and a vocalist with the swing choir, "The Expressions."

State tells area road work plans

by STEVE BROWN

Expressway land acquisition and road repaving represent the major projects planned for the Northwest suburbs by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, according to the agency's $543 million, fiscal 1977 highway construction plant.

The building plan, which was unveiled Monday in Springfield, includes area proposals to:

- Acquire right-of-way for the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, which runs through Schaumburg and near Elk Grove Village;
- Widen the bridge which carries Ill. Rte. 72 over I-90, west of Hoffman Estates.
- Acquire right-of-way for an extension of Ill. Rte. 53, north of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Buffalo Grove.
- Repave five miles of Milwaukee Avenue between Sanders and Lake-Cook roads north of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and near Wheeling.

An IDOT spokesman said the projects are part of the department's road construction plans which begin July 1.

HE SAID THE work must first be approved by the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Daniel Walker.

There are no estimates available on the cost or the amount of land to be purchased for the right-of-way acquisition projects.

The Milwaukee Avenue repaving work will cost an estimated $1.325 million.

The bridge project, which will widen that structure from two to four lanes, carries a $2 million price tag, an IDOT spokesman said.

THE LAND ACQUISITION is part of a $7 million package for IDOT's District 1, which includes all of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The announcement of the road construction plan, which is part of IDOT's $1.9 billion fiscal 1976-77 budget, will enable the legislature to begin consideration of the entire package.

House and Senate consideration are certain to be protracted affairs with legislators attempting to trim spending in some areas, while promoting projects in their own district.

A major fight is brewing about $122 million appropriation for the Regional Transportation Authority. Suburban Republican members o the House have vowed to strip the funds from the bill.

THE SUBURBAN Republicans, who have gained some Democratic support, see the effort as the only way the suburbs can get a fair share of funds from the RTA.

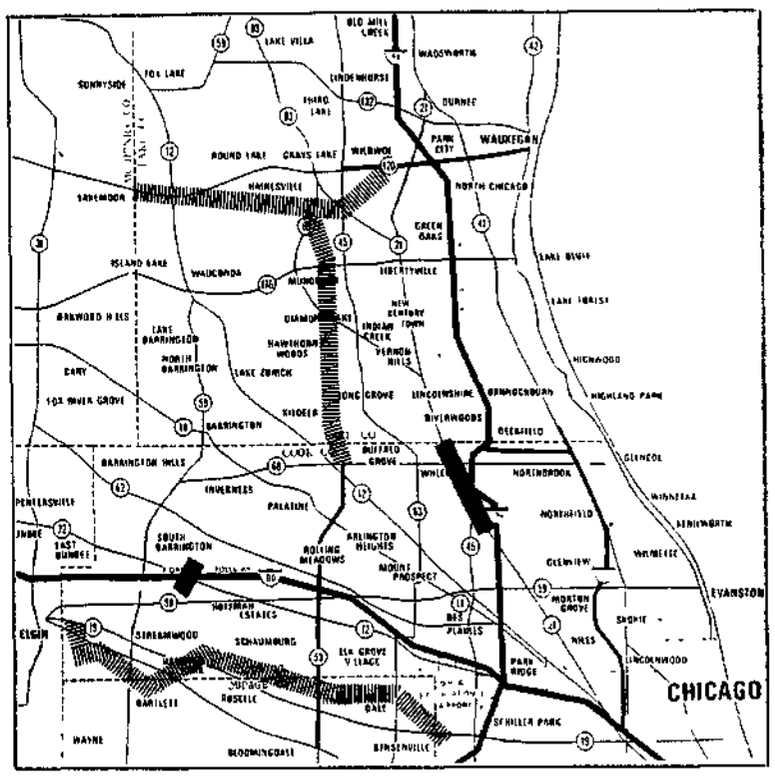

In announcing the IDOT program, Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said the construction proposal is the "largest in the nation for the second straight year."

Bond also said the plan will allow Illinois to complete its 1,707 mile share of the federal Interstate Highway system by June 30, 1977.

He said that of the $543 million, $245.9 million is federal funds while the bulk of the remainder comes from the state tax on gasoline.

Bond said the number of bridges to be repaired in the next year is the largest ever planned in the state. Nearly $43 million is allocated for bridge rehabilitiation. The bulk of the work is aimed at bridges on township or county roads which carry school buses.

The largest portion of the IDOT road budget is $10 million for the state's share of a bridge between St. Louis and Monroe County, just south of East St. Louis.

STATE HIGHWAY construction plans for the Northwest suburbs include four major projects. Land acquisition is represented by the dotted line, while construction work is noted as solid lines on the map.

Bid to kill unit law service turned back in Dist. 59 vote

by PAM BIGFORD

Two members of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education pressed unsuccessfully Monday night to drop legal services involving a unit district referendum because of an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which indicates employing the law firm may be illegal.

Board member Charles Canupp asked the board to release the services of the law firm Reid, Oschenschlage, Murphy and Hupp which was retained for legal advice on bringing the question of forming a unit district to a referendum.

The Scott opinion, pertaining to a unit district controversy in Vermilion County, stated that school boards are not authorized to spend district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit district.

CANUPP SAID the community of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed unit district petitions should pay for legal advice.

Canupp's resolution to drop the law firm was defeated 5 to 2. Canupp and fellow member Paul Kucharski voted to support the resolution.

The board unanimously passed a resolution to cooperate in providing citizens "with all the pertinent facts" concerning the formation of a unit district.

High School Dist. 214 has voiced opposition to a unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from the district and place them under Dist. 59 control.

BOARD PRES. Judith Zanca said Dist. 59 Atty. Frank Hines has not seen the entire Scott opinion but has told her that in his opinion board expenditures before a public hearing on a unit district are legal. Mrs. Zanca said Hines will report further to the board after he studies the opinion.

Kucharski said he called Scott's office and talked to William Wallin, a staff member, who said, "In no uncertain terms, any action toward that (unit district) study that involves citizens funds is in Scott's opinion illegal."

Mrs. Zanca said Hines based his opinion on information from the Illinois Office of Education. The school board always has operated under the guidelines of the IOE, she said.

"Scott has one opinion and the IOE has another opinion. We (the board) operate under the opinion of the IOE, and until you get into a court of law, you just have two different opinions," Mrs. Zanca said.

Beautification unit sponsors village tour

The Arlington Beautification Council will have a tour of the village on Saturday to determine areas that warrant beautification.

Interested citizens, trustees and village officials have been urged to attend the bus tour, which is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

Pools open full-time beginning Saturday

Pools operated by the Arlington Heights Park District will open full-time for the summer on Saturday.

The heated pool at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., will be open evenings until Saturday when the regular summer schedule begins.

The other district pools are at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr.; Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott Dr.; Heritage Park, 506 W. Victoria Ln., and Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.

Police protection contract to be OKd

A one-year renewal of the police protection contract with Barrington is expected to be approved by the Inverness Village Board tonight.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. at the fieldhouse on Highland Road.

The proposed $68,000 contract is an increase of $8,000 to cover increased wages and a decreaee in funding from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

The contract pays for 6,500 hours of police patrol. Inverness previously contracted with the Village of Palatine for police protection.

St. Edna's blood drive

St. Edna's Parish, 2525 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, will conduct a blood drive from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Appointments may be made by calling 392-6549.

New Scarsdale officers

Newly elected officers of the Scarsdale Property Owners' Assn. are: John Chamberlain, president; Pat Scudder, vice president; Nancy Richardson, secretary; and Robert Arnold, treasurer.

Russell Colvin, Raymond Funk and Mitzi Johnson were elected directors.

Dist. 59 OKs private summer class

Sponsorship of summer school programs by private individuals and organizations was approved Monday night by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

The board approved guidelines drawn up by the administration stating that the programs must be sponsored by a recognized organization within Dist. 59, must be approved by the administration and must employ Dist. 59 teachers.

Several band groups and some reading and math teachers asked to use district schools for summer programs after the board last month canceled summer school for this year. The state board of education has indicated the state will not be able to fund summer school as it has in past years.

Free driver course offered by Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 will provide a tuition-free program in driver education this summer.

The Dist. 214 Board of Education had voted to charge students $22 in tuition for the program. School officials reversed the decision after the legal department of the Illinois Office of Education ruled that driver education is a normal part of the educational program and the Illinois Constitution requires that a free public education be provided.

Tuition fees paid by students registered for summer driver education classes will be refunded at the high schools.

Columbo pleads innocent to triple murder charge

by JOHN MAES

Patricia Columbo pleaded innocent Monday to an indictment charging her with the murders last month of her father, mother and brother in their Elk Grove Village home.

Through her attorneys, Miss Columbo, 19, entered the plea during an arraignment before presiding Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald.

A county grand jury last week indicted the former Elk Grove High School student with six counts of murder and three other counts alleging conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The Columbos — Frank, 42, Mary, 40, and Michael, 13 — were found shot, stabbed and bludgeoned to death May 7 in their home, 55 E. Brantwood Ave.

DURING A BRIEF court session, Judge Fitzgerald transferred defense and prosecution motions for discovery to Judge Phillip Romiti for a ruling today.

Public defenders representing Miss Columbo also withdrew two other motions to impound tape recordings of police radio transmissions and stenographer's notes of statements Miss Columbo made to authorities after her May 15 arrest.

The motion was designed to prevent the materials from being altered or destroyed, the attorneys said.

Public Defender William Swano said the state's attorney's office, however, had complied with the request and the materials have been turned over to the defense.

The contents of the tapes and notes were not revealed because of Judge Fitzgerald's May 25 order barring attorneys from discussing the case with the news media.

Miss Columbo is being held in lieu of $250,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court today.
